In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

The fourth round of the throne speech debate finds me with a slight ringing in my ears, result of listening to seven Tuesday contributions, each the length of a revival sermon but not all as lively.

Our damn-the-torpedos premier seems to be rushing the ship of state along at top speed; unless he relents, we expect another late night on Thursday.

Meanwhile, Socred Waldo Skillings of Victoria led off today, picking up where his party mate, Jacob F. Hahn for Peace River North, sat down at 11 p.m. on the third day of this whirligig debate.

On Tuesday, the government's medicare plan was hit and hit again from the opposition benches. Also, the Senate which last year turned thumbs down on the Bennett Bank of British Columbia came under cold Socred and NDP scrutiny.

Simplest, and certainly most drastic proposal for dealing with the Grand Old Men of Ottawa, came from durable Frank Calder, NDP member for Atlin and hereditary chief of the Skeena River Nishkas.

Mr. Calder's recipe: whip the rug out from under 'em.

"This is one body of our democratic system we can well do without," he said. "If we can legislate for the operation and administration of our provincial affairs without the sanction of a Senate, so can the federal administration."

In a spirit of agreement not too common between factions in the House, Cyril Shelford, SC, Omineca, gave partial support to Mr. Calder's off-with-their-heads proposal.

His view, he told MLAs when he rose to speak for a riding to be covered only by a 1,500-mile swing, is that the Senate should be elected or abolished.

★ ★ ★

Most of the day, however, was given to less hellfire proposals. In fact, Speaker William Harvey Murray's gavel lay idle save for an evening rap or two. So far in a session marred only by minor exchanges, we are chiefly reminded of the Legislature's referee when he paces in black gown and tricorn hat into his oaken cave at the head of the House.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner did let the switchblade peep from the velvet glove once, in an afternoon exchange with NDP David Barrett, Dewdney, over the B.C. probation service.

Otherwise, his contribution to debate flowed smoothly along, pleasant as always to the listener, but just a trifle short on sparkle.

★ ★ ★

Trade and Commerce Minister Ralph Loffmark, his 1964 portfolio still scarce-scarred, launched the evening sitting with a pitch for a hotted-up trade with Japan, then moved on somewhat at random from forest products to agriculture to power.

"Each salmon running up the Fraser River is worth $200 in unused power," declared Mr. Loffmark. "On the proceeds of that power, if we ignored the salmon, we could retire all the commercial fishermen in B.C. . . . not that we intend to do that!"

(When he is older in his ministry, Mr. Loffmark will know better than to scare the gizzard out of our commercial fishing industry — worth $90 million a year—with such sinister illustrations. The fishermen are worried enough about power encroachment already.)

In fairness, though, Mr. Loffmark's speech made the best listening of the day, and his comparisons never fail to be graphic.

LEADERSHIP MEETING FAVORED BY TORIES?

TORONTO (UPI) — National Conservative president Dalton Camp today discounted a report that his poll of the Tory national executive committee was running two-to-one in favor of a special meeting to consider calling a leadership convention.

The report of the two-to-one percentage of replies so far was, he said, "entirely without foundation and somewhat without relevance."

'Lay Off Rivard Case' Favreau Told Rouleau

PAYING HOMAGE to Sir Winston Churchill's memory at Westminster Hall in London today were thousands of mourners who filed past the catafalque in two lines. Funeral is Saturday.

CIVIL RIGHTS TRIO ARRESTED

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—Three white civil rights workers were arrested today after they refused to get away from a line of Negroes seeking to register as voters.

Sheriff's deputies took the three in custody after a U.S. marshal ordered them away from the prospective voters.

Brother of MP Gives Evidence

MONTREAL (CP) — Raymond Rouleau testified today that his brother, Liberal MP Guy Rouleau, told him that Justice Minister Favreau had given instructions to lay off the Rivard case because it was "too hot."

He also told the Dorion inquiry that he is afraid of narcotics conspiracy suspect Lucien Rivard and "his gang."

The Dorion inquiry is investigating allegations of attempted bribery and influence-peddling by federal ministerial aides aimed at getting Rivard released from Bordeaux Jail on bail. (See also Page 3.)

Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne, acting for the U.S. government in Rivard's extradition hearings here, has testified that he was offered $20,000 to drop opposition to bail for Rivard.

Raymond Rouleau, 39-year-old insurance adjuster, said he was told by his brother: "Don't touch that (the Rivard case). It's too dangerous."

He said he agreed to Mrs. Rivard's request that he approach his MP-brother, then parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, to look into the possibilities of obtaining bail for Rivard.

He said it was his personal opinion that government authorities in Ottawa could bring pressure to bear on the judge in the extradition hearings. The judge is Mr. Justice Francois Caron.

Knew Three Accused Murderers

Mr. Rouleau, in the witness box for 2½ hours, said he knew Robert Collin and Maurice Poirier and had met Robert Gignac once.

These three are accused of capital murder in the Sept. 17 gangland slaying here of night-club doorman Rocky Brunette.

Mr. Rouleau said that about two weeks after he had asked his brother to look into the Rivard affair, Guy had advised him that Mr. Favreau had given instructions to drop the matter.

Ross Drouin, Conservative party counsel, read from an RCMP report of an interview with Raymond Rouleau which said Mr. Rouleau had told the police that Guy had informed him that he had been advised by Mr. Favreau to forget about the Rivard case because it was "too hot."

Mr. Rouleau said this RCMP account was correct.

Mr. Rouleau, president of the Mille-Iles school board, said he had told his brother he was a friend of Rivard's and that Rivard would help him in municipal elections.

He corroborated the testimony of Rivard that he and Rivard had flown to Ottawa June 17—Rivard had paid both fares — to see Guy Rouleau about the transfer of convict Bob Tremblay from a British Columbia to a Montreal penitentiary.

He said Guy met Rivard in the lounge of the Chateau Laurier hotel in Ottawa but that Rivard had not seen or talked to any minister that day.

He also said his brother was reluctant from the beginning to get involved in the Rivard affair.

'I Didn't Want to Know About It'

He said he (Raymond) had absented himself from the talk because "I didn't want to know anything about it."

RCMP counsel Norman Mathews asked whether Rivard had seen or talked to any cabinet minister while he was in Ottawa June 17 with Raymond Rouleau.

"Definitely not," Mr. Rouleau said, adding that he had been with Rivard all the time during this visit.

Evidence was entered Tuesday to the effect that Rivard had seen a "minister" in Ottawa June 17.

He said Mrs. Marie Rivard, Rivard's 32-year-old wife, and Eddy Lechasseur, 33, fraud suspect and close friend of Rivard, visited him to ask his assistance,

RACE TRACK

Dupuis Case Data Sought In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — A question was placed on the legislative assembly's order paper today asking that the revenue and attorney-general's departments submit records of plans for a race track at St. Luc, Que.

Union Nationale member Paul Allard also asked that any letters written since 1960 by Yvon Dupuis "to the provincial finance minister, the revenue minister, the roads minister or any other provincial minister" regarding the establishment of the track be tabled in the assembly.

Mr. Dupuis resigned as federal minister-without-portfolio Friday.

Roch Deslauriers, a St. Johns, Que., chiropractor, Tuesday described as correct press reports that he turned over $10,000 in cash to Mr. Dupuis while trying to obtain a franchise from Quebec authorities for a race-track at St. Luc.

A revenue department spokesman had no comment Tuesday night about published reports that an RCMP investigation into "the mysterious case of Yvon Dupuis was ordered as a direct result of information supplied to the federal department of justice by the Quebec department of revenue."

Premier Lesage told the assembly Tuesday that he has no doubt about the integrity of revenue department workers. He declined comment on the Dupuis situation because it was still under RCMP investigation.

GATT to Discuss Auto Tariff Deal

GENEVA (Reuters) — A Canada-United States plan to banish automobile tariffs at the manufacturers' level will be discussed by members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade at their March 2 session, a spokesman said today.

But the spokesman of the 60-country GATT emphasized there was no formal protest by any member-country about the proposed duty elimination on vehicles and original assembly parts.

GATT executive secretary Eric Wyndham of Britain suggested the Canada-U.S. deal be included on the agenda and considered in the light of the rights and obligations of GATT members.

CANADA RATES THIRD ON FRIENDSHIP LIST

LONDON (Reuters)—The British public regards the United States as Britain's best friend, The Daily Telegraph reports.

Australia and Canada rank second and third.

The findings were determined by a Gallup poll of representative cross section of Britons, who were asked: "Which country do you regard as Britain's best friend?"

Replies in percentages were: The United States, 56; Australia, 13; Canada, 8.

Other European countries accounted for seven per cent and other British Commonwealth nations for two per cent. Another one per cent voted for African or Asian countries, and 13 per cent voted "don't know."

Wilson Leads Two-Mile Line To Honor Churchill Memory

LONDON (CP) — A line of shivering, solemn mourners stretching back some two miles —led by Britain's Prime Minister Wilson — filed slowly in double file past the coffin of Sir Winston Churchill today.

The body of Britain's 90-year-old man-of-the-century lay in state amid the cold, hushed grandeur of ancient Westminster Hall, the first commoner to lie in state there in this century.

Wilson, his wife and Members of Parliament were the first of many thousands who during the next three days will pass through the hall in tribute to one of England's greatest sons.

Churchill's body lay in a closed coffin on a 10-foot high black-draped catafalque a few steps from the House of Commons which was his historic stage. The coffin will lie there until the state funeral in St. Paul's Cathedral Saturday.

Against the backdrop of great gothic windows, the catafalque held the eye like a magnet.

Towering over the coffin was a golden cross, sparkling in the light of six candles in as many giant candlesticks, one at each corner of the catafalque, one at the head, the sixth at the foot.

Their heads bowed, four motionless officers of Churchill's Royal Navy and Royal Marines stood at the four corners of the catafalque.

Four London police constables —two men and two women— also stood silently near the catafalque, between it and the people as they shuffled past.

Overlooking the scene, high against the west wall, was one naval officer.

Every 20 minutes the guard of honor changed. Army officers and officers of the RAF replaced the officers from the navy and marines.

A gigantic Union Jack covered the coffin. Atop it was a blue and gold cushion. Upon the cushion rested Sir Winston's insignia as a Knight of the Garter —the collar, the star and the garter itself.

Before the catafalque, the prime minister and Mrs. Wilson stopped, turned and bowed.

Then they turned and walked slowly through the hall and out into New Palace Yard.

It was a cold grey morning in keeping with the occasion. A northeast wind whipped in from the nearby River Thames and the distant bleak North Sea, threatening snow.

The prime minister and his wife were followed by Herbert Bowden, leader of the House of Commons, and Mrs. Bowden. Behind them came peers and members of the House of Commons.

Among the first to pay tribute was Field Marshal Earl Alexander of Tunis, one of the wartime prime minister's greatest commanders and former Governor-General of Canada.

After the members of Parliament came members of the royal household, the diplomatic corps, high commissioners and senior government officials.

Behind them a huge crowd edged forward—people from all over Britain, the Commonwealth and foreign lands.

The hall will be opened to the public on a 23-hour-a-day basis.

When the great oaken doors swung open to the public at 9 a.m., the line stretched for three-quarters of a mile and police said more than 5,000 were waiting. It grew rapidly and thousands were in the queue before noon.

Although it was a school day, many children of school age were in the crowd.

The public shuffled through the hall in two lines on either side of the catafalque.

Many halted before the bier, turned, bowed, turned again and moved on.

The silence was remarkable. A few women wept silently.

SUN SHINES THROUGH

Those paying tribute to Sir Winston were from all walks of life—old women from London's east end in head scarves and cloth coats . . . young men in leather jackets . . . veiled women in fur coats . . . old men limping along on walking sticks . . . schoolboys in shorts, their bare knees red from the cold . . . little girls in socks and heavy sweaters . . . a workman in overalls . . .

THEY WEPT, PRAYED

'Least We Could Do,' Says Woman at Bier

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—The famous and the ordinary people of Britain paid their last tributes to Sir Winston Churchill as he lay in state today.

Old men and young girls, veterans with decorations and peers in frock coats, generals and simple commoners — all were strangely moved. Some prayed, others wept.

Most just shuffled past in silence, awed by the dignity, simplicity and power of the scene. Sir Winston's last return to Westminster was grand and sad at the same time.

"That was the least we could do" said an elderly woman as she left the huge 800-year-old Westminster Hall.

WATCH CHANGES

Every 20 minutes a fifth officer raps out a command that shatters sound above the muffled movements of feet — and with slow precision the watch changes.

Members of both houses of Parliament, the royal household and the diplomatic corps were the first to pay homage when the hall's oaken door swung open at 9 a.m.

While limousines of the dignitaries wheeled into New Palace Yard in a never-ending procession, a queue of more than 3,000 ordinary people wound back inside the Parliament Buildings, snaked through a Thames-side park, over Lambeth Bridge and down Lambeth Embankment on the south side of the river. By 11 a.m. when the public was first allowed to go in, the queue was more than a mile long.

First in the queue was 17-year-old Nick Hutchings of the London suburb of Barnes. He wore the badge of a nuclear disarmer and had been waiting with a sleeping bag since just before midnight.

"I think Churchill was the greatest man the world has ever known," he said.

DRINK HOT TEA

The people who waited, all warmly wrapped, drank scalding tea from thermos flasks and read the morning newspapers.

Hundreds of police, many with walkie-talkies strapped on their shoulders, directed crowds to the end of the queue and chalked up notices on blackboards.

Workers erected tents that will serve refreshments for those waiting during the next three days.

U.S. Money Aided Grits, Says John D

SASKATOON (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker threatened Tuesday night to unveil charges that American money helped Liberal political campaigns in 1962 and 1963.

Mr. Diefenbaker said at a Progressive Conservative reception on his way to Ottawa: "An American organizer in Canada under an assumed name had told the Liberals how to attack me.

"I kept silent because I did not want to bring about disunity. The Liberal press started these scurrilous attacks against me. I've never told the story of the 1963 election but that is going to be told soon."

He would not elaborate further but referred to "ministers who left his cabinet because their ambition was greater than their loyalty."

Paris Strike Cuts Power, Transport

PARIS (Reuters)—Thousands of Parisians struggled to work on foot, in army trucks or by hitch - hiking today as the first stages of a two - day state employees' strike cut rail and bus transport to a trickle.

At midnight Tuesday night, the country's 350,000 railworkers went on strike along with 200,000 post office workers, 300,000 teachers and nearly 1,000,000 more including garbage collectors, civil servants, bus crews and subway workers.

Air services were to be restricted for 24 hours from 7 a.m., but mainly within France. International flights were not expected to be affected.

The section of the strike expected to have the greatest effect on the public will be the walkout of 220,000 gas and electricity workers at 9 p.m.

This will cause a cut in power about the same time as the railworkers return to work around midnight tonight.

The effect on France's rail system will be the same as a prolongation of the rail strike, since much of it is electrified.

SUPPLY HOSPITALS

Strikers have promised to leave 15,000 men on duty to assure electricity for hospitals, schools and other vital services.

The stoppage was the second large-scale protest by state employees in seven weeks against the government's wage restraint policy.

In the last big strike Dec. 11, railway workers, teachers, electricity, gas, postal and mine workers stopped work almost simultaneously for 24 hours.

But this time the unions have decided to stagger their protest in an attempt to paralyse state - run industries for two days.

Union leaders are demanding an immediate four - per - cent pay increase for their members.

BATTLE OF BRITAIN PLANES TOO ANCIENT

R.A.F. to Salute 'At Zero Feet'

LONDON (AP) — "The few" whom Sir Winston Churchill immortalized in one of his wartime speeches will salute his passing at ground level.

The RAF reluctantly decided Tuesday that the men and machines who shot the vaunted German Luftwaffe from the skies over Britain 24 years ago are too old to salute from the air.

Since Churchill died last Sunday, the RAF has been checking up on two remaining Spitfires and one Hurricane. It was hoped that they might be able to fly over the capital and dip in salute as the old warrior's body was borne up the River Thames on its last journey.

Flt. Lt. "Nobby" Armstrong —a small boy during the 1940 Battle of Britain—test-flew one of the old Spitfire fighters Tuesday.

TEST SUCCESSFUL

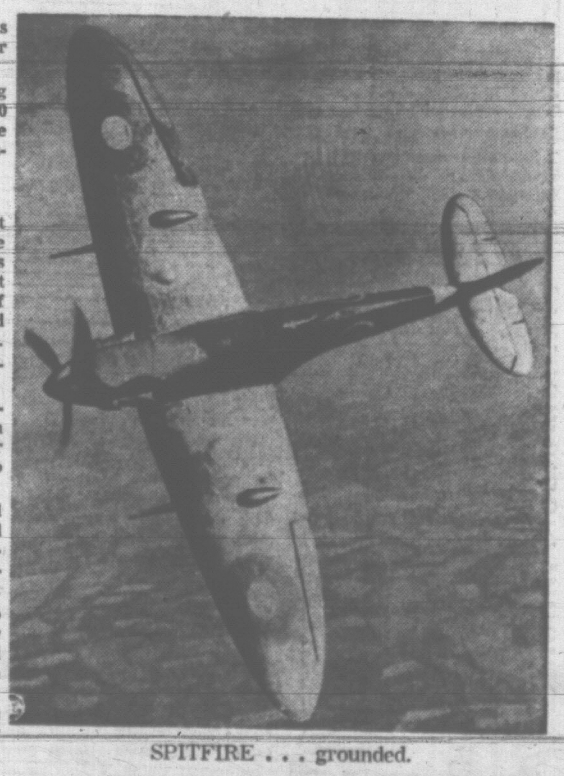

The test went off fine. But eventually the RAF decided the risk was too great. Authorities recalled that in a 1959 flypast commemorating the Battle of Britain, a Spitfire in the lead position made a forced landing.

A defence ministry spokesman explained:

"To fly a single-engine aircraft of this age over London at a low level and in winter weather would involve a risk to the public."

Saturday, the whine of the old piston planes will be replaced by the scream of 16 modern jet-powered Lightning fighters flying over to salute Sir Winston.

And on the ground—"at zero feet"—13 RAF pilots who flew in the Battle of Britain will march in the funeral procession of the man who said of them: "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

ROUND-A-BOUT

The R. E. Murphy family will be at home next year on Jan. 7 and Jan. 25 at 3730 Ascot Drive.

This isn't an invitation so much as a hibernation. Mrs. Murphy's birthday is Jan. 7, her husband's is Jan. 25. On both dates they got presents from City Hall—tickets for overtime parking. On his birthay they got two.

That really put the overalls in the chowder. Next year they stay home.

Organizers of the Victoria Spring Flower Festival want the Victoria Maple Leafs in the hockey playoffs. But not for the usual reasons.

If the Leafs make the playoffs there will be ice in the Arena in April. If they don't the ice will be gone come festival time, April 9-19.

And they need that ice for a special festival hockey game, teams and times to be announced as soon as WHL officials state that is mathematically impossible for the Leafs to miss the money games.

Believe it or not, some spare parts for Model T Fords still exist.

Service station owner Watson Marles found this out when a customer came to him with a problem on his modern truck.

The truck's hood kept flying up and bending. The owner needed a hook to keep it down.

Marles went to a supplier and found Model T fasteners still in stock.

Robert Ludwig, a frequent visitor to Victoria from his office in Vancouver, claims to be something of a gourmet. He is also something of a leg-puller.

For the morning of Burns Day (Monday), he recommended fried haggis on toast, with a sprinkling of Parmesan cheese and hot Scottish mustard.

For lunch he suggests baked haggis on a crusty bun, garnished with onion rings, sauerkraut, pickles, horseraddish and bologna.

"My name should really be McLudwig, he says, "but the Mac got lost somewhere in the 18th century."

Five-year-old Sandra, attended her first full-dress wedding the other evening.

Wide-eyed and attentive, she contemplated the proceedings in respectful silence.

The usually chatty girl was still silent when the bride and groom slipped the rings on.

Not a word was said when the minister chanted the ritual: "I now pronounce you man and wife."

But as the newlyweds turned about to face the assembly and started walking down the aisle, Sandra turned to her mother and asked:

"Is she an old lady now, Mommy?"

If that's your desire, go drive off a cliff, but leave the streets safe for the rest of us.

"I would like to be a pilot of our people who want to go to Canada," says Takeshi Matsunami from the department of agriculture, University of Hokkaido, Sapporo, Japan.

"Recently your government has announced that we Japanese will be able to emigrate to your country with better conditions than ever.

"As I belong to the Emigration Research Club here, I would like to study the real state of your immigration possiblities, because in the future a lot of hopeful Japanese people will go to Canada to seek for a place of better living."

Mr. Matsunami asks for information about living conditions, employment opportunities and housing.

"I would like to stay over there from April to October this year. I am sure that my English is good enough to live with English-speaking people and I can work at anything which does not need any special technique."

Taylor Ponders Military Coup In S. Viet Nam

SAIGON (AP) — South Viet Nam's generals returned Lt.-Gen. Nguyen Khanh to power in a bloodless military coup today, and the Buddhist opposition to the civilian government began jubilant celebrations.

He said the chaos was impeding the war against the Communist Viet Cong.

The coup posed new problems for the United States, which had hoped civilian government could rally the populace behind the war effort.

The U.S. embassy said in a statement:

"Until we can assess more clearly the nature and extent of the important events set in motion this morning, it would be premature for the U.S. mission to comment or render a judgment."

Reliable sources said Khanh and the military council h heads had planned the coup for Feb. 2 but decided to pull it off today because U.S. Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor was on a trip to Laos and Thailand.

By the time Taylor returned to Saigon, Khanh had left the capital for his seaside headquarters at Vung Tau.

"Now it's Taylor or Khanh," a Vietnamese officer said. "One or the other has to go."

Five leading Buddhist monks who had been making a "fast to the death" to bring down Premier Huong officially began eating late this afternoon.

BROADCAST APPEAL

The Buddist hierarchy broadcast an appeal "to all chapters throughout the country" to cease the anti-government campaign.

Authorities prepared for trouble as reports circulated that Buddhist mobs would sack newspapers which opposed the Buddhist campaign against Huong.

Police had orders to use tear gas to disperse them.

promising to help Raimond Rouleau in his "campaigns."

Raymond Rouleau said he called his brother either the same day or the day after Mrs. Rivard's request that he enlist Guy Rouleau's assistance.

He said Guy was reluctant to act but eight or 10 days later told Raymond Rouleau he had arranged a meeting with "Mr. Letendre."

He said Mr. Letendre was supposed to come and see him but never showed up.

He said he had spoken once to an Andre Letendre but that he was not aware at the time that he was executive assistant to Mr. Favreau.

Mr. Letendre had asked him who Rivard was and he had told him he was a friend.

Mr. Letendre had not told him that anything could be done for Rivard.

He said he didn't know Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay, Guy Lord, former special assistant to Mr. Favreau, self-described Liberal organizer Guy Masson or Pierre Lamontagne.

Didn't Want to Discourage Wife

He said Guy Rouleau told him that the Rivard case involved narcotics and that "he had instructions from Mr. Favreau to let it drop."

Raymond Rouleau said he did not tell this to Mrs. Rivard because he did not want to discourage her but had asked that Lechasseur see him.

Raymond Rouleau said that apart from helping in his brother's election campaigns, did not participate in provincial or federal politics.

"I don't believe in either party, red or blue," he said.

Mr. Rouleau admitted under questioning by Ross Drouin, Conservative party counsel, that he is physically afraid of Rivard and his gang.

Mr. Drouin read from an RCMP report of an interview with Raymond Rouleau which quoted the witness as saying his life wouldn't be worth much if Rivard's friends found out he had talked to the Mounties.

Mr. Rouleau said he was afraid of Rivard "and all these people" and that he still is.

It would not affect his testimony, however, he added.

Mr. Drouin asked why Mr. Rouleau had encouraged Mrs. Rivard to think that bail was being arranged for her husband. Was he afraid of Rivard?

Mr. Rouleau said, "who is not afraid of that group?"

He added that he meant all criminal types and he said he had met Robert Collin and a man named Poirier.

He said he never wants to see them again.

TO CHURCHILL

RC Board Defeats Tribute

SHERBROOKE, Que. (CP) — A motion to have flags over Roman Catholic schools in Sherbrooke lowered to half mast in tribute to the late Sir Winston Churchill was defeated by the city's Catholic School Board Tuesday night.

Board member William Steele who had put forward the motion but found no seconder, called the British wartime leader the world's greatest statesman and said: "We might be slaves today if it had not been for Churchill."

But Michel Marengo, another member, said the question of who was the world's greatest statesman would be hard to settle.

"Don't be surprised if you see the flag lowered on St. Patrick High School," Mr. Steele said after the defeat of his motion, referring to Sherbrooke's English - language boys' high school. The flag which would be lowered would be the Quebec fleur-de-lis, he said, since it was the only one the board provided.

Haiti Woos U.S.

PORT - AU - PRINCE (AP) — President Francois Duvalier of Haiti offered Tuesday to resume friendly relations with the United States, which tried to topple him three years ago. The Haitian strongman expressed confidence President Johnson would restore U.S. aid without a formal request. Angered by Duvalier's continued dictatorial rule, the late president Kennedy in 1962 cut off all aid to the impoverished Caribbean nation.

MINISTER FRIEND

Rivard Letter Extends Study

MONTREAL (CP) — Testimony from narcotics conspiracy suspect Lucien Rivard served Tuesday to extend the Dorion inquiry's study to the case of one of Rivard's criminal friends and to involve a "minister" in Ottawa.

The key piece of evidence was a letter Rivard started to his "boyhood pal" Bob Tremblay last June 18. At the time Tremblay was in the federal penitentiary at New Westminster, B.C., serving a 20-year sentence for attempted murder in connection with a narcotics case.

It was the last evidence submitted Tuesday by Commission Counsel Andre Desjardins and its insertion into the record did not prompt any questions from Chief Justice Frederic Dorion, who is conducting the inquiry, or any of the 20-odd lawyers representing various parties variously involved.

The letter's text, read in English by Rivard to the inquiry:

"Dear Bob. Came back from Ottawa yesterday — had a very good interview with the minister — he told me he would have your 'record' sent to him—will have a look at it."

FOUND ON ARREST

The document was discovered among Rivard's belongings when he was arrested June 19 by the RCMP to face charges in the United States connected with a huge narcotics ring said to be controlled by the Mafia crime organization.

Rivard, 49, said the letter was in his handwriting but was never mailed.

Rivard said in testimony Friday that he had gone to Ottawa the week of his arrest with Raymond Rouleau, brother of Liberal MP Guy Rouleau. He said they had seen Guy Rouleau to seek a way of getting his friend Tremblay transferred to St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary and released on parole.

In the Friday evidence there was no mention of a minister.

Rivard said he had mentioned to Tremblay last January during a visit to the New Westminster penitentiary that the prisoner should ask for transfer.

Deputy-Governor Pierre Gariepy of St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary testified that the transfer took place June 29. However, it had been ordered June 1 — two days before Rivard's letter intended for Tremblay.

Mr. Gariepy said Tremblay had first sought a move June 27, 1963.

William Hd. 'Tempted' Dorion Probe Figure

A convict with the same name as one mentioned in the Dorion inquiry last week spent four months at William Head minimum security prison last year.

Warden John Maloney of the B.C. Penitentiary said Robert Tremblay, serving 20 years for attempted murder, was transferred to a penitentiary near Montreal at his recommendation.

Tremblay was transferred from William Head last June after telling the warden he did not feel ready for temptations present at such a setting.

SAW LIBERAL MP

The Dorion inquiry was told by Lucien Rivard that he saw a Liberal MP to ask for help in getting a convict named Bob Tremblay transferred to St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary, near Montreal.

Tremblay was found guilty in 1955 with three others of attempted murder in a gangland beating reportedly connected with the narcotics traffic.

While at Oakalla Prison, near Vancouver, he and two others held a guard at razor point for six hours.

He later attacked a guard in what penitentiary officials called a suicide attempt.

In 1961 he was released from special confinement that had lasted five years.

His behavior improved and he was transferred to William Head last February or March.

MISSING WITNESS Bill Lamy turned up at Dorion inquiry Tuesday after failing to report last week. He was reported to be "travelling" and unable to attend earlier.

8 Syrians to Die

DAMASCUS (CP) — A special military court sentenced eight men to death Tuesday on charges of plotting to overthrow Syria's Socialist government. The sentences came as a merchants' strike against increased socialism entered its third day.

Extradition Rule Near for Rivard

MONTREAL (CP)— A Canadian court decision is near in the extradition case of Lucien Rivard, who has been sitting cellbound in Montreal while trying to avoid a transfer to a Texas jail.

Efforts on Rivard's behalf to get him bail led to appointment of the Dorion judicial inquiry now investigating allegations of a bribery attempt involving a ministerial aide of a Liberal cabinet member in Ottawa.

Rivard, 49, a Montrealer, is accused in a U.S. federal grand jury indictment of being a kingpin conspirator in the smuggling of narcotics in multi - million dollar amounts.

Though postponement has followed postponement in the legal infighting, final arguments are scheduled to be heard Thursday on Rivard's attempt to block extradition by obtaining a writ of habeas corpus, which would free him from jail.

Presiding Judge Francois Caron of Superior Court says he hopes to hand down his judgment the same day.

HEROIN SEIZED

Arrest of Rivard and three other Montrealers was made at the request of U.S. authorities following up the seizure in October, 1963, at the Texas-Mexico border of 76 pounds of heroin with a value on the illicit narcotics market of $56,000,000.

Rivard has been in jail in Montreal since last June 19, with his arrest for extradition following a true bill brought in by the Texas grand jury.

Ever since, he has been fighting extradition and has been unsuccessful in efforts to win bail.

The U.S. indictment says that members of the alleged conspiracy would smuggle heroin into Canada and Mexico, using everything from ocean liners to automobiles, "and thence into the U.S. . . ."

Calling the Doctors

DURING THE TEMPORARY lull in Canada's medicare controversy, Dr. John F. McCreary, dean of medicine at the University of British Columbia, has raised a vitally important question. Where, he asks, is Canada going to get the doctors needed to carry out an adequate health services program?

The dean, citing relevant sections of the Hall Royal Commission report, offers a reasonable answer.

To maintain its existing ratio of doctors to population (1 to 857) Canada needs to register 1,300 new physicians each year. The 12 Canadian medical schools turn out 850. During the last 10 years the difference has been met by immigration of an average of some 450 physicians annually.

That supplementary source, however, is tending to dry up. Doctors who came to Canada because they were dissatisfied with government-sponsored medical services or for economic reasons are finding the situations improving in their home lands. The inflow of doctors from other countries can no longer be considered a stable contribution to the Canadian professional reservoir.

So, says Dr. McCreary, Canada will have to produce more doctors and, he adds, the Hall Report indicates how this can be accomplished.

Among other recommendations it suggests far broader federal financing for the expansion of medical training facilities, subsidies for medical students comparable to those provided through the National Research Council program for physical science students, and a large increase in the number of medical schools in Canada.

These are practical and constructive suggestions. They involve heavy expenditure, of course. But the alternative seems to be a dwindling supply of doctors at the very time when Canada will need more.

What applies to the doctors applies also to others in the health services field — dentists, nurses, pharmacists and others.

The urgent need for action is emphasized because, even if constructive programs are undertaken now, it will take time to build and organize facilities and more time to carry additional medical students through their training periods.

And this is a period in which earlier action by the United States further threatens the Canadian supply. South of the border government and university have combined to expand training institutions. They need teachers and research experts—the same people Canada will need if it is to produce the doctors required in the early future. And the United States can offer high salaries to Canadian teachers.

Here is a problem for which a solution cannot be delayed. Canada should act now so that Canadians, calling for a doctor a few years hence, will have a reasonable chance of finding one to answer the call.

An End to Largesse

IN HIS BUDGET ADDRESS TO Congress this week, President Johnson outlined the specific plan of action through which he hopes to bring about the "Great Society" in the United States.

For the most part it is an inward-looking document. It does not trend back to isolationism in any form, but it is more concerned with domestic affairs and less with foreign affairs than any American budget since before the Second World War.

The president has called for a "very modest" increase in international expenditures. These include not only direct foreign aid but also the cost of maintaining diplomatic and foreign information services, which are to be strengthened, along with support of the United Nations and more funds for the Inter-American Development Bank and the International Monetary Fund.

Total spending in this field in fiscal 1965 is to be $4 billions, just $300 millions more than was actually spent in 1964. Furthermore the president's projected budget for 1966 calls for no increase over the 1965 total.

It is evident that this does not allow for much increase in direct foreign aid payments, that is the type of largesse which the United States has since the war scattered liberally throughout the world and which many countries have come to expect almost as a right. Mr. Johnson will also attempt to further regulate American aid by concentrating efforts "in those less developed countries that are demonstrating the will and determination required to achieve political stability and economic growth."

No longer will foreign aid be used, as it was in the Cold War days, in an attempt to buy friendships. As Mr. Johnson said, "We cannot achieve lasting world peace with armaments alone. Nor can greater world-wide prosperity be bought with money alone. These goals will be achieved only through the hard work, patience, understanding and strength of men of good will everywhere."

President Johnson has made no secret of his belief that the time is past when the United States alone could, or should, bear a heavy burden of foreign aid outlays. Other wealthy, developed nations, he has declared, are capable of contributing more than they do and have just as great an interest in promoting the economic strength of the free world. His budget for international affairs is very much a challenge, therefore, to the relatively well-off and free countries to step up their efforts in helping the under-developed areas.

Attention Highway Builders!

THE ATTENTION OF HIGHway builders might profitably be drawn to the consideration Oak Bay is now giving to an old and gnarled oak.

The oak is condemned by some as a traffic hazard. Some of its branches have fallen close to passers-by in recent years and its condition creates further risks.

But Oak Bay, determined to save the tree, has called in experts to doctor it.

This is in sharp contrast to the action of highway builders here in late years. Of very recent memory is their destruction of a fine dogwood in Saanich—one of the most magnificent of its species on the Island. Earlier splendid trees of this type fell before the highway-makers on the stretch from Langford to Goldstream.

Official Oak Bay earns the respect of its people for its care of trees. In the process it reminds the highway builders that roads do not always have to go string-straight if a curve will spare a sample of nature's loveliness.

And Now the Musical Rug

MR. COR ALDERSHOFF IS A man with a nice eye, if not a good ear, for music.

The designer analyzed a Bach fugue, fed the mathematical pattern into a computer and allowed it to control a weaving loom which produced a harmonious carpet design in shades of brown. The product is now a floor covering in a Netherlands hotel wing.

Now anyone who stumbles over a few bars of Bach in the corridor, literally faces the music.

MORE THAN MEETS THE EYE — By EDWARD CRANKSHAW

Veiled Summit at Warsaw

LAST week's Warsaw get-together of the leaders of the East European Communist bloc was a general summit meeting, and one of great, if still veiled, importance.

It was ostensibly and technically a session of the political consultative committee of the Warsaw Treaty Organization to discuss what counter measures to take if the West persisted in its plans for a Multilateral Nuclear Force.

But, in fact, it was the first full-dress meeting between the new Soviet leaders and their East European opposite numbers.

It is generally understood that one of their prime aims was to discuss inter-party relations, particularly with regard to the Chinese problem and the projected and highly controversial meeting of the 26 parties on March 1.

Khrushchev Reaction

It is also believed by some observers that there was a discussion about the line to be taken over Nikita Khrushchev. It is well known that some (not all) of the East European party leaders, to say nothing of influential comrades farther afield, are still unhappy about the manner of Khrushchev's dethronement. Lately, indeed, there have been a number of small signs that his successors may be having second thoughts about the very determined way in which they transformed him overnight into a non-person.

As for the German problem, the Warsaw meeting was preceded and accompanied by a barrage of anti-Bonn propaganda, calculated to put the concept of any sort of Multilateral Nuclear Force which included West Germany, in the most sinister light.

Compared with this, the communique was moderate, stating simply and flatly the MLF concept was a "grave threat to the cause of peace in Europe and throughout the world." And that if such a force was set up the Warsaw Pact powers would take the necessary counter measures to ensure their own security.

Window Dressing

It did not require a meeting of the whole European Communist top brass, party leaders as well as prime ministers, to produce this resolution—or, indeed, to discuss what to do about Germany: military counter-measures must have been worked out long ago.

But the meeting served as a useful demonstration of the seriousness with which the German problem is regarded in Moscow. Still more in Warsaw, and at the same time it serves as a pretext for gathering all the comrades into one fold for the first time since Khrushchev went.

It was also the first time since long before Khrushchev went that the Rumanian party leader, Georghiu Dej, very much at loggerheads with the Soviet party, permitted himself to behave like a full-time member of the East European bloc. The German problem gave a useful excuse for attending a meeting without appearing to go halfway to meet the Russians on the points at issue between his country and theirs.

And, indeed, the promptness with which he went home once the official meeting was over suggests that his major quarrel has not been patched up, and there is lively division behind the facade of unity.

In this connection it is worth noting that the Poles themselves have still not officially agreed to attend the March meeting, and their reluctance is representative of the feeling in many parties outside the bloc including the British Communist Party. These want to see nothing done to formalize the split by driving China and her growing army of supporters into the wilderness.

With only six weeks to go to the meeting, the Chinese have broken the tacit agreement that both sides should refrain from polemics and are making it clear that they will make no concession for the sake of the appearance of unity—their design at the moment evidently being to strengthen the hand of all those comrades who are against such a meeting because they feel that nothing can come of it but the break-up of the world Communist movement.

For, the next two days after the Warsaw meeting, according to Tass, the Soviet and Polish leaders and their ministers of defence, Marshal Malinovsky and Marshal Spychalski, retired for further consultations to the region of the Masurian lakes, the scene of the victory of Ludendorff and Hindenburg over the Czarist armies at the Battle of Tannenberg in 1914.

The symbolically military look of this exclusive meeting is a little belied by the fact that it was also attended on the Soviet side by the Foreign Minister, Andrei Gromyko, and another gentleman, Yuri Andropov, who is not at all interested in military affairs but has a special responsibility for the smooth working of inter-party relations within the Communist bloc.

FROM WASHINGTON — By JOSEPH ALSOP

Negro Child on a GOP Lap

THE Republican Party still looks mighty like a political cadaver, but the corpse is at least beginning to twitch fairly noticeably. The essential pre-resurrection spadework was done in Chicago. Sen. Barry Goldwater's hand-picked national chairman, Dean Burch, was firmly but politely relegated to oblivion. The great Ohio technician, Ray Bliss, was chosen to repair and run whatever remains of the party's much-damaged national organization.

Alsop

Morever, although nobody seems to have noticed this interesting fact, the Republican campaign of 1968 quite possibly began during President Lyndon Johnson's inaugural parade. It is a new dodge for a political challenger to use the incumbent's quasi-enthronement for such a purpose, yet the facts are rather difficult to interpret in any other light.

The facts are simple indeed. Gov. and Mrs. William Scranton were not content merely to ride in the inaugural parade. Mrs. Scranton likes both children and politics. These two enthusiasms converged, as it were, when the parade slowed to a temporary halt not far from the Capitol. A Negro child was beckoned from the crowd lining the route, and the wife of the President's most likely opponent four years from now rode all the way from the Capitol to the White House with the Negro child on her lap.

Useful Pictures

The resulting photographs may come in very useful later on. What Mrs. Scranton did was a nice thing to do, an imaginative thing to do and a symbolic thing to do—a rare combination indeed. And for political buffs its symbolism was its most interesting aspect.

It means that if Governor Scranton has anything to say about it, Senator Goldwater's famous, squalid and totally disastrous "Southern strategy" is to be forgotten forever. The Republican National Committee meeting had the same meaning.

The choice of Bliss for national chairman was in itself an important indicator; for among Republican Midwesterners Bliss has long been notable for his insistence that the party can never get much of anywhere without making inroads into the industrial big city vote. In addition, Sen. Thruston Morton, once a near-Goldwaterite, treated the assembled Republicans to excoriation of the "Southern strategy" as self-deluding folly.

Next Election

As of now, to be sure, anyone who regards the election four years from now as anything but an empty formality is thought to be pretty eccentric. For the moment, President Johnson's beloved consensus is both firm and all-embracing.

But the wiser Republicans are not without hope, despite the strength of the President's current popular support. To begin with, there is the incipient overconfidence revealed in such ways as the attempted blackout on serious information about the crisis in Viet Nam. An attempt to shove a threatened, quite unparalleled national disaster under the rug is a very major sign of overconfidence, after all.

"Johnson since the election," says a younger Republican who remembers the Korean War, "half reminds me of General MacArthur after the Inchon landing. Before Inchon his staff kept telling MacArthur he could work miracles, but he never quite believed them. After Inchon, which was a near miracle of success, of course, MacArthur was not at all sure his staff was wrong; and so we ended at the reservoir."

Southeast Asia Threat

The reservoir for Mr. Johnson can too easily be an appalling American defeat in Southeast Asia, with consequences abroad almost past computing and consequences at home that will make one almost nostalgic for the rows about communism-in-Cuba and who-lost-China.

Republicans like Governor Scranton, sitting on the sidelines now, will be well positioned to exploit these consequences later; and they inevitably do.

In Scranton himself, moreover, the Republicans probably have what they lacked last year—an effective candidate all factions can agree on. He has come out of the 1964 election on good terms with the Goldwater wing. He is intelligent and tough. And if the incident of the inaugural parade means anything at all, he is already thinking about the best ways to challenge Lyndon Johnson.

A Scranton without doubts or hesitations could be a powerful contender. The odds today heavily favor the President, with his immense political skills and his genuine vision of a better American future. But those who like very long-shot bets still have somewhere to put their money.

Looking Back

Jan. 27, 1890: Ottawa: A large delegation of bankers visited the federal finance minister about the banking bill. They represented nearly all banks in the country. It was reported there was a well-developed feeling in favor of strengthening the bases of their note circulation. One report said it was practically certain the House of Commons would insist on two things—that notes of all banks should be made current at their face value across the country; and that the security on which they are based be made absolute.

New Breakwater

Now that considerable shipping is using the two piers inside the breakwater, many old-timers may recall that it is about 50 years since construction.

The original plans showed the shore end of the breakwater widened to function as an additional berth on the sheltered side. At that time it was contemplated that a second breakwater would be constructed from Macaulay Point to provide shelter against westerly gales.

The present-day volume of shipping suggests that now, after 50 years, the federal government should look into the need for improvements.

Victoria's present member of parliament at Ottawa is well qualified to act on behalf of our seaport.

NATIVE SON.

Should Leave Party

Would it not be very much better—in fact, should it not be compulsory—for the Balcers and other anti-flag, and hence anti-crown members, to leave the Conservative party, which reveres these things, and to form a party of their own?

We would then know where we stand, and the party could live. As things are today, it must die.

City Clean-Up Needed

Victoria, city of flowers and beautiful landscapes, an attraction that has been recognized all over the world for many years, now is gradually improving with nice buildings, in an effort to keep pace with other Canadian cities.

But I think, as a resident, it will stand another look in many areas where there are wrecked cars, trailers, shanty-roofed shacks, lumber, you name it and you will see it, parked on lots in front of houses, on boulevards or any place that it seems convenient.

It would seem to me slum areas don't happen, they are made. Some of this junk has been parked for years. I hope the new offices in city hall, will inspire them to look around.

CONCERNED.

Mercenary Mind

I wish to commend you for your excellent editorial comments on the after-effects of the B.C. Hydro bus fare increase, and in particular, your observations about W. A. C. Bennett's evasiveness for the political responsibility.

Mr. Bennett's attitude toward municipal responsibility for public transit deficits is not born of a social conscience but rather of a socially secure, mercenary-type of mind. It should be suggested to Mr. Bennett and all his subordinates, who influence his decisions, that they patronize the public transit systems of Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver, exclusively, when performing their various activities in those areas. This does not mean on "free" passes paid for from public funds. They then would rapidly approach a compassionate understanding of the situations other members of the commuting public are subjected to by their narrow-minded policies.

SOCIAL CREDITER.

Deprived of Dignity

At last we know how the B.C. government is going to help our senior citizens with the increased bus fares. This magnificent sum of $1 will take one person downtown and home again twice a month. This is the lowest amount they could possibly give.

These senior citizens, some 30,000 strong, both men and women, have contributed in no small measure in making Canada what it is today, wherever they may have lived. We hear the "big brass" talk in the millions of dollars for this and that, and all our senior citizens get is a measly dollar, with a big song and dance proclaiming it. How cheap can they get? Our senior citizens should not be deprived of the dignity they deserve.

S. A. LAST.

Be Proud of New Flag

I have been concerned over the great disapproval of the new Canadian flag. Long periods of service to Canada in all fields, especially the armed forces, have made many Canadians very attached to the Red Ensign. Have these people forgotten what they were fighting for? They were fighting for Canada and the freedom for which she stands, not a piece of cloth fluttering in the breeze.

Now our government, which has been voted to power through the will of the people in sufficient numbers to form a legislative body, has through the completely democratic means determined and voted for by our predecessors, chosen a new flag for our country. This flag was born in the spirit that has made and will continue to make Canada a great nation. It is in this spirit, the spirit of a free democracy, that we serve Canada. Regardless of its appearance, I think we should be proud of our new emblem.

For Co-ops

I was greatly interested in your story "Supermarkets on Their Way Out."

Now if we could only add the chain stores everything would be fine. What we really need in this city is a few co-operative stores. What most of us are interested in is a reduction in food prices.

What have the chain stores and supermarkets done for us in the line of a reduction in prices? Not a thing. Instead, we see price advances month after month.

Stores who displace their help and replace them with machines will get none of my money. Up with the "co-ops."

BETWEEN OURSELVES

By Elizabeth Forbes

A dear friend whom I've known since I was a girl has held to the belief throughout her long life that there is nothing so vastly important on this earth that it needs a stop watch kept on it.

Now well on in the twilight of her years, my friend holds to this idea.

When I am lucky enough to see and to talk to her, I realize that through her belief she has created a way of life that gives her the time to listen and to understand many things.

Her motto, expressed over and over again, has been that the thing that takes most of the joy out of life is hurry.

It isn't lack of money or not being able to take a trip to Hawaii or Mexico that sours our days or curdles our years. It's the everlasting hurry that rides on our shoulders and leads us into nightmare schedules that will not resolve at our bidding.

★ ★ ★

We tear from here to there and from this to that, my friend insists. We're always fearful of not getting that assigned task done "on time."

On many occasions she has said to me: "There is little reason to hurry in this life. We have all the time there is. We are living in eternity as much as we ever shall be."

Then she reaffirms her belief: "To have the passing of time forever on our minds is the quick way to old age, wrinkles, foggy minds and troubled hearts."

Who devised the idea of hours and days and months and moments, she will ask. Then quickly she answers her own question. It was man, not nature.

★ ★ ★

When we were well indoctrinated, when the fiction was pretty generally accepted, things in this world became "chores" instead of pleasures and the word "hurry" was born in every tongue and language.

Throughout the ages this slavery continued and will continue, she believes, until some person (genius, she says) "frees life from its infernal schedule and we live as we were meant to live."

Don't for a minute think my friend has not lived by the code she prescribes. In all the years I have known her she has never deviated from it.

Her home life is run, and always has been, on a leisurely schedule.

When her children were small and there was not too much money, she was never impatient, never hurried. She never appeared harassed. There was always time to guide, lead and have fun with them.

Today, they are grown men and women with teen-agers of their own. In turn, they strive to withstand today's pressures and to inculcate in their young ones the belief that "hurry" is the bugbear of our age.

The code their mother lives by has become their own.

★ ★ ★

Although my friend's eyes are now framed in the wrinkles of her years, they still shine with a love of life.

Her laughter, something I remember from my girlhood for its warmth and happiness, still has the same undertones. Her voice is full and strong. It belies the stoop of her shoulders.

When I visited her toward the end of last year, we sat in her friendly living room, surrounded by treasures gathered over the years, all priceless to her and her husband because they bring back happy memories.

It was cold outside. A wood fire burned in the stone fireplace.

As she watched the flames flicker and dance my friend said to me: "This living our lives is just a journey. Why can't it be a leisurely one, with plenty of stopovers at those places where we'd love so well to linger?

"If I had my way the speed limit would be reversed. The best driver would be the slowest, and a medal would go to the one who could teach us how to disregard that word 'hurry' and find a more leisurely way to determine the length and the breadth of our years.

"After all, what's all the rush about?"

To some this may seem merely the impossible ramblings of age. To others, I hope my friend's code of living will bring the germ of a thought that may lead them into placing time and its futile hounds of speed into better perspective.

NATURE on the ISLAND

By Cliff Carl

As a general rule, introduced animals or plants either do not thrive at all in their new environment or they adapt too well and quickly become pests. One of the few exceptions in British Columbia is the Pacific oyster which has recently becomes established and which now supports a minor industry.

Our so-called Pacific oyster is a Japanese species first brought to this country in 1914 in the form of "seed," about fingernail size. By 1926 a small industry had developed on the U.S. side and plantings in Ladysmith harbor on Vancouver Island had proved successful. That is the seed oysters grew to maturity and some even spawned but no natural setting occurred. It was necessary, therefore, to import young oysters each season in order to maintain the beds.

However in 1932 when large numbers of these oysters were being grown in Ladysmith harbor, extensive spawning took place and a relatively heavy catch resulted in the vicinity of the beds.

Again in 1936 setting occurred but this time some oysters travelled many miles from their point of origin before settling. Since these dates breeding has occurred many times but at irregular intervals.

Major spawnings in 1942 and in 1958 have accounted for the Pacific oyster becoming spread throughout the Strait of Georgia. In some areas the set was so thick every suitable surface was plastered with young oysters and they became the dominant animal on the beach.

Except in Pendrell Sound, where special water conditions favor spawning each season, the breeding of the Pacific oyster is not regular enough or extensive enough to fill all the demands of the industry. It is still necessary to import fresh seed oysters from Japan for this purpose. Large numbers of naturally-set oysters have been gathered from several areas and removed to commercial beds for further growth, but the amount of labor involved makes it uneconomical while it is still possible to obtain spat from Japan at a relatively low cost.

The success of spawning and setting of the Japanese oyster in British Columbia depends upon several conditions. First the water has to attain a relatively high temperature before spawning will occur and the temperature must be maintained for several weeks following or the larvae will die. The salinity of the water, too, must not vary too far from the optimum or mortality of the young will result.

Chance also plays a large part in the dispersal and final setting of the spat. In the early stages of development the larvae swim actively, but the direction of their travel is determined by the tidal currents which may carry them many miles perhaps into unfavorable areas.

During this dispersal period of 18 to 20 days they are also running the risk of being eaten by all various creatures that feed upon plankton in the sea. Finally the survivors of this free-swimming phase have to find a suitable surface upon which to settle and attach themselves as spat.

Not every surface will serve for this important event. Most suitable are the shells of other oysters, but if these are not available at this critical period then the shells of other molluscs, or barnacles, or clean rock faces will do.

If these are present when a swarm of spatting-sized larvae are carried in by the tide, tens of thousands of young oysters may settle along a short stretch of beach.

★ ★ ★

But generally it is impossible to foretell where such settling will occur, so the oyster-grower cannot plan to take advantage of such a spat-fall.

During the ensuing stage of life as an attached individual, the young oyster is still exposed to many hazards but differing in kind. If the chosen spot for settling is too high on the beach the bivalve will die of exposure; if too low it will not thrive because of low temperatures. If too close to fast-growing neighbors it will be crowded out.

It may be eaten by starfish, oyster drill, moon-snail or crab or crushed by driftwood in the first fall storm. Only the most lucky survive to reproduce their kind.

Without doubt the Pacific oyster has become a permanent member of our fauna, but whether or not our local population will ever support the industry is unknown. Some say that the "survival of the fittest" principle will someday produce a strain which will spawn regularly each year under our local conditions. If this happens we may no longer have to depend on foreign sources for our oysters.

SYNOPSIS — Mild Pacific air was firmly established over the coast today as was noted in the frequent overnight readings of 40 to 45 degrees. This same mild air was aloft over the interior. With residual cold air still lingering in some valleys, temperatures again dropped sharply overnight at several localities. A vigorous storm accompanied by strong winds and rain will reach the coast tonight. This same system will give mixed rain and snow and strong winds to the interior on Thursday resulting in rapidly moderating temperatures there as well.

BONNER READS TELEGRAM

Medicare Offer Made To Ottawa Last Month

By JOHN MIKA
Times Legislative Reporter

British Columbia offered to join Ottawa in initiating a comprehensive medicare plan only last month, Attorney-General Robert Bonner told the legislature Tuesday.

He read from a telegram sent by Premier W. A. C. Bennett to Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson, Dec. 2, which offered to discuss the question immediately.

He quoted from the telegram: "If your (federal) government ready to proceed in partnership with province or provinces on medical costs, I believe it would be wise to have the conference take place . . . Dec. 7 so that we can include our share in our provincial budget.

"If not, unless the federal government have other important proposals to present to the provinces, would suggest the next premiers' conference be held in the new year, but not before your government is ready to make new proposals."

Mr. Bonner said it would be up to Prime Minister Pearson to release his reply to the B.C. suggestion.

Mr. Bonner later said the "dynamic society" concept of the throne speech was easily attainable in the undreamed-of affluence that can be obtained through breakthroughs in modern technology.

MEDICARE FOR ALL

He praised the national economic council's first report released recently, and said planning and organizing of resources development should be carried out to provide a 2.4 per cent annual increase in jobs and a 3.4 per cent annual increase in personal incomes projected by the report.

With that sort of growth "we can afford medicare for everyone," Mr. Bonner said.

He said several Senators—Liberal Senators Cross, Farris, and Roebuck specifically—did not share "the peculiar view" of Liberal MLAs who had opposed the Bank of B.C application by the government.

'PHONEY' STATISTICS

Mr. Bonner also charged that Liberal Leader Ray Perrault used "phoney" statistics" in citing constituency distributions in the southern states as being better than those in B.C. because he omitted to mention Negroes—up to half the population—were denied the vote.

Mr. Perrault rose on a point of privilege to deny that he used phoney statistics.

Mr. Bonner said NDP Leader Robert Strachan had apparently forgotten the CCF's efforts to delay a switch in government policy from selling crown mineral lands to leasing them.

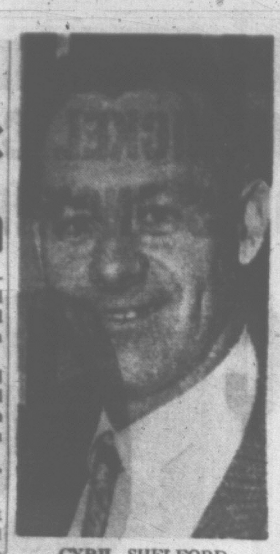

He said the policy change was designed to keep control of resources—the very point Mr. Strachan had made Monday when he said mineral resources should be returned to the crown in cases such as the Britannia Beach mine shutdown.

Mr. Bonner also said that David Barrett (NDP-Dewdney) was not fired from the probation service for making suggestions as Mr. Strachan had charged Monday. He was fired for taking an "active part in a political campaign."

He said that Mr. Barrett had professional abilities in his field and after he had finished with politics the two might have a useful discussion.

"Are you offering me a job?" called Mr. Barrett.

General laughter broke out when Mr. Bonner said he had it in mind "to tell you where to go."

CAR ACCIDENTS STILL RISING—SHELFORD

Study Asked on Insurance Hike

A Social Credit MLA Tuesday called for a study of recent increases in automobile insurance premiums.

Cyril Shelford (SC—Omineca) also urged the provincial government to "hasten" towards comprehensive medicare once its medical insurance subsidies for the poor are in operation.

Mr. Shelford said the legislature's study of insurance premiums could help drive home to motorists the fact that rising accident rates result in higher premiums.

But he also said it would "give the insurance companies a chance to justify" the increases averaging 20 per cent.

He said there was considerable dissatisfaction with the insurance premium boosts "all over the country so if they are justified the insurance companies should welcome this chance to explain them."

Mr. Shelford warned that the accident rate is still rising despite the recent increases. He said another round of stiff premium boosts could be in the offing.

PITFALLS

On medicare, Mr. Shelford said he was sure the government wanted to see a comprehensive medicare program throughout Canada.

He said the subsidy program will at least help some people while progress is made towards full medicare.

"There are bound to be a lot of pitfalls in this (subsidy) scheme but I do think its a step in the right way.

"I think the pitfalls will be evident before long and maybe it will hasten the government into a comprehensive scheme, preferably on a national scale."

Mr. Shelford said one of the pitfalls in the government's plan likely will be that many persons who could qualify for the subsidy won't bother until they fall sick, when it might be too late.

He predicted there will be many administrative headaches such as those that accompanied the first year or two of B.C. hospital insurance when it involved premiums.

'Suicide Bid Should Bring Jail Term'

People who make phoney suicide attempts should be jailed, a city neuro-psychiatrist believes.

Dr. D. E. Alcorn added that his opinions on the subject are not shared by colleagues.

He said the arrest and detention of people who attempt suicide is an aid to treatment.

Court action helped those who attempted suicide to manipulate others to take stock of themselves, he told Victoria Lions Club members.

Court action also brought the mentally-ill quickly to the attention of medical authorities who can help them.

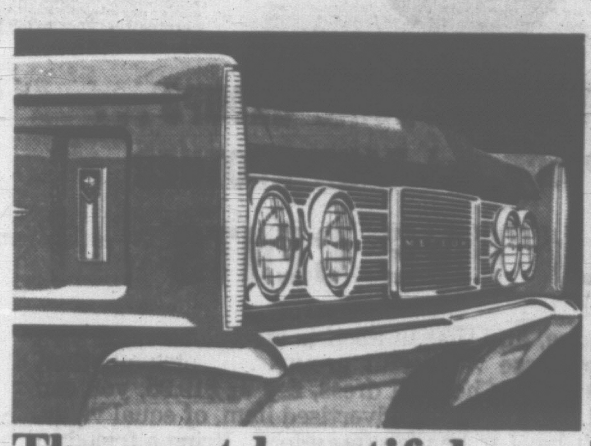

Most suicide attempts fail and the reason most often is that the person does not want to die, he said.

The number of successful suicides was more numerous than statistics indicated because relatives were anxious to make the cause of death accidental when possible.

In the United States, about 11 per cent of deaths were from suicide, about 25,000 a year. Another 100,000 attempts were recorded.

Certain features are optional at extra cost. Model illustrated: Meteor Montcalm, 2-door hardtop

Meteor has the year's most beautiful styling, from bumper to bumper, from roofline to road! Every detail announces styling leadership . . . the gleaming full-width grille, the distinctive symmetry of the extended fender line, the impressive sweep of the trunk deck. No car in its class surpasses the magnificence of the new Meteor.

Meteor has inspired new spirit in its performance, whether you go the Six or V-8 route! Either way, you'll take to Meteor's quick, lively responsiveness the way it takes to the road. This year, Meteor has the new 240 cubic inch "Avenger" Six, every inch a top performer in power and economy! Seven main bearings and a high compression ratio (9.2:1) mean a smoother-running, quieter engine that squeezes extra miles out of every gallon. A new casting process reduces engine weight for more horsepower per pound. If you prefer a V-8, you'll find more reason than ever for choosing one when you give Meteor's sparkling 352 and 390 V-8's a work-out! For impressive power-plus-economy, Meteor offers a smooth 3-speed dual range automatic transmission that you can pair with any of Meteor's engines. The 3-speed and 4-speed manual transmissions are fully synchromesh in all forward gears for smooth, effortless shifting. These refinements in performance are matched by luxurious refinements in riding comfort. It all starts with a long, road-smoothing 123-inch wheelbase. Add to this a new "torque-box" frame construction that reduces road shock and vibration to an amazingly low level. You'll feel a new confidence in Meteor's cushioned but positive-handling ride thanks to improved all-coil suspension without that "floating" sensation. New 15 inch low-profile tires provide broad road contact and better handling. In every way, Meteor's performance is designed to put new pleasure into your driving!

Meteor surrounds you with luxurious comfort in many lush ways. Wherever you look in Meteor, elegance meets your eyes. Deep-pile carpeting, richly beautiful upholsteries, colour-keyed trim, padded dash, wide padded arm rests front and back, elegant, easy-to-read instrumentation and curved side-window glass for more shoulder room. Meteor takes the lead in convenience, with a new suspended accelerator pedal that can't catch spike-heels or trap dirt. There's a new key that works no matter which side you have up and a push-button door-locking system. Meteor's enormous trunk has a lower sill so you have more space for stand-up luggage loading but less lifting distance. Meteor gives you even more luxury in elegant choices like a vinyl roof and a swing-away steering wheel!

You have more choices in choosing a Meteor, and every one is beautiful! There are three Meteor series — Montcalm, Rideau 500 and Rideau in eleven exciting models — sleek sedans, dazzling two-and four-door hardtops, a rakish convertible and spacious six-and nine-passenger wagons. Test-drive Meteor at your Mercury dealer's. You'll find that for styling, performance, luxury and comfort, no other car in the popular-priced field measures up to the 1965 Meteor!

PERRAULT:

Why Eye Yukon, With Poverty On Home Front?

By JIM HUME

Ray Perrault was reluctant, but he finally admitted that he supported Premier Bennett in at least one direction—the move to annex the Yukon.

It was the only kind comment he had for the government as he continued speaking in throne speech debate Tuesday.

And even at that he tinged his approval with sharp thrusts at government boasts that B.C. is a land of milk and honey.

"It isn't new to propose annexation of the Yukon," he said. "It was proposed by Pattullo years ago. With 25 per cent of the population of British Columbia living on the edge of poverty, the premier waves a $300,000,000 carrot in front of the people of the Yukon. Wouldn't it be better to spend some of that money here solving provincial problems?"

The outburst brought a cry of "are you against it?" from government backbenchers.

"No," snapped Mr. Perrault. "I'm not against it. I'm for it. I think it will come in time. But there are other things to be done first."

Switching his attack to the needs of municipalities, the Liberal leader said B.C. is constantly dispatching "hordes of experts and advisers to Ottawa every time a conference was called in order to plead B.C.'s case for a better deal."

'Shabby and Shocking Treatment'

He added: "While the premier screams to high heaven for a better deal from the federal government, his treatment of the municipalities is shabby and shocking."

Throughout the afternoon Mr. Perrault ran into trouble from government hecklers.

He tried to make the point that B.C. should have more factories manufacturing finished products rather than be content with exporting raw materials.

"Why do we export semi-raw products?" he asked.

"Why are there only one or two furniture factories in the province? Why don't we export the finished product?"

The quip came fast from a Social Credit member: "With no down payment?"

Mr. Perrault stormed on.

"This government radiates cosy confidence in the throne speech, but I notice that it makes no mention of the fact that right now in B.C. we have 30 to 35,000 unemployed," he said.

Switching briefly to the emphasis on education and the neglect of the unemployed, Mr. Perrault said that soon B.C. would have "the best educated line-up for unemployment benefits in the world."

Mr. Perrault condemned the government for increasing B.C. Hydro bus fares.

"Not only are B.C.'s power rates the highest in the country . . . the lower mainland and Greater Victoria has Canada's highest by far transit fares," he said.

Only the Profit-Makers Wanted

Mr. Perrault claimed that before bus fares were increased due consideration should have been given to the profits being made by other branches of the Hydro company.

"There are indications that you will get rid of the transit system because it is unprofitable," he cried. "Will you get rid of the gas system, too? No, you just like to take over the profitable things."

He said the government had in unwarranted fashion suggested that Ottawa was dragging its heels on a national medical plan.

"It is unfortunate that, despite the importance of the subject of medical care, a sly inference was made that in some fashion the federal government is delaying deliberately implementation of a national plan," he said.

Mr. Perrault finished his speech, as he began, with a flurry of criticism.

He wanted more action on hospital care for the chronically ill; odor control for pulp mills; acknowledgement that Ottawa paid 40 per cent towards the cost of the provincial ferry fleet and expansion of hospital insurance coverage.

DIDN'T FOOL SENATORS

'Corny Deception' Grit Tells Premier

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said Tuesday the granting of a bank charter to Premier Bennett "would pose serious difficulties for the central bank."

He said he was not surprised that the premier had run into difficulties with the Senate Banking Committee when he made his charter bid in Ottawa.

Quoting from the Hansard record Mr. Perrault said the premier was asked if Einar Gunderson was a member of the Social Credit party.

"The premier's reply, and I quote," he said, "was: 'he may be a member of Social Credit but I have never seen his card.'

'THEY KNEW'

"This is the kind of corny deception he sinks to," Mr. Gunderson was a Sociall Credit man. They knew he'd run for office on the Social Credit ticket and been defeated.

"How much confidence can the Senate have? They know, as we know, that Mr. Gunderson is the grey eminence of this government's financial policies so why don't we lay our cards on the table?

"A bank of British Columbia is desirable, but not under the control of a government, whatever its politics."

The premier did not reply.

Thatcher Bares $65,000,000 Potash Mine

REGINA (CP)—Premier Ross Thatcher Monday announced one of the largest potash developments in Saskatchewan's history.

Mr. Thatcher, at a press conference, said that the mine, located about 20 miles southwest of Saskatoon, will involve an investment of $65,000,000.

The mine will employ about 1,000 men during construction, which will start as soon as weather conditions permit. It will employ about 500 men during operation of the mine and the refinery.

The premier said the mine, to be drilled by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Limited, will be one of the world's largest potash mines.

Sterilization 'Only Answer' To Race Problem

LONDON (Reuters)—A campaign for sterilization of colored immigrant wives in Britain has been launched by an Indian immigrant leader, the mass-circulation Sunday newspaper The People says.

Dr. Dhani Prem, 60-year-old leader of 10,000 Indians in Birmingham, Britain's second largest city, said sterilization was the only way to prevent some British towns from being swamped by a soaring colored population.

Trying to get immigrant wives to use birth control methods, including the pill, is not a success," he was quoted as saying.

To Represent Arabs

ALGIERS (Reuters) — President Ahmed Ben Bella of Algeria will represent the Arab world at the United Nations General Assembly debate on the Palestine problem, official sources said Tuesday.

Freight Rates, Tariffs Hit by Trade Minister

With revenue from proposed power plants on the Fraser River the B.C. government could retire all the fishermen in the province.

"Not that we intend to do that," said Minister of Industrial Development, Trade and Commerce R. R. Loffmark in his maiden speech as a cabinet minister Tuesday night.

"I'm just saying that we would gain enough in revenues to be able to do that," he added.

Mr. Loffmark claimed that when the power potential of the river was considered and the revenues that could be obtained from its development "every salmon going up there now is worth $200."

Using his time in the throne speech debate to outline the industrial situation in B.C., Mr. Loffmark said that until political action was taken on inequitable freight rates, secondary industry in the province could develop only slowly if at all.

"We have a crazy freight rate system nobody understands," he said. "We can't get under way with secondary industry because freight going east often costs twice as much as freight coming west. How can we compete under those circumstances? It is time strong political action was taken."

Mr. Loffmark also called for more intensive studies to remove tariffs between the United States and Canada.

"We can export raw and semi-raw materials without trouble," he said. "But if we make an aluminum slab into a window or a piece of lumber into a door, up goes the tariff barrier. It must come down."

Mr. Loffmark ran into heavy heckling when he departed from industrial progress to take a swing at federal government politics.

He claimed that heavy subsidization by the federal government had resulted in the location of a heavy water plant on the eastern seaboard and said such subsidization was wrong.

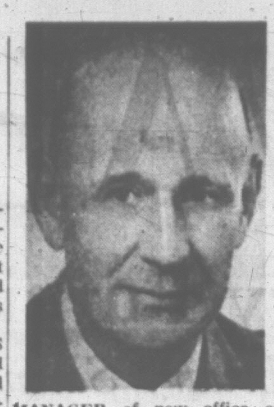

"How much did you pay CMS (Consolidated Mining and Smelting) last year?" snapped Opposition Leader Robert Strachan. "You're subsidizing the CPR."

Mr. Loffmark switched to charges of patronage.

"When, in 1963, it was announced that I would seek election as a member of Social Credit, I was stopped by a leading member of the Liberal party in Vancouver," he said.

"The man said to me, 'I guess you never want to be a judge?' . . ."

Before he could finish, Mr. Strachan had quipped "that was wrong."

MANAGER of new office of Commonwealth Trust Co. in city will be H. C. Weston Sanders, graduate with honors in banking and currency from the University of London. The branch will open for business on Feb. 8. Appointment of Mr. Sanders was announced by A. G. Duncan Crux of Vancouver, company president. Mr. Sanders will be responsible for establishing and developing Commonwealth's organization in the city from the new outlet at 727 Fort Street. For more than 20 years Mr. Sanders practised law in Haifa, Palestine. He was called to the bar in B.C. in 1959 and since then has practised law in Vancouver.

Paper, Pulp Production in 1964 Set Record

MONTREAL (CP) — R. M. Fowler, president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association, said in his annual report Tuesday the industry experienced a record increase in production during 1964.

He said total output was almost 10 per cent ahead of 1963 and exports showed a comparable increase. The industry operated at about 90-per-cent capacity.

"The growth today in pulp and paper indicates that the industry will continue to be the leading element in the Canadian economy and the chief contributor to its growth," Mr. Fowler said.

He noted Canada is not running short of wood to support further expansion of the industry as are some other countries. Canadian forests are a magnet for world capital investment, he said.

Mr. Fowler said expansion plans will cost the industry $800,000,000 by the end of 1967.

"By the end of 1967 Canada will be capable of producing annually some 7,000,000 tons of sulphate pulp, compared with 3,800,000 tons at the beginning of 1964."

New Wheat Sales Hinted by Sharp

Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Trade and Commerce Minister Mitchell Sharp said here Tuesday that additional wheat sales by Canada abroad are in prospect that will make the 1964-65 crop year "a very good year indeed" for total wheat exports.

A sale to China was announced earlier this week involving around 27,000,000 bushels at an estimated total price of $50,000,000.

"There are other sales in prospect," he said. "Announcement of these sales may be made soon and they will boost the total sales for this crop year even higher."

Mr. Sharp will confer in Winnipeg this week with the wheat board advisory committee discussing the price cuts for wheat announced Tuesday.

The cuts ranged from two to 7½ cents a bushel. It followed a cut by the United States of its export prices for wheat. The U.S. in turn was following Argentine and Australia in cutting wheat prices. The U.S. is reported to have cut prices of all wheat except the spring variety by 12½ cents.

Mr. Sharp said that the cuts in prices applied mainly to lower grades of wheat. He said the price for No. 1 wheat was still above $2 at Fort William and at the Pacific coast.

MUST BE STABILITY

The minister said it was essential that there be stability in the wheat markets. He was pleased with the total wheat exports that would be registered in the crop year 1964-65. This would be one of Canada's best export years although not as high as the record year of 1963-64.

He said the wheat board had moved to cut its export wheat prices in order to remain competitive.

The minister attended a meeting in Washington last month of representatives of the United States, Argentina and Australia to discuss the wheat situation. He said all those at the conference were interested in maintaining a stability of prices to the greatest degree possible.

However it had to be recognized that 1964 saw one of the largest total wheat crops produced by the wheat exporting nations. With the record production it was inevitable that there would be a change in the demand and supply picture and a cut in prices.

Zenith Radio Wins Huge Damage Suit

CHICAGO (AP) — Zenith Radio Corporation was awarded damages Tuesday that could total more than $48,000,000 in patent infringement litigation initiated by the Hazeltine Corporation.

Judge Richard B. Austin of U.S. district court ordered the Hazeltine firm of Little Neck, N.Y., to pay more than $16,000,000.

Under a provision of federal anti-trust laws, the damage amount is trebled, which could give Zenith more than $48,000,000.

Hazeltine is a patent-holding and licensing company, and electronics manufacturer.

Following the court decision, trading in Hazeltine was halted on the New York Stock Exchange because of an accumulation of sell orders. The stock closed at 11, down 3⅝. Zenith closed at 68, up 2¾.

The award resulted from the patent infringement suit filed by Hazeltine against Zenith in 1959.

FILED COUNTER CLAIM

In a counter-claim, Zenith alleged that Hazeltine's patents were used in foreign patent pools to prevent importation of American-made television and radio receivers into foreign markets.

In his findings, Judge Austin said that Zenith had been damaged in the amount of $16,238,872 by exclusion from the Canadian, English and Australian markets.

Hazeltine had filed suit for patent infringement and Judge Austin ruled that the company had misused its patents by refusing to licence them except on a "package" of a number of patents tied together.

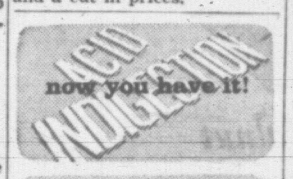

The judge found that under the Canadian pool, the pool would only grant a licence to manufacture radio receivers and television sets locally in Canada and that the pool blocked importation of American sets.

PRICE WAR CHARGE U.S. GROWERS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The National Association of Wheat Growers today praised the agriculture department for raising U.S. wheat export subsidies in a price battle with Canada.

The increase in subsidies this week resulted in cutting the price at which U.S. wheat is sold for export.

Anson Horning, president of the wheat association, charged in a statement issued through the group's office here that Canada broke the world wheat price by reducing its export price in a sale of 26 million bushels to Communist China on Jan. 25.

U.S. Steel Earnings Take Jump

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States Steel Corp. reported Tuesday 1964 earnings of $236,300,000, or $3.90 a share, the highest since 1960.

The profits compared with $203,600,000, or $3.30 a share, cleared in 1963.

The earnings increase came on a sharp rise in sales which reached $4,129,361,078, up from $3,637,173,138 in 1963 and the highest since the $4,413,800,000 of 1957.

Directors declared a dividend of 50 cents a common share. That was the quarterly rate paid since a reduction from 75 cents after the industry sank into profit and production doldrums in 1962.

Higher Prices Helped Craigmont

VANCOUVER (CP) — Higher copper prices helped to offset lower ore grades at Craigmont Mines Ltd., the company's annual report said Monday.

Craigmont earned a net profit of $5,181,568 in the fiscal year ending October 31, 1964 — $1.02 a share — compared with the $6,585,594, or $1.30 a share, earned the previous year.

The annual report said 1,874,000 tons of ore were milled in the 1964 fiscal year, with an average grade of 1.63 per cent copper.

Education Costs Jump 13 Per Cent

Building costs and a new teacher's salary schedule combined to make a 13 per cent increase in the school budget this year, Greater Victoria School Board Chairman John Porteous said today.

The school board budget for 1965 will be $11,662,243 compared to $10,314,079 in 1964.

Mr. Porteous said taxpayers in the school district can expect an increase in school taxes of at least one mill.

The largest single item in this year's budget is $7,241,762 for teacher's salaries which is almost 11 per cent more than last year's $6,524,846.

Reasons for the increase are:

- An increase in teaching personnel.
- Higher salaries to other employees.
- Higher enrolments.
- Rising costs of supplies and equipment.

Operating costs of the schools, including janitorial services, are expected to rise about 10 per cent this year to take the second largest bite out of the budget, $1,0s9,497.

The money obtained from the one mill tax increase, about $266,340, would likely go for the school board's share of a building program that calls for vocational wings to be built at six high schools in the district.

The remainder of the cost, about $2,272,500, would be shared by the federal and provincial governments.

LADY CHURCHILL

Message Of Thanks For Notes

LONDON (AP) — Lady Churchill issued a message of thanks Tuesday night to all who expressed their sympathy on the death of her husband.

Her message said:

"Lady Churchill and the family of the late Sir Winston are truly grateful for the messages they are receiving. The kindness of all those who have expressed their sympathy at this time means much to them.

"They hope that senders will understand if they do not receive replies, as the numbers are so very great."

FOR CHURCHILL

Cavalry Run Remembered During Rites

LONDON (CP)—Memories of the British Army's last cavalry charge will be recalled by Sir Winston Churchill's state funeral Saturday.

Key duties have been assigned to Churchill's first regiment, the Queen's Royal Irish Hussars, which he joined in 1895.

An army spokesman reported Tuesday that two of Winston's comrades in the Omdurman battle of 1898—said to be the last British full-scale cavalry charge—are expected to see the funeral, on television if not in person.

They were identified only as Capt. Baddeley and Sgt. Freeman, both about the same age as Churchill, who died Sunday at 90.

Churchill was 24 at the time of the famous victory over the Dervishes at Omdurman in the Sudan.

Among the duties assigned to the Hussars Saturday is to carry Sir Winston's coffin to the train at Waterloo Station for his last journey to the burial ground at Bladon, near Blenheim Castle.

Officers also took part today at the lying-in-state ceremonies at Westminster Hall and the regiment's insignia will be carried in Saturday's procession.

The ceremonies, which will involve more than 7,000 men of the three services, also will see a contingent from Harrow School's cadet force, to which Churchill belonged in his boyhood days.

Second Fete Invites Ma Murray

VANCOUVER (CP) — With typical womanly coyness weekly newspaper publisher Margaret (Ma) Murray Tuesday wouldn't say whether she was accepting an invitation to a second testimonial dinner being set up to mark Premier W. A. C. Bennett's record term in office Feb. 17.

It would be held simultaneously in a hotel across the street from the originally-planned dinner.

Mrs. Murray, a Liberal and long-time critic of Social Credit Premier Bennett, had been invited to be guest speaker at the main dinner, but later was told she would have to cancel out because the shindig was being made a stag affair for space reasons.

Monday, a citizens' group spearheaded by the Vancouver Junior Chamber of Commerce, laid plans for a second, simultaneous dinner to which ladies would be invited—with possibly the premier's wife as guest of honor, and Ma Murray as guest speaker.

Community Arts Council Launched

A new association dedicated to bring more art to more people was formed here Tuesday.

To be known as Community Arts Council of Greater Victoria, the group has been under organization since last fall.

A full slate of officers was elected at the inaugural meeting, under chairmanship of R. D. Ferguson. He called for an immediate broadening of membership and a study of how the new body can best serve the community.

Preliminary objectives of the council include increasing the opportunities for Victoria residents to enjoy and participate in cultural pursuits.

"The council will back any art project if it is considered worthwhile . . . it will be a guardian of the arts, a clearing house, a catalyst, a co-ordinator, a watch dog, an investigator and a godfather," a spokesman for the group said.

MEMBERSHIP

Financing will depend upon grants, donations and memberships, but the council is not primarily a money-making organization, it was explained.

Others elected to the executive committee were: Mrs. George Masters, first vice-president; Dr. Roger Bishop, second vice-president; Mrs. Charles Brown, secretary; R. F. Fisher, treasurer; Mrs. R. M. Adamson, director of publicity; Mrs. John Wallace and E. E. Chamberlain, co-chairmen of the membership committee.

LONG TUNNEL

Sweden has opened its longest fresh water tunnel—nine miles long—after three years of construction near the Gulf of Bothnia.

More Roads Needed Says Peace MLA

J. F. Huhn, Social Credit MLA for North Peace River, wants more money spent on roads in his constituency.

In the throne speech debate Tuesday night, Mr. Huhn said he appreciated the ever-increasing grants for roads in the Peace.

"But," he added, "though the grants have been going up each year we are still not keeping up with industry."

Mr. Huhn also wants the government to start paving some of the existing roads.

"Roads are being paved in other areas of the province and I think it's time we got some blacktop in the Peace River district," he said.

Speakers Taking Aim At Canadian Senate

The Senate already has emerged as the No. 1 target of criticism in the current session of the legislature.

Tuesday, a succession of speakers took substantial time out of their speeches to attack the Senate as an institution.

The reason underlying the antagonism each time is cited as the senate banking committee's decision to oppose the Bank of B.C. charter application because the provincial government would be a shareholder.

Frank Calder (NDP — Atlin) Tuesday night called for outright abolition of the Senate immediately.

He said that if there was no need for an upper house in the provinces there was no need for a senate at the federal level.

His remarks were widely applauded by the MLAs as were those of Cyril Shelford (SC — Omineca) who said the Senate should be retained only if it is drastically reformed to require election rather than appointment of its members.

NEEDS REFORM

Attorney-general Robert Bonner also criticized the Senate as an institution needing considerable reform. He contended that the provinces should have proportional representation in the Senate as they have in the Commons.

NDP Leader Robert Strachan, Social Credit whip Bert Price (Vancouver-Burrard) and James Chabot (SC — Columbia) are among other critics of the Senate so far in the throne speech debate.

FACT:

Rambler is your best used car buy

Of all North American cars today, Rambler is your best used car buy.

Why Rambler?

1. BETTER CONSTRUCTION
Exclusive Single Unit Construction with Uniside makes every Rambler body a strong, safe, all-welded, single unit. A rugged Rambler body stands up to punishment a lot longer, a lot better. It's built to take years and miles in its stride.

2. NO RATTLES
Rattles and squeaks in other cars are caused by nuts-and-bolts construction. But Rambler's unique Uniside body is free of rattles and squeaks because it's different from conventional body-frame construction.

3. BETTER RUSTPROOFING
Exclusive Deep-Dip Rustproofing, continually improved since its introduction nine years ago, is the world's best rustproofing method. The body of every Rambler is dipped to its roofline seven separate times in rustproofing to seal off every nook and cranny from the ravages of rust.

4. BETTER PAINT
Rambler's exclusive three coats of Lustre-Gard Enamel resist wear and tear, season after season.

5. BETTER WEATHER INSULATION
We introduced exclusive Fibreglass Roofliners in 1961. Durable, washable vinyl covering stays attractive years longer than traditional cloth lining.

6. BETTER WINTER INSULATION
Rambler's Weather-Eye Heater and exclusive Double Door Seals give year-in, year-out protection against wind and weather, cold and drafts.

7. BETTER BRAKES
Exclusive Double Safety Brakes, a Rambler feature introduced in 1962, are gradually being copied by other manufacturers. Front and rear brakes work independently to provide superior stopping protection. If one set is damaged, the other still operates.

8. BETTER SEATING
Rambler offers the industry's widest choice of comfort and seating options. Exclusive reclining seats and adjustable headrests are sturdily-built to give you maximum seating comfort year after year.

9. BETTER MUFFLER
Rambler's exclusive Ceramic-Armored Muffler, Tailpipe and Exhaust System is made of tough galvanized metal bonded with a long-lasting ceramic shield to resist rust and corrosion.

10. BETTER VALUE
With so many built-in exclusive features, Rambler holds its new car value much longer. Rambler is built with all possible owners in mind—not just the first. In the beginning, when it counts, Rambler is built far better to last far longer.

11. HIGH DEMAND
Rambler owners are loyal owners. That's why today's used car lots aren't crowded with used Ramblers. Rambler owners like the cars they drive. They take good care of them. When you spot a used Rambler, you know it's in top condition.

The new 1965 Rambler is a top-quality car, too. It offers exclusive construction features, it's packed with solid value for your money, and it will deliver thousands of miles of trouble-free performance—now when it's new and later when it becomes a used car.

Rambler is your best car buy—new or used. The proof is waiting for you right now at your Rambler Dealer's. You'll find the model, style, colour and features you like at a price you like. See your Rambler Dealer's wide-ranging selection of top-quality cars today.

Mayor Recruits 'U' Fund Team

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — Mayor Jack Dobson said Tuesday night he started looking for citizens to sponsor a local drive for the $28,000,000 tri-university appeal.

He spoke at a joint meeting of Cowichan district municipalities, called to hear Dr. Malcolm Taylor, president of Victoria University, Mayor R. B. Wilson, of Victoria, and William Armstrong, appeal campaign chairman on Vancouver Island.

Municipalities represented were Duncan, Lake Cowichan, Ladysmith and North Cowichan.

Mayor Dobson said: "I have already approached several people to see if they would be willing to collect on behalf of the fund. The response has been good.

"I feel sure that the Cowichan district, which has always supported these appeals in the past, will do so again in generous measure."

$1 PER HEAD

Mayor Wilson said if municipalities gave $1 per head for a five-year period Vancouver Island could make a substantial contribution to the fund.

Reeve Donald Morton said on this basis North Cowichan would give $2,000 a year and Ladysmith about $600.

Dr. Taylor said 20 per cent (500) of UVIC students were from up-Island.

He broke the Cowichan University "population" down as Duncan 49, Ladysmith 16, Lake Cowichan 19, and Crofton 5.

Mr. Armstrong said the $28,000,000 plus the $40,000,000 from the federal government would be the three universities' capital program fund for the next five years. UVIC's share would be $1,900,000.

$2 MILLION TARGET

Target for the Island is $2 million. Greater Victoria has already raised over $400,000, said Mr. Armstrong.

Mayor Wilson said industry is doing a tremendous job supporting the drive.

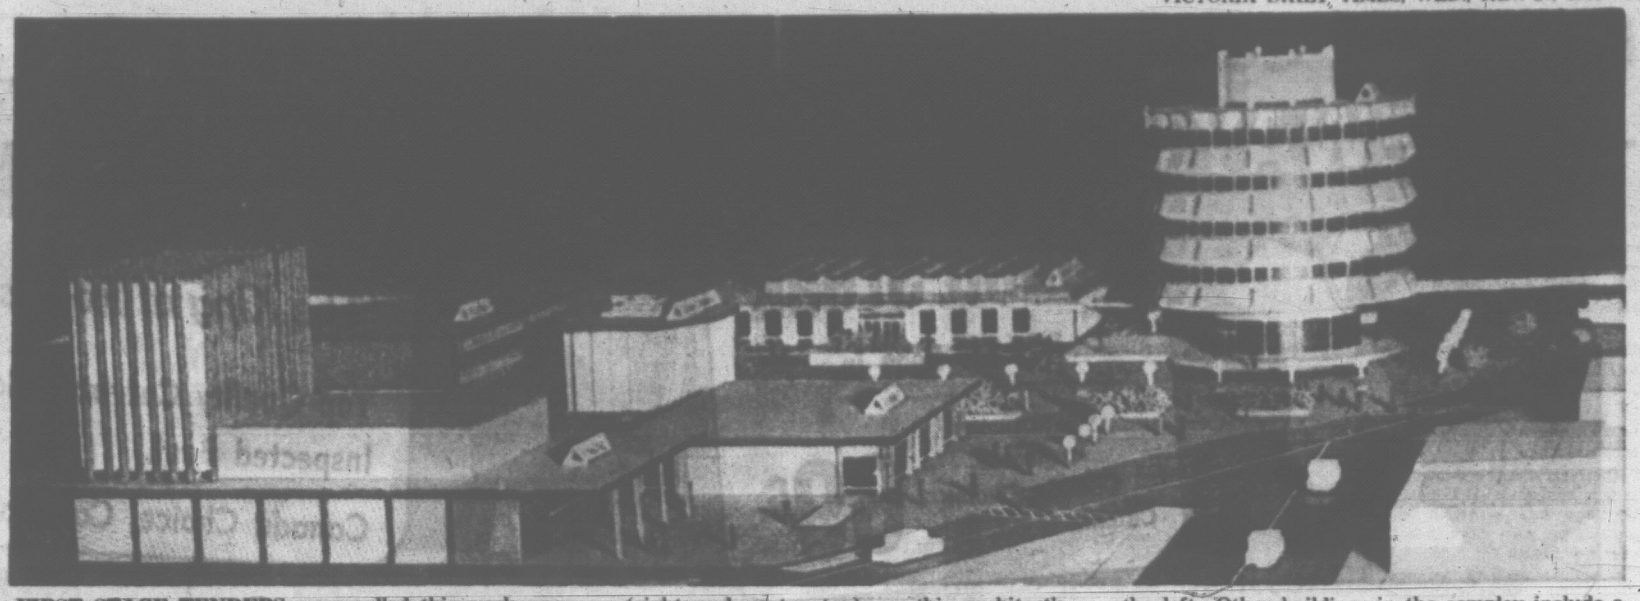

McMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. had donated $2 million and Crown Zellerbach $750,000.

Dr. Taylor said it was estimated that by 1975 three-quarters of the industrial labor force would be working on products not yet discovered.

Some 75 per cent of prescriptions issued today were of drugs not known 10 years ago.

More new mathematics have been created since 1900 than in all previous history.

These figures were hard to believe but meant that universities, technological schools and all post-high school institutes must be developed if we are to provide a chance for young people.

FIRST STAGE TENDERS were called this week for the new provincial courthouse and government offices in Duncan. The tenders, which will be opened Feb. 19, are for excavation work and frame construction of the two buildings. They can be seen (right and centre top) on this architect's model of the proposed Duncan civic centre. Government offices will be housed in the round building, court and court offices in the flat building to the left. Other buildings in the complex include a two-storey city hall, with a free-standing council chamber in front of the square, a civic centre and a library.

Revenue Loss, Goodwill Gain In Morton Plan

DUNCAN — Reeve Donald Morton of North Cowichan Tuesday proposed a single trades licence for the area from north of Ladysmith to south of Duncan.

He suggested the municipal clerks of North Cowichan, Duncan, Ladysmith and Lake Cowichan examine the proposal.

"It would mean a loss of revenue but would gain the goodwill of many people," Reeve Morton said.

"It would bring people into the area because of the simplicity of doing business."

Reeve Morton was addressing a joint meeting of the four councils.

EXPANSION STARTS ON VETERANS' HALL

Work started Tuesday on a $45,000 renovation and expansion project for the Sidney hall of Branch 302, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association.

The project includes construction of a parking lot on the north side of the hall, installation of a new heating unit, alterations to the office and renovations to the recreational area.

William J. Larnick, secretary-manager, said the project would be completed in late spring.

New officers elected at an annual meeting: Jack Swedberg, president; George DeKalver, first vice-president; George Coward, Lyle MisKiman, Ray Hague, Joe Thomas and Frank Perkins, executive committee.

Plaques were awarded to Herman Slade and Ernest Day for outstanding service to the association.

Big Effort Due This Year To Cut Sanscha Hall Debt

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Sidney and North Saanich Community Hall Association is making a major effort this year to reduce the debt on its community hall.

The program includes:

A drive next month to increase membership from 300 to 1,000.

A Klondyke Night on Feb. 20 raise funds.

Increased rentals for the hall.

A Dominion Day festival to raise at least $2,000.

Alan Spooner, president of Sanscha, told the annual meeting Monday the debt on the hall has been reduced since 1958 from $22,500 to $7,100.

"In three years we hope to wipe out the debt," he said.

20 GROUPS

The hall, valued at $80,000, caters to more than 20 organizations in Sidney and North Saanich.

Mr. Spooner said rentals will be slightly increased this year because only $81 profit from this source was recorded last year. The present charge for the hall is $25 a night.

RE-ELECTED

The meeting re-elected Mr. Spooner president. Bob Day is first vice-president; Col. R. O. Bull, second vice-president; and Ken Soles, third vice-president.

Directors are: D. K. Archibald, Mrs. W. W. Gardner, N. A. Hale, J. Kingerlee, Mrs. A. R. Spooner, A. W. Freeman, Frank Minns, Mrs. J. Mitchell, E. W. North, Frank Edlington, Andries Boas, Peter Russell, Mrs. D. Thomas, George Laing and J. R. Hannan.

ISLAND DIGEST

Campsite Sought For Cowichan L.

LAKE COWICHAN—Lake Cowichan Chamber of Commerce has asked the provincial cabinet to establish a "Class A" campsite at the lake.

Ed. McBride, chamber director, said the recreation department last spring declined help to the lake Kiwanis Club in its development of a 172-acre park on the south shore of the lake.

The department said it was interested in a larger project.

Mr. McBride said the department is examining the possibility of developing a major campsite of some 600 acres in the Cottonwood Creek delta area northwest of Youbou.

He said there is an ever-increasing demand for weekend camping facilities at the lake.

NEW HIGHWAY

A general meeting of the chamber Tuesday night endorsed a resolution renewing a demand for a new Cowichan Lake highway from the Trans-Canada at Duncan.

Five new directors were elected: Alan Anderson, Tom Rogers, Ernie Clode, Ken Frost and Mack Wise.

The anual installation banquet was set for Thursday, Feb. 25 at Mesachie Lake hall when the guest speaker will be Don Saunders, assistant to the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. president, Vancouver. Mr. Saunders is a former manager of the BCFP mill at Youbou.

Protection Asked For Search Groups

ALBERNI (CP) — Mayor Fred Bishop says search and rescue groups who look for lost hunters and do other hazardous types of jobs should be covered by insurance in case of injury.

He told council it was "unthinkable" that such groups are not covered while rendering voluntary service.

MERGER ILLEGAL —LAWYER

CAMPBELL RIVER — Oak Bay MLA Alan Macfarlane claims the action of municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell in forming a district municipality here was illegal.

Mr. Macfarlane, a lawyer, investigated the procedures adopted by Mr. Campbell at the request of the Citizens' Rights Organization of Campbell River.

In a letter to the group, Mr. Macfarlane says deputy municipal affairs minister J. Everett Brown told him "none of the provisions of the existing Municipal Act were applicable, or were applied" in forming the municipality or holding the December 12 vote.

Following the vote, Campbell River and neighboring Willow Point were declared a district municipality.

AVENUE OPEN

Mr. Macfarlane's letter further stated: "There are, of course, provisions in the existing Municipal Act which should have been used in extending the boundaries of the then-existing village municipality."

However, Mr. Campbell's department intended to legalize the matter by presenting a bill to the legislature.

The latter says: "In other words, legislation will be passed to legalize what was illegal at the time it was done.

". . . I want to make it clear . . . I have not expressed my own opinion with respect to the method adopted by the government in the formation of the new municipality.

"Suffice it to say that I do not think that expediency is any excuse for acting outside the law."

LADYSMITH

Expert Hired To Design Park Area

LADYSMITH — Council has hired Vancouver planning consultant John Maitland-Carter to design an 80-acre parkland on the south side of the city.

"We may sell some of the land for residential development, but Ladysmith will certainly get a park," Mayor Kathleen Grouhel said at a council meeting Monday night.

Mr. Maitland-Carter will meet with council and members of the recreation commission and provisional members of the new advisory planning commission Feb. 15.

$278,000 BUDGET

Council accepted a provisional 1965 budget of $278,000, compared to the 1964 village commission budget of $222,000.

The budget was stretched an additional $8,000 to meet unexpected social welfare costs, not included in an earlier provisional budget.

Council also agreed to invite tenders for the city ambulance service formerly run by J. E. Grouhel, husband of the new mayor.

Directors Needed By SPCA

DUNCAN—Cowichan SPCA is short of officers for the coming year.

Four more directors are required and Miss Mary Waldon has made a public appeal for volunteers from anyone interested in animal welfare.

Miss Waldon was re-elected president of the branch. Other officers are: Mrs. Josef Lang, first vice-president; Douglas Barker, second vice-president; Mrs. Alex Reid, recording secretary; Mrs. Kathleen Mynkantas, corresponding secretary; Mrs Cyril Craig, treasurer; and Miss H. F. Rea, William Waldon, W. Spencer, Mrs. Betty McKinnon and Mrs. John Sanders, directors.

Despite a financial report that the branch was "just making ends meet," Miss Waldon said it was hoped to make further improvements to the animal shelter this year.

In 1964 the branch truck covered 8,000 miles; 547 cats and 304 dogs were destroyed; 178 new homes found for dogs; and the inspector answered nearly 4,000 telephone inquiries.

Bid to Control Fumes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government proposed Tuesday that a system to control release of exhaust fumes be required on new motor vehicles it purchases as a means of reducing air pollution.

New Demands for Services Seen by Oak Bay Engineer

Increases in population and leisure time during the next 20 years will bring problems in planning for traffic, apartments and recreational land in Oak Bay.

These are the areas pondered by the municipality's engineer and planner Geoffrey White in his annual report to council.

Oak Bay will have to become concerned with urban specialization.

The engineer said the municipality will see a demand for a great deal of improvement to services in which it is deficient because of its residential nature.

BIG IMPACT

Improved retirement schemes across Canada are expected to have a great impact on the Greater Victoria area.

The demand for smaller houses and apartments will keep on rising, Mr. White forecasts.

The municipality during the past eight years has seen an increase of 20 per cent in its population to 17,400.

The Capital Region Plan has estimated a population of 20,000 for the municipality by 1976, but the growth is already increasing by 45 per cent of the estimate.

And only 35 per cent of the increase time, which was set in 1956, has elapsed.

30,000 PEOPLE

"If we provide sufficient areas for apartments to meet the demands of those wishing to live in Oak Bay, then within 20 years it is likely our population will be nearer to 30,000 than 20,000," Mr. White said.

But there are only 400 single-family dwelling lots remaining in the municipality.

These facts have produced the three planning problems.

Increases in living standards and inevitable growth of parts of Oak Bay means an increase in cars.

Recent figures reveal the number of families with three cars today equals the number with two cars 15 years ago.

Traffic will increase 6 per cent per year.

The result would be a doubling of traffic in 12 years and a quadrupling in 30 years.

The engineer recommended preparation of a master traffic plan.

It should be revised every seven years.

A long-term capital budget for its financing should follow.

Mr. White recommends the municipality attract more apartments and enlarge the depths of several existing apartment areas.

"New apartments are likely to be the only major development of our assets," he stated.

STRICT RULES

He pointed out regulations governing development of apartment sites in the municipality are more stringent in Oak Bay.

And developers are finding eight storeys the minimum for economic rents at the present time.

Mr. White suggests reviews of depths of apartment zones along Oak Bay Ave. and Haultain St. are suggested.

A public hearing is also suggested to explain to ratepayers the use of the land north of Willows Park, now zoned for apartments.

SHIPBUILDERS WORRY

Regional Bids Key to Future

Victoria shipyards could be in serious trouble by 1966 unless the federal government returns to a regional-bid basis on shipbuilding contracts.

Harold Husband, president of VMD, said Monday that wage differentials and freight rates from Eastern Canada, make it "extremely difficult for the west to compete with the east" on contract bids.

Typical is the recent national call by bids by the federal government for shipyards to undertake conversion work on HMCS Fraser.

"The bids are being called now, but it will be very difficult for us to come even close to eastern shipyard bids," Mr. Husband said.

"There is a good dollar difference in average wages between western and eastern shipyards," Mr. Husband said. "Add to this the freight charges on boilers, turbines, steel and other essential equipment, all of which comes to us from the east and you can see what the difficulty is."

Mr. Husband said VMD had enough shipbuilding contracts to carry it to the end of this year. "But we have no contracts after the end of 1965," he said. "It is this period, 1966 and at least half of 1967 that is causing us grave concern."

Towards the end of 1966 the government will be calling for the first bids in a $200,000,000 defence shipbuilding program.

Key to the future of west coast shipyards lies in whether the bids are called on a national or a regional basis.

John Wallace, general manager of Yarrows Ltd., who with Mr. Husband last week attended a series of briefing meetings on the new program, says it is essential that the bids be called on a regional basis.

The government has as yet made no decisions as to how the bids will be called.

"We are anxious to know how the contracts will be let," Mr. Wallace said. "To the west it is vital that the department's policy of regional bidding be maintained," he added.

The program, announced last fall by Defence Minister Paul Hellyer, calls for construction of four destroyer-helicopter ships and two support craft.

But even if the bids are called on a regional basis, and even if Victoria is successful in attracting some of the contracts, employment headaches will remain for shipyard workers.

"The bids will not be called for at least 18 months," Mr. Husband said.

"That means that even if we obtained some of the contracts it would be the end of 1966 before work came into the yards. It is this gap that is worrying us right now."

Birth Control Decisions Up To Bishops?

By CANDIDE TEMPLE
Times UVIC Correspondent

No decision on the controversial subject of birth control should be expected from the Ecumenical Council in Rome, according to Roman Catholic Bishop Remi de Roo.

Bishop de Roo was addressing students at the University of Victoria at a political science forum. He was questioned on any possible change in the Church's stand on birth control.

The Ecumenical Council, which completed its third session in November 1964, could make no detailed pronouncement on such an involved subject, he replied.

VALID FOR ALL

"The Council must make universal decisions which are valid for every human being," he said.

Since birth control depends often on individual circumstances, the matter would probably be left to the decisions of groups of bishops for their respective dioceses.

Bishop de Roo also described the goals and the operation of the Ecumenical Council since its first session in 1962 under Pope John XXIII.

Among its objectives are the "aggiornamento" or up-dating of the Church, and the establishment of Christian unity. Public reaction, he said, forced the Council to accept the latter as one of its major aims.

SWINGING BACK

At the beginning of the 19th century a liberal movement within the Church forced the Church's administration to be centralized around the Pope, the Bishop said.

"But the pendulum is now swinging back the other way," he declared.

Commenting on the present organization of the Church, he said that "a head without a body" was as impossible as "a body without a head."

Awards, Bursaries Given to Musicians

A recital by 12 performers marked the awards presentations Sunday evening at Oak Bay Beach Hotel by Victoria chapter of the Royal Toronto Conservatory Alumni.

City musicians were complimented for their performances by Reginald Godden, a representative of the conservatory.

Mr. Justice R. A. Wootton was guest speaker and awards and bursaries were presented by Mrs. J. I. Durand.

Receiving ARCT diplomas were pianists Gail Wall, Karen Dickenson and Lynne Dougan, and vocalist Sally Seymour.

Teachers' diplomas were presented to Valerie Watkin and Mary Lyttleton (1963).

Frederick Harris scholarships were awarded pianists Valerie Forbes and violinist Lorna Baker. Alumni bursaries were presented to pianists Connie Pepper and Alan Denike and euphonium player Robert Baxter.

The Gertrude Huntley Green scholarship went to pianist Stuart Calder.

Silver medalists for highest grade marks in B.C. were awarded to singers Hilary Scott, grade one, and Madeleine Groos, grade six; pianists Valerie Forbes and Alan Denike, grade five, equal; speech artists Stephanie and Melanie Perkins, grade two, and violinist Lorna Baker, grade four.

$8.3 MILLION SIGNED UP BY VARSITIES

Nearly a third of the $28 million target of a tri-university capital fund campaign has been attained in gifts and pledges over the next five years.

Vancouver Island division chairman W. H. Armstrong said the total for all universities—Simon Fraser, University of Victoria and UBC—has reached $8,327,962.

Campaign kits are being distributed this week to more than 625 volunteers enlisted to carry out the public section of the campaign on Vancouver Island and the mainland.

These leaders will recruit an estimated 10,000 canvassers to launch the spring offensive.

Site of International Village Disclosed Tonight

Forty 11-year-old children from 10 different countries will probably live in a summer village near Victoria next July and August.

A site for the village has been arranged by the International Co-operation Year Committee of Victoria and construction will proceed as soon as funds are available.

"We shall need about $8,000," said committee chairman Robert W. Dudley of the B.C. Mental Health Association, "and we believe this can be raised by volunteer effort.

"The village will be constructed along the lines of similar villages which have been operated in Europe and the United States for many years past."

Exact location of the village will be disclosed at a special meeting of the International Co-operation Year Committee in the YMCA building tonight at 8.

"We shall also discuss methods of raising funds for the project."

The children to be invited will all be 11-year-olds. They will be selected in different countries by representatives of the Children's International Summer Village Association, which has its headquarters in Cincinatti, Ohio.

The invitations are restricted to 11-year-olds because at this age children are considered most adaptable to change and have no deep-rooted prejudices.

"They are able to communicate with each other even when they cannot speak a common language" Mr. Dudley said. "Older children do not have the same rapport."

Over the past 20 years international children's villages have been set up in Britain, the United States, France, the Scandinavian countries, Russia, Czechoslovakia and Poland.

"Experience has shown that a high percentage of these children go into international social work when they grow up," Mr. Dudley said.

"They often establish lasting friendships with children from other countries and, on returning to their own schools, they give talks on their experiences."

A NEW KIND OF BATHROOM TISSUE!
Facelle Royale 2-Ply is Canada's most luxurious bathroom tissue. Consumer reports confirm that no other 1 or 2-ply tissue is as strong and absorbent, yet so gentle, as Facelle Royale... that's why it's the fastest growing brand in Canada.

Facelle Royale 2-ply Bathroom Tissue has the same superior quality as Facelle facial tissue. That's why it's so much softer and stronger! These unretouched pictures show why no ordinary tissue can compare with Facelle Royale...

MUCH SOFTER!
Magnified six times, ordinary tissue reveals its hard, "tweedy" texture. Facelle Royale is made a different way—free from any hard, stiff pattern. That's why it's so soft and gentle.

NEW MORE PRACTICAL SIZE!
A single sheet of ordinary tissue is about 4½" long. Facelle Royale has a 6" sheet size—the new length that's preferred by consumers for convenience and economy.

SPOTLESS PROTECTION!
Facelle Royale comes in this exclusive two-roll package. When you take out the first roll . . . the second stays protected in its own inner wrap. Only Facelle gives tissue this convenient extra protection.

For the finest in facial tissue try Facelle Royale Regular or Man Size

Once you try Facelle Royale you'll never want ordinary tissues again!

Barrett Blasts Press, Liberals Social Credit

The Social Credit party, Liberal party and British Columbia press came under severe—and sometimes amusing—fire from David Barrett (NDP—Dewdney) in the legislature Tuesday night.

Mr. Barrett prompted several outbursts of laughter from both sides of the house when he attacked subsidies to large companies like the Canadian Pacific Railway and Consolidated Mining and Smelting.

He said the CPR "got $8 million in social welfare from the federal government and the B.C. public accounts show that CM & S, a poverty-stricken company in the interior of this province, got $114,000 in social welfare from this government."

At another point, urging redistribution of constituencies and a more systematic remunera- of voters, Mr. Barrett conceded it was a touchy problem because "politicians can be paranoic when you start playing around with their polls."

Another "serious problem is in the government ferry service," Mr. Barrett said, decrying the 12-hour day, six-day week worked by some ferry crews.

CREW MEMBERS

He said the government would be branded with the blame if a ferry accident occurred due to fatigue of crew members.

"This is foolish and dangerous . . . and it is not fair to the wives and children of the employees either," he said.

Victoria Socred J. Donald Smith joined with opposition members in applauding the remark.

Mr. Barrett claimed B.C.'s four major papers are under a common ownership and this had created a bad situation.

Pointing to the Liberal MLAs, he said "these papers make out this five-man group as the government, the opposition and the only group that utters anything of value in this house — they are the darlings of the press.

"The editorials are dripping with things like poor Mr. Pearson, but they attack Mr. Diefenbaker as though he were some kind of animal."

Mr. Barrett said "headlines were brandished across this province which were calculated to inflame the people when this government had some troubles in the cabinet" but the same treatment was not being accorded to the federal Liberal cabinet troubles.

Mr. Barrett said that the four papers may not exercise direct control over newsstaff but the single ownership inevitably "does subtly, unconsciously influence the newsmen. I'm not attacking the journalist but their working conditions.

'NO COVERAGE'

"After sounding these warnings, I will go on . . . getting no coverage for the rest of my speech," he said as the house broke into laughter.

Mr. Barrett bitterly attacked Welfare Minister Wesley Black as the "worst minister that this department has ever had in this province's history."

He said since 1961 some 920 children that could have found foster or adopted parents became wards of the government because there were insufficient social workers to make the placements.

He added that last year there were 66 resignations by social workers, a turnover of 30 per cent in one year.

The MLAs enjoy a medicare program paid for by the taxpayers and these same benefits should be extended to the people.

Mr. Barrett said there is a leadership vacuum in Ottawa that is endangering the unity of the nation and he urged the provincial government to stop acting "more separatist than Quebec."

He said he welcomed the $100 million B.C. loan to Quebec achievement that would promote province as a "singular" achievement that would promote national unity.

LEAF FAILS POINT TEST

MONTREAL (CP)—A new Canadian flag is flying over the entrance to Montreal's city hall—but it's the wrong one.

The flag has 13 points on the red maple leaf instead of the official 11.

"I don't think anyone really is counting the points," a city spokesman said. "It's still obvious that the flag is distinctively Canadian."

MAPLE LEAF STAMP SET FOR SUMMER

OTTAWA (CP)—A five-cent postage stamp featuring Canada's single red maple leaf is to be issued the day before July 1, the national holiday celebrating Confederation.

Postmaster-General Nicholson said in a statement the stamp to be issued June 30 will show the new flag flying from a pole against a blue sky. The word Canada will appear in the middle-left position.

A department spokesman said work on the design has not been completed.

AT REGINA

Bus Fares Increased Five Cents

REGINA (CP)—Bus fares will be increased five cents to 20 cents here effective Jan. 31.

City council Monday gave third and final reading to a bylaw covering the increase over the opposition of Mayor Henry Baker.

The mayor, who delayed the increase last week, was again the only dissenter in council which approved the increase in a 9-1 recorded vote.

The fare increase sets adult cash fares at 20 cents. Student fares will be raised to 15 cents from 10 cents. Children's fares remain unchanged at 5 cents.

Adult riders will pay $1 for seven tickets instead of eight, and students will pay $1 for 10 instead of 12.

The power and transportation committee, in recommending the fare increases, said the move was necessary to combat rising deficits.

Mayor Baker argued the increase will reduce use of the system and hit hardest at those least able to afford the increase.

Bill Fails To Qualify At 'Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO — Bill Wakeham, a fledging professional from Victoria, will attend the $50,000 Lucky Open tournament . . . as a spectator only.

The 24-year-old former B.C. champion failed to qualify for the San Francisco tournament which gets under way Thursday.

Wakeham fired a three-over-par 75 in the qualifying round Monday. Scores of 74, or better, were needed to qualify.

The Victorian, hoping to make the Lucky his first big pro tournament start, was four over par after the first five holes but played one-under-par golf the rest of the day.

He dropped a 25-foot birdie putt on the 17th and just missed another birdie try on the 18th.

Wakeham blamed his poor start on "nervousness."

"I never felt anything like it before," he said. "I guess I tried too hard to make good. Once I calmed down, I think I played rather well."

Wakeham will spend a few days in California before heading for the Caribbean. The Caribbean tour opens Feb. 11 in Panama. Other stops include Bogota (Feb. 18-21), Caracas (Feb. 25-28), Maracaibo (March 4-7), and Puerto Rico (March 11-14).

SIGNALS OF SUCCESS

There was joy in Leafville Tuesday night at Memorial Arena as Victoria's John Sleaver (8) finally snapped unhappy Western Hockey League streak by scoring first goal in 16 games while Maple Leafs were trimming San Francisco Seals 6-3. Also lifting sticks high in joyful signal of success are Sleaver's linemates Gordie Redahl (16) and Lou Jankowski (14). Sad fellow is 'Frisco goalie Bobby Perreault, who was bombed with 38 shots. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

Bud Suffers Most In Cardiac Clash

Eddie Mazur Paces Leafs In 6-3 Stumble Past Seals

Victoria 6, San Francisco 3

By DOUG PEDEN

Referee Ron Wicks called a penalty in the first period Tuesday night at Memorial Arena and Gordie Redahl, who had been sitting quietly on the Victoria bench, ended up serving time.

After stopping play behind the Maple Leaf net, Wicks skated over to the scorer and announced a slashing penalty to No. 2 of Victoria.

That number happened to be stitched on the sweater of defenceman Fred Hucul, who was also watching calmly from the bench. Redahl was sent out to inform the referee of Hucul's innocence and was promptly selected to serve the penalty.

By itself, the incident meant little more than a befuddled official. But it was a sign of things to come and it proved that everybody was to have a turn in the spotlight during a "how to do it" hockey drama.

It was a night in which almost nothing went according to plans and expectations.

For instance, San Francisco Seals scored the supposedly important first goal of the game and ended up getting the first tally in each period. Yet they dropped a 6-3 Western Hockey League decision to the Leafs, who blasted four scoring shots in the opening session and collected two tallies in the second.

The Leafs played one of their poorer games and wound up with one of their most decisive decisions.

Pucks Were Acting Like Tennis Balls

'Frisco goalie Bobby Perreault, 34 this week and magnificent figure last Saturday as the Seals nipped a much sharper Victoria club 3-2, several times found himself caught out of position like a rookie.

This time balding Bobby fielded eight fewer shots and yielded four more goals.

Helping not a bit as both clubs took turns in staging demonstrations of frustration and futility was sticky and bumpy ice that had pucks flopping and hopping so much that players were complaining of being forced to play tennis.

Pucks were rolling and jumping over sticks all night and more passes went to the wrong guys than Perreault has hairs left on his head.

And there were occasions when defensive hockey seemed to be a forgotten art. Good plays usually went unrewarded, zany efforts paid dividends. All but one of the Victoria goals appeared to arrive almost by accident.

Rudy Shaking, But He Could Smile

It was the kind of a game designed to make cardiac cases out of coaches.

San Francisco coach Bud Poile went for a walk along arena corridors between the first and second periods to ease his blood pressure rather than risk an explosion in his usual huddle with players in the dressing room.

Victoria coach Rudy Pilous, who at least could smile when it was all over, needed time to stop shaking.

"It'll drive you crazy, that loose hockey," Pilous said. "It looked like our strategy was rubber hockey sticks and no back checking."

Despite the plague of errors, it was far from a wasted evening for the patrons.

With both clubs having trouble skating and passing, play was about even and the game was not without suspense. The way defences were wobbling, few of the 2,401 fans would have wagered next month's rent that the Leafs were sure to get home in front even after running up their 6-2 lead in the second period.

Leafs Go Best Without Much Rest

And there were these standouts among the Leafs:

● Veteran winger Eddie Mazur, driving hard all the way, collected two goals and an assist. The "Spider" was voted the Victoria star of the game.

● Centre John Sleaver, another hard worker who did a lot of fine checking. Sleaver, who scored 23 times last season, snapped a goal famine that had stretched through 16 games back to Dec. 20 with his ninth tally of the campaign and added his 36th assist.

● Goalie Al Millar, alert and quick while seeing more Seals than friends. Millar finished with 38 saves, including 16 in the final period.

Dick Lamoureux, Milan Marcetta and Danny Belisle, who gratefully accepted a pass from 'Frisco defenceman Gerry Odrowski for a golf shot past Perreault, also scored for the Leafs.

Dallas Smith, Ray Cyr and Charlie Burns, who worked most of the third period and picked up his 26th goal, counted for the cellar-floundering Seals.

Victory lifted the Leafs back on the heels of Vancouver Canucks, one point behind the third-place Vancouver club.

Leafs had played only once since the previous Tuesday and their effort made it appear they play better during the busy parts of their schedule. Thus it is probable that Pilous will arrange plenty of practice toil before his charges make their next start Saturday night at the Arena.

They tangle with the league-leading Buckaroos, who are itching for revenge after losing three times and earning one draw in their last four clashes with the Maple Leafs.

Burns Shares Lead

Charlie Burns of San Francisco Seals scored his 26th goal of the season Tuesday night at Memorial Arena to make it a three-way tie for first place in the Western Hockey League scoring race.

Burns, who scored the final San Francisco goal as the Seals were taking a 6-3 trimming from Victoria Maple Leafs, stepped into a top-spot deadlock with Seattle's Guyle Fielder and Norm Johnson of Los Angeles.

All have an even 60 points. Burns has compiled his total on 26 goals and 24 assists, Johnson on 22 and 38, Fielder on nine and 51.

Victoria's Milan Marcetta, getting a goal and assist, climbed into a fifth-place tie with Portland's Pat Stapleton with 54 points, four behind Billy McNeill of Vancouver.

Wayne Connelly of the Seals was held pointless Tuesday but held his goal-scoring lead. He has fired 27 tallies, one more than the number scored by Victoria's Larry Keenan and Burns.

SPORTS DIARY

By SHIRLEY POVICH
(The Washington Post)

WASHINGTON — Not in eleven months has Cassius Clay pulled on a boxing glove for combat but he, almost alone, has been keeping the prize-fight business alive.

He is the enemy of silence and has arrived on the scene just in time to breach the quiet and disinterest that had been overtaking the Floyd Patterson-George Chuvalo heavyweight fight scheduled for Feb. 1.

It was an inspired stroke by the closed-circuit television promoters of the Patterson-Chuvalo bout to hire Clay for $10,000 to do the between-rounds commentary for that one. The bout is beginning to come alive, thanks to Clay, who is taking himself seriously as a sort of co-promoter and lending his open mouth to the ballyhoo.

Cassius began by calling both fighters names, mostly uncomplimentary, but serving to call attention to the fact that a fight was coming up. The other day, Clay shepherded a busload of 30 boxing writers and cameramen to Chuvalo's training camp in the Catskills. Chuvalo had been attracting only his trainer to his workouts. But where Cassius goes, there is a following.

Predictably, the unpredictable happened to Cassius in the Catskills. He took a turn at driving his personal bus and landed it and his whole cargo in a ditch. Took his eyes off the road for a near-disastrous moment. Nobody got hurt, but Chuvalo vs. Patterson got headlines it had never merited before.

He'd Like 'To Whup Up the Interest'

Clay earned his $10,000 from the closed-TV promoters before even getting on the air. He was also wonderfully frank about the whole thing about the bus. He doesn't even have a driver's licence, he said. "Lost it on points down in Florida. And, anyway, they won't give me a new one under my preferred name of Muhammed Ali."

The Madison Square Garden people who are promoting the live bout and are not paying Clay a dime for his aid in the ballyhoo are cashing in big on his antics. Ticket sales have spurted and Cassius, now fancying himself as a natural-born promoter, has offered his services to the Garden for nothing. "I'd like to whup up the interest for you," he told Harry Markson, the old pro.

Eyes Front Or You'll Miss the Story

Just as Clay learned that he dare not take his eyes off the road, the boxing journalists have learned they dare not take their eyes off Clay else the story of the day be missed.

Earlier, it was complete scorn that Clay held for both Patterson and Chuvalo, calling them respectively but disrespectfully, "The Rabbit" and "The Washerwoman." This was not an unbright commentary on their fighting styles. It was a reference by Clay to Patterson's running tactics and Chuvalo's short punching to the body.

Of late, though, Cassius has had something nice to say about Chuvalo, and perhaps he should because the Canadian knocked out Doug Jones, the fellow who stayed the limit with Clay and gave him a hard time. "I was impressed with Chuvalo," he said. "He's better than I thought. I might catch trouble from that fellow. I look for him to knock out The Rabbit."

Boxing Dead Without Cassius

It was a break with Clay's pattern of insult ballyhoo, and he may yet be disposed to say something nice also against Patterson. But thus far Cassius has consistently devalued the two-time holder of the heavyweight title. "I call him Rabbit because he's scared," said Clay. "He also reminds me of a nursery rhyme I once learned in school.

"It starts like this: 'Once there were three rabbits—Momma Rabbit, Poppa Rabbit, and Floyd Patterson.' I'm going to take him some lettuce and carrots and I might get a couple of hound dogs, too. The Rabbit might try to hide on me and I'll have to track him down in the snow."

Clay himself may not be an adornment to the gallery of heavyweight champions but he is irrepressible. The fight business has been stagnating ever since a hernia operation took him out of action. It isn't very flourishing yet, and in fact may not be worth saving, but without Cassius it would be stone cold dead.

SMILE of satisfaction is worn by Ernie Koy Jr., star of Texas' win over undefeated Alabama in Orange Bowl, after signing one-year pact with New York Giants of National Football League.

Marichal Sends Distress Signal

NEW YORK (AP)—Herman Franks, new manager of San Francisco Giants, hasn't much to worry about—yet.

But a faint distress signal eminates from Santo Domingo where Juan Marichal, the Giants' ace pitcher, has developed groin trouble and a troublesome boil under his right arm.

What's more, he was ineffective Tuesday while working in the Dominican championships. The big right-hander was tagged for seven runs and eight hits in less than five innings as his team lost 8-6.

Marichal won 21 games for San Francisco last season despite a back ailment that sidelined him for a month in late summer.

HASN'T SIGNED

He has yet to sign his 1965 contract. However, two batterymates, catchers Tom Haller and Del Crandall, came to terms Tuesday. Haller hit .258 with 16 homers last year, while the 35-year-old Crandall batted .231 in 69 games.

The rival Los Angeles Dodgers also received three signed contracts. They were from shortstop Maury Wills, pitcher Joe Moeller and catcher Hector Valle.

Among others who signed were second-baseman Don Buford and pitcher Tom John of Chicago White Sox, pitcher Al Worthington of Minnesota Twins, pitchers Pete Lovrich and Ron Tompkins and second-baseman Tony Larussa of Kansas City Athletics and pitchers Bob Lee and Don Lee of the Angels.

SAME SALARY

Wills stole 53 bases last season. Since joining the Dodgers in the mid-season of 1959, he has stolen 289. It was understood he will receive $50,000 for the season's work, the same salary he earned last year.

Bob and Don Lee, not related, are the 17th and 18th Angels to sign their 1965 contracts.

Bob was outstanding in relief last season. He appeared in 64 games, a record for rookies. His record was 6-5 for the season and his earned-run average was 1.33.

Don was used as a spot starter and long relief man last year. He compiled a 5-4 record in 33 games and had an E.R.A. of 2.73.

Visiting Scots Masters at Draw

TORONTO (CP) — Visiting Scottish curlers demonstrated their mastery of the draw game here Tuesday, winning four out of six matches against Ontario in the 16th round of the Strathcona Cup.

The Scots defeated the Ontario curlers by an aggregate score of 68-59. But Canada still leads the competition by an over-all total of 1,144 to 900 with four rounds remaining in the cross-Canada competition.

Victoria Leads Bantam Playoff

Esquimalt was edged 4-3 by Victoria Tuesday night at the Sports Centre in the opening game of a two-game, total-goals bantam hockey playoff.

Second game of the city championship series is slated Feb. 5 at Esquimalt.

PITY POOR PUNCH

Stewart Included In Cripple Parade

By The Canadian Press

Injuries. That's one factor Chicago Black Hawks' management didn't consider last October when they predicted Toronto Maple Leafs would finish 10 to 15 points ahead of the other National Hockey League teams.

Toronto, defending Stanley Cup champions, began the season by winning three and tying three of its first six games to set the pace. But then the roof fell in and injuries have mounted ever since.

Toronto players have missed a total of more than 60 games through injuries. The Leafs are still a respectable six points behind first-place Montreal but, on the other hand, only a point up on fourth-place Detroit.

Other teams have suffered because of injuries—Boston has lost Bobby Leiter and Dean Prentice for the season while Montreal's Gilles Tremblay is out for several months—but Toronto's miseries haven't been centred on just a few players.

Only six regulars have dressed for every game: Red Kelly, Ron Stewart, Carl Brewer, Kent Douglas, Tim Horton and Bob Baun.

MISSED 15 GAMES

Andy Bathgate, recently back after suffering a broken thumb, has missed 15 games through injuries. Tied for second with 11 games are Frank Mahovlich and George Armstrong.

Rookie Ron Ellis has missed eight games, Dave Keon five, Bob Pulford and Allan Stanley three each and Jim Pappin two. Dickie Moore hasn't dressed for 23 games, Billy Harris for three and Eddie Shack two, but some of these are due to manpower manoeuvres.

Stewart, however, now is on the injury list along with Pappin and Armstrong. Coach Punch Imlach plans to have Armstrong back in action by the weekend but the other two are doubtful.

Don McKenney may be recalled from Rochester of the American League if the Leafs are shortstaffed.

The Leafs don't play again until next weekend when they tangle with Boston in a home-and-home series. But they're sure to lose ground to Chicago and Montreal in the race for first place.

The Hawks and Canadiens tangle at Montreal tonight while Boston Bruins visit New York Rangers.

Chuvalo Scrap Gets Theatre TV Exposure

NEW YORK (AP) — The heavyweight fight between former world champion Floyd Patterson and George Chuvalo of Toronto will be carried by theatre television at 64 locations in 44 cities in the U.S. and 10 in Canada, it was announced Tuesday.

In addition, the Feb. 1 bout will be carried on subscription television in Toronto and Hartford, Conn.

In all, about 300,000 seats will be available for theatre-TV.

Promoter Al Principe is offering the fight on closed-circuit wide-screen TV at Memorial Arena.

Canadians Aim At Speed Title

OSLO (AP)—Thirty-nine skaters from 15 nations, including Canada, have applied to take part in the world speed-skating championships here Feb. 13-14, the Norwegian organizing committee announced today.

A spokesman for the committee said the list of entrants will have to be reduced if no skaters withdraw voluntarily before the championships.

Manuel Goes Well; Trips Welter King

HOUSTON (AP)—Third-ranked Manuel Gonzalez fought to a surprise split-decision victory over Emile Griffith, the world's welterweight boxing champion, in a 10-round over-the-weight, non-title match Tuesday night.

Griffith had been favored. The bout drew 6,500 persons paying above $35,000.

Gonzalez, in the fight of his career, not only looked the part of a title contender but proved it with stinging left jabs.

Judges Earl Keil scored the fight 96-95 for Gonzalez. Referee Jimmy Webb saw it 97-94 for Gonzalez and Judge Maxie Ross gave it to Griffith, 97-94.

The Associated Press card had it 97-96 in favor of Griffith.

WIRKOWSKI PROBLEMS LITTLE ONES

TORONTO (UPI) — Nobby Wirkowski, former head coach of the Toronto Argonauts, is now calling the shots at a nursery school and in training as an agent for a life insurance company.

Wirkowski was elected president of the Park Royal co-operative nursery two weeks ago and chaired his first meeting Monday night.

The Wirkowskis send their two youngsters, Nobby, 3, and Linda, 5, to the school.

"It feels good to participate in your community," Wirkowski said commenting on his new job.

Wirkowski was fired last November as head coach after the Toronto Argonauts wound up last in the four-team Eastern Football Conference.

LAWYER LASHES . . . . . . MUMBLING ATHLETES

'Intellectual as Cats'

OTTAWA (CP)—American athletes who "mumble into microphones" at charity dinners at $500 a crack were raked over the coals here by an Ottawa lawyer and sportsman.

Ed Houston, a former president of the now-defunct Eastern Professional Hockey League, said in a recent speech most of the athletes even ask for taxi fares in addition to expenses attending charity dinners.

He was referring particularly to professional athletes who will be here Feb. 2 to attend the annual Associated Canadian Travellers dinner.

The dinner raises funds for the Ottawa Boys Club and other charities. The guest list this year includes Elston Howard of the New York Yankees, Weeb Ewbank, coach of the New York Jets of the American Football League, and fullback Lovell Coleman of Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference.

"Some of the American athletes who come up here as speakers are about as intellectual as tomcats," said Mr. Houston.

Braves First to Test Chinooks in Playoffs

Victoria Chinooks test their playoff nerves Friday.

Chinooks host UBC Braves at Central Junior High in the first game of their best-of-three Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League semi-final.

Second game is in Vancouver on Saturday. If a third game is necessary it will be played here February 3.

While UBC finished fourth in regular league action, the Braves have been steadily improving. Their key players are Ted Klassen, centre and Vic Rahn, a smallish but fast and sure-handed forward.

Chinooks' manager Harold Turner reports all hands fit and ready.

St. Louis College and Esquimalt midget boys play the 7:15 preliminary to the 8:30 feature.

BOWLER OF THE WEEK

Newcomer making big impression in ladies' tenpin bowling circles is Freda Peacock. Winner of several singles championships in Saskatoon who moved to Victoria about a year and a half ago, Mrs. Peacock is Times' "Bowler-of-the-Week" as a result of 173-178-213—564 series in Ladies' Classic League at Mayfair.

JAMBOREE THURSDAY

It's Time to See The Hockey Lads

Minor Hockey Week in Canada has arrived again and that means all 637 youngsters in the Victoria Minor Hockey Association will have their annual chance to sparkle in the spotlight.

Their time to play before lots of people comes up Thursday night at Memorial Arena during the city's once-yearly minor hockey jamboree. Boys of all shapes, sizes and abilities will be in action in a series of games from 4 p.m. until 10:30.

All teams will be present for official ceremonies at 7.

Some parents will be seeing sons on ice for the first time this season and it is hoped the program will interest more fathers in attending regular league games, usually held in the dark hours of the morning.

Victoria's minor hockey movement is a successful one that fits 40 teams into 17 hours of ice time each week. Officials and referees work on a voluntary basis to keep boys playing hockey.

They and the boys would like to see the arena packed Thursday night.

How about it?

Hoop Head Hopeful Of National Scheme

VANCOUVER (CP) — Luke Moyls, president of the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association, is confident Canada will be able to form a national team this year and send it on an international tour.

Moyls, who returned Monday night from Ottawa, said representatives of the amateur sports fitness council there had seemed "very impressed" with the CABA's proposals for the national team.

Moyls' delegation asked for a grant of $12,500 to set up the team, train it and send it on a Latin-American tour.

"They favored our brief and I assume they will recommend it to the minister of health and welfare," Moyls said. "We hope to receive the grant before the end of next month so we can start organizing to select the team."

The first job would be to obtain a training site, preferably at a university, and select a national coach who would select 30 players for three weeks' training.

The team would be trimmed to 12 players for a 14-game tour of Mexico, Peru, Brazil and Puerto Rico in May and June.

South Africa 171 for One

JOHANNESBURG (Reuters) - South Africa, led by 89 not out by Trevor Goddard, had reached 171 for the loss of one wicket in its second innings at the close against England in the fourth test here Tuesday.

Earlier England, losing its last six wickets while 51 runs were added was all out for 281 in reply to South Africa's first innings of 390 for 6 declared. The match ends today.

Pakistan Rallies To Force Draw

WELLINGTON (Reuters) — Pakistan slumped in its second innings on the final day of the first cricket Test match against New Zealand Tuesday, but the tailenders rallied and forced a draw.

New Zealand, all out for 266 in its first innings, dismissed the touring team for 187, then proceeded to score 179 for seven before declaring its second innings closed.

Pakistan needed 259 runs for victory in 187 minutes, but after being 19 for five at tea, took its score to 140 for seven at the close.

West Germans Win

FREDERICTON, N.B. (CP) — The West German national hockey team scored three goals in the third period Tuesday night to defeat Fredericton Capitals 6-4 in the second game of a Canadian tour.

MONTREAL PLANNING TO GET INTO ACT

Closed-Circuit Rights Offered for Sale

VANCOUVER (CP) — In an effort to break a deadlock on telecasts of football games by Canada's two networks, Western Football Conference clubs have offered to sell their closed circuit TV rights.

Conference president Al McEachern of Vancouver said in an interview Monday night closed circuit television is said to be the reason for one network considering dropping football telecasts in the forthcoming season.

Only British Columbia Lions use closed circuit television at present in the Western Conference, but there are plans in the Eastern Conference for closed circuit telecasts in Montreal.

Both conferences have sold their live television rights to a Montreal group. But, McEachern said, one network has let it be known that it might not carry CFL games this year because they might be competing with closed circuit television by the clubs themselves.

He did not name the network.

He said the fear of closed circuit television is not valid in the west. Lions telecast home games to theatres into Victoria and Nanaimo. The club made a $10,000 profit on the operation last year and the money was spent on the Lions' minor football program.

"But in the east it could be a different matter. We know the Montreal Alouettes have been planning some very definite moves regarding closed circuit TV. And Toronto lends itself to closed circuit operations. Down there they have the example of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey club which telecasts its games very profitably on closed circuits to theatres."

McEachern said that he feels that the networks will program the CFL games.

"There would be an enormous hue and cry from the public if CFL games weren't telecast.

"The CBC is, after all, a publicly-owned organization bound to program events holding the most interest for the people as a whole."

In Montreal, meanwhile, negotiations for "a national package" for televising Canadian Football League games this year are continuing on a "normal basis" and should be successfully concluded within the next few weeks, Jean-Paul Champagne said Tuesday.

Mr. Champagne is a member of the Montreal advertising firm of Bouchard, Champagne, Pelletier Limited, which has acquired exclusive television rights to CFL games.

Negotiations for a new contract with the teams has been going on for several months in Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal.

Mr. Champagne was commenting on a Vancouver report that negotiations had been threatened by a dispute between the parties.

"I don't think you can call it a dispute. There is argument because there are so many angles to consider, and so many points to clear up," he said.

"We're negotiating for a national package so that we can offer the public the best in football telecasting," Mr. Champagne said.

Stiff Jail Terms Levied Against Soccer Fixers

NOTTINGHAM, England (CP) — A soccer scandal that rocked Britain wound up Tuesday with 10 professional players, including two English Internationals, being sentenced to prison for throwing matches.

James Gauld, described as the central figure, was jailed for four years and ordered to pay £5,000 ($15,000) costs.

Two others got 15 months, three others six months and three four months.

Mr. Justice Lawton, the presiding judge, told Gauld: "You have befouled professional football (soccer) and corrupted your friends and acquantances."

SCANDAL RECALLED

The 10 players were convicted on charges of throwing matches and cheating bookies.

It was a case comparable with the Black Sox baseball scandal in the United States in 1919, the one in which eight Chicago White Sox players, the American League winners, were found guilty of throwing the World Series against Cincinnati Reds.

Jack Fountain and Brian Phillips were sent to jail for 15 months and Phillips was ordered to pay 50 guineas ($157.50) legal costs.

Richard Beattie, another of the pro players, was jailed for nine months and Kenneth Thomson got six months.

Ron Howells and Samuel Chapman were jailed for six months, with Howells being told to pay £100 ($300) toward the costs.

David (Bronco) Layne, Tony Kay and Peter Swan were jailed for four months. Kay and Swan, both English International players, were each ordered to pay £100 toward the costs.

SENTENCES APPROVED

Sir Stanley Rous, president of the International Soccer Federation (FIFA), said he approved of the stern sentences handed out by the judge.

"The worst feature of the whole case is that it involved international players of some renown," Rous said. "One can only hope that the strong action that has been taken will act as a deterrent to others."

Joe Richards, president of the Football League, said from his Barnsley home: "This is a very sad day for football. I hope that all connected with the game, whatever position they are in, will see that there is no repetition of this sort of thing. It is a relief that all this has been cleared up. It has been a black cloud over the good name of our great game."

Overtime Victory For Sacred Heart

Playing their best defensive game of the season Sacred Heart took a 28-25 victory over Metropolitan in a midget boys' basketball game Tuesday at Matropolitan gym.

Gary Linford fired 14 points for Sacred Heart.

The game was tied 20-20 in regulation time but Sacred Heart outfinished Metropolitan in the extra period.

Dagg Comes Through

BURNABY (CP)—Lyall Dagg scored three points in the 11th end to defeat Bud Long 9-6 and win the "B" event of zone three of the Pacific Coast Curling Association playoffs here Tuesday night.

Dagg, holder of the dominion and world championships, was knocked out of contention in the "A" event when he was defeated 9-8 Sunday by Jack Arnet of the University of British Columbia.

Dagg will join Arnet in the Association's B.C. finals at Chilliwack this weekend.

In Tuesday night's game, Dagg was held to a 6-6 tie up to the 11th end.

New Look Facing Precinct

A special meeting of city and provincial representatives today agreed to take a "new look" at the legislative precinct in James Bay prior to tackling a cure for the civil servant parking problem.

The suggestion came from deputy minister of municipal affairs J. E. Brown, who said it might mean "sloughing off" some parts of the precinct area. He suggested adding elsewhere to accommodation requirements and retain as much of the harbor frontage as possible.

TECHNICAL REVIEW

He said a preliminary review should first be done by technical staff, including planners and engineers representing both the city and provincial government.

The committee agreed and went on to endorse the suggestion of chairman J. R. Genge that further study should be by another joint committee.

This, he said, should be a revival of a group which did earlier study about two years ago, consisting of persons representing Capital Region Planning Board, Victoria advisory planning commission, city planning committee and the provincial parking committee.

Its recommendation would go to city council and the provincial government.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said a revised precinct plan should have the endorsation of the provincial cabinet, as the existing plan has.

City engineer James Garnett, in calling for a comprehensive plan, referred to parking in James Bay as an "untidy mess."

He said the practice of obtaining parking lot property "a bit here and a bit there is the antithesis of planning and creates citizen antipathy."

Deputy provincial works minister Arnold Webb agreed. He said the province does have a plan for parking, but for the future. Meanwhile, it is cheaper to acquire properties and hold them rather than build a multi-storey parking facility now.

LAND BOUGHT

More land is being purchased now, he said.

Mayor Wilson said all parties want to see a solution and are sympathetic to the problem, but initiative must come from the provincial government.

Mr. Garnett pointed out that the government service is the "biggest traffic generator in the city." It is a "horrible problem" that can't bear waiting.

Mr. Webb said the immediate problem must be solved by July, when the main civil service parking area will be lost.

Work on a new provincial museum will put 450 additional cars on the streets, besides the estimated 360 there now.

'Pirates' Spark Oyster Battle On Salt Spring

The battle of the oysters is on.

Firing the first shell this week was Salt Spring Island resident Richard Dayment.

His shot was aimed at oyster pirates who plunder the beaches of Burgoyne Bay near his Fulford Harbor home.

He wants provincial legislation introduced to clamp down on the hungry shell-fish hunters.

He claims the beaches are being stripped of their crop by the ton.

Two weeks ago a commercial boat with small barges in tow pulled into the bay and carted off the oysters in their thousands says Mr. Dayment.

"And last April I watched a family of five loading their private boat from Seattle with a ton or more oysters taken in 100-pound sacks.

"To me this is strictly plunder," he said.

But while Mr. Dayment is trying to curb oyster-pickers' activities, conservation officials are not quite so concerned about their fishy activities.

REPRODUCTION

It's all a matter of reproduction according to one official.

The Japanese oysters in question only reproduce when the water is warm enough — about once every 10 years, he said.

The last time this happened was in 1958.

Since they take four to five years to mature and only another five or six to die, now is the best time to collect.

"If they are left too much longer they will just die anyway," he said.

He suggested one way to restrict commercial operators would be to make them have a licence before they are allowed to pick up oysters off Crown foreshore.

Half-Masts Every Way But Half-Hearted They Never Can Say

By JIM HUME

Who mourns Sir Winston Churchill best?

He who flies the flag at exactly half-mast? He who flies it one width of the flag below the top of the pole? Or he who flies it somewhere between?

A quick survey of city flags, lowered to honor the passing of the great man, does not answer the question.

At the Legislative Buildings the flag is a little below the width of the flag, but much higher than half-mast.

At city hall the width of the flag rule is observed strictly.

At Eaton's of Canada, the Empress and the Union Club the flag flutters at exactly half-mast.

Government House appears to contribute to the confusion by flying the Union Jack, the B.C. flag and the Red Ensign at half-mast while, atop the tallest flag pole another Union Jack flies at full-mast.

The keen observer, however, will spot the difference. The flag at full-mast is not a flag at all, but the Lieutenant-Governor's Royal Standard. Protocol demands that it fly as it does.

Victorians should not worry too much whether flags are half way down the pole or somewhere between there and the top for even the experts are undecided on the right thing to do at a time of national mourning.

Irene Craig, in her book "Flags and Formalities" says the proper sign of mourning is to lower the flag being flown one full width.

The Oxford Dictionary disagrees. It states that half-mast is a point at or near the middle of the mast.

Other dictionaries define half-mast as anywhere between the top of the pole and the middle.

And the Canadian Militia goes with the ruling "at or near" the middle of the pole.

Mrs. Craig, emphatic that the proper way to fly a flag at half-mast is to lower it one full width, says that the space above "is reserved for the grim reaper."

To lower the flag too much, she says, is to lose its significance in space or "the reaper's portion (by) its devastating dimension becomes overpowering."

Whichever school of thought is correct, one thing is obvious. Victoria is paying sincere tribute to the man of the century.

IT PROVES SOMETHING

Box Office Ignites For No-Charge Film

Victoria's Fox Theatre has proved you can sometimes get more money for a show by closing the box office and not charging admission.

This happened Monday and Tuesday when more than 1,100 Victorians attended four "no charge" performances of the Canadian feature film, The Luck of Ginger Coffey, produced in Montreal.

Because of poor attendance last week, the Fox appealed to the public to support an all-Canadian film by giving what they thought it was worth as they left the theatre.

The response was encouraging. More than 500 attended the first night and 600 the second.

"Most adults gave a dollar and the average contribution from students was between 50 and 75 cents," said Garry Nixon, assistant manager of the Fox Theatre.

BETTER RETURN

"We actually received a better return on the four performances than at 12 showings last week when admission was charged."

Mr. Nixon said comments on the film were so favorable it would have been held over but for the fact the prints had to be shipped to Calgary today.

"We have at least proved that Victorians will support a Canadian film if it is well promoted."

Two other Canadian films were shown—a cartoon comedy entitled The Great Toy Robbery and The Joy of Winter, a skiing romance. Both were made by the National Film Board of Canada.

Uvic Plans Linguistics Department

The University of Victoria has established a linguistics department, the only one in Canada at an English-speaking university, it was announced today.

Beginning in September this year the department will offer programs leading towards a BA degree.

Several of the courses are also open to students who are not following a program in linguistics but who are interested in a particular aspect of linguistics such as phonetics or a study of the English language.

The department will be headed by Dr. M. H. Scargill.

A sampling of the course and its aspects will be given at a conference on modern linguistics which will be held on the Gordon Head campus Saturday.

"Linguistics is basically the study of language," says Dr. Scargill, "but since the study of language in general soon moves to the study of language in particular, linguists are usually interested in a variety of topics including comparative studies of languages, semantics and the psychology of language."

"Linguistics offers the systematic study of man's most important possession: language," says Dr. Scargill.

Metal Trades Name Slate Of Officers

Andrew Manson, business agent for Victoria Shipyard Riggers Local 643, was elected president of the Victoria and District Metal Trades Council for 1965 at a meeting Tuesday night.

He succeeded Jim McConachy, business agent for Local 191, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers.

The council, chartered by the AFL-CIO, represents 12 unions with a combined membership of 4,500.

Other officers elected were: Arthur Vanzetta, vice-president; secretary-treasurer John MacNeil; sergeant-at-arms, Chester Preston; and Wilf Cooney, Al Ross and Ovila Lalonde, trustees.

Mr. MacNeil said the new president will continue the council's program of trying to secure navy contracts for yards here and pressing for a merchant marine.

Bennett Eludes Women's Lobby

CONDOLENCE BOOK GETS 1,800 NAMES

More than 1,800 Victorians had signed their names by noon today in the book of condolences to Lady Churchill.

An official of the British High Commissioner's office keeping watch in rotunda of the Legislative Buildings, said a whole book had been filled Tuesday and this morning and a second started.

He said the second volume would remain open past the official 1 p.m. deadline today because of long line-ups "but the book will have to be on the 4 p.m. ferry back to Vancouver."

It appeared the 1,350 signatures recorded Tuesday would be doubled before the book was taken away.

Housewives Seek Sales Tax Easing

A delegation of 10 women from Greater Vancouver and Victoria today buttonholed NDP and Liberal leaders to urge elimination of provincial sales tax on all students' clothing and certain household items like soap.

But they were not able to catch Premier Bennett.

"We have tried several times to get an appointment with Mr. Bennett but so far we have not heard from him," said spokesman Mrs. Elaine Podovinnikoff of North Vancouver.

Instead, the group was to speak to Social Credit whip Bert Price.

The group interviewed Liberal Leader Ray Perrault and was scheduled to make its pitch to NDP Leader Robert Strachan at full caucus meeting of the party MLAs.

Calling itself the Women Against High Prices Committee the group seeks elimination of the 5 per cent tax on clothing for all students—university as well as high school—holding identification cards.

It also wants the tax removed from items needed for personal hygiene such as soap, tooth paste, detergents and toilet tissue.

Mrs. Podovinnikoff claimed the elimination would not seriously impair the tax revenue because last year $4 million of sales tax "was collected but not used for the avowed purpose" of supporting hospitals.

TOPICS of the DAY

Richard Albany and Harry Kumai, both of Craigflower Road, were elected to the Songhees band council Tuesday.

Thirty-three out of 66 eligible voters voted for five candidates in band elections supervised by Lawrence W. Larsen, assistant superintendent Cowichan Indian Agency, Duncan.

Earlier this month, John Albany was re-elected chief by acclamation.

The council consists of three members. Band membership now stands at 117.

Four men and a limited company were fined in city court today for failing to file income tax returns for 1963.

Fines of $25 were imposed on Robert Cubbon, HMCS Stettler, Julius Fechtner, 1338 Merritt, and Reginald Louis, 1025 Terrace.

A fine of $50 was imposed on Ray Cranston, 2994 Douglas. He was charged with two counts of failing to file a return.

The company that was fined $25 was Jufi Drywall, 1338 Merritt.

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele won't attend a public hearing tonight to consider boundaries in the amalgamation of View Royal with the municipality.

"The amalgamation with Esquimalt was requested by the people of View Royal," he said. "I feel they must settle the issue among themselves."

The meeting will be held in View Royal Community Hall, starting at 7:30 p.m.

It will be chaired by J. E. Brown, deputy minister of municipal affairs, chairman of a boundary commission appointed to determine the area of amalgamation.

The Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday in North Ward School.

Workmates of a man killed in a road accident last Saturday are going to give one day's pay to a fund for his family.

The workers are employees of McKay - Cormack Ltd. where Edward Robertson worked for the past year.

Robertson, a well-known amateur boxer, is survived by a wife and six children. He had no insurance.

The Bank of Montreal at Royal Oak is accepting donations for the Robertson Family Fund. Information on the fund may be obtained from Mrs. Donna Willner at 479-2157.

Two city firemen will receive awards for bravery Thursday night at the annual meeting of the St. John Ambulance Association.

They are Lieut. William Dibb and fireman driver Harold Graves, who pulled 66-year-old Thomas Kerswell from his bed last Sept. 2 while his home at 646 Niagara burned around him.

It is the first time the awards have been made in Victoria for many years.

Presentation will be made by Ald. Austin Curtis, chairman of the city fire wardens, representing Mayor R. B. Wilson.

British Columbia harvested a bumper crop of more than 1.5 billion cubic feet of wood last year, B.C. Forest Service announced today.

Production totalled 1,514,595,176 cubic feet, an increase of 2.8 per cent over the previous record set in 1963.

The Macaulay School PTA will hold its next meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. A movie and demonstration on mouth-to-mouth resusitation will be given by the navy's fire department.

A bylaw prohibiting the moving of houses into Central Saanich received final reading at a council meeting Tuesday. The only exceptions are greenhouses.

Council ordered a bylaw drafted after several old dilapidated dwellings were moved into the municipality last year.

A minimum fine of $250 will be imposed on anyone who breaks the bylaw.

Jean Perras, HMCS MacKenzie, was fined $300 and lost his licence Tuesday when he pleaded guilty in Saanich court to impaired driving.

He was arrested Monday night after being followed by police who saw his car weaving on Quadra Street. Evidence was that Perras almost lost control on one occasion and that his vehicle rolled back against the police car when he was stopped.

ON CANADIAN SATELLITES

Space Man to Speak at Uvic

FRANK DAVIES

The first Canadian satellites will be described here Thursday Feb. 4 by a Canadian space expert.

Frank T. Davies, chief superintendent, Defence Research Telecommunications Establishment, Ottawa, will lecture at University of Victoria at 1 p.m. His visit is sponsored by the Canadian Association of Physicists.

The event is designed to be of interest to undergraduates and graduate students as well as to the faculty.

The first Canadian satellite, Alouette, was built by DRTE and launched in California in September, 1962. It has operated successfully for more than two years in a circular, near-polar orbit.

Alouette II is nearing completion and weighs the same as Alouette I—320 pounds, but there are many changes in the electronic systems. Launching is planned for next summer.

Mr. Davies was a physicist with the first Byrd Arctic expedition in the period 1928 to 1930 and led the second Polar Year Arctic Exploration by Canada in 1932-33.

He was director of the Carnegie Geophysical Observatory in the Peruvian Andes between 1936 and 1939 when he joined naval operational intelligence. He has been with the defence research board since 1946.

THEY'LL SING 'N' SWING AT SHAWNIGAN

Church, Mass and All That Jazz

Tiny All Saints' Anglican Church at Shawnigan Lake will echo to the strains of "jazz mass' on Sunday.

Singing the hotted up mass will be 20 teen-agers from the district's two local schools.

Also getting in on the beat will be the vicar, Rev. Eric Scott.

He will sing the cantor solo.

Accompanying him will be his wife Frances on the organ.

The jazz mass was written by East London (England) vicar Geoffrey Beaumont in an effort to attract more youngsters to church.

Main theme of the tune of the mass is the Dam Busters March.

This will be the second time it has rung round the aisles of All Saints'.

Last time it was tried, in November, between 70 and 80 people crammed into the church — double the normal congregation.

Some came from as far as Victoria.

"Said Mr. Scott: "It was very popular so we thought we'd give it another try.

"It certainly is a great pull to the younger generation."

The service - extraordinaire will start at 11:15 a.m.

IN STEP WITH STYLE — By NONA DAMASKE

Canadian Couturiers Run Gamut Of Style in Montreal Press Show

MONTREAL — The national collection of fashions was previewed Friday by representatives of the fashion press from Victoria to Newfoundland.

Damaske

An air of expectant excitement prevailed as the eighth presentation of Canadian fashions began with a warm welcome by Bernard Shane, vice-president of the International Ladies' Garment Workers Union.

Fashion co-ordinator, Jennifer Lindsay, presenting her first show for the ILGWU, commentated in English and Isabelle Gobeil, in French. The stage of the beautiful Salle Bonaventure of the Queen Elizabeth Hotel was the spring-like setting for a series of scenes which pinpointed the highlights for spring and summer 1965.

"Stormy Weather" opened with a scooter suit designed in 100-per-cent cotton poplin by Lydia Sperlich for Rainmaster of Montreal. The fun news here was the oversize zipper treatment at back and front of the jacket and on the tapered pants. These giant zippers are big news as THE LOOK for ski and race car wear.

Fairlane of Vancouver, where a rainshedder is the most used coat in a wardrobe, showed a slender coat of duplan in a striking blue water shade.

The black and white kick was done with a white military inspired raincoat, accented with black stitching. Sparkling under the lights, a black patent fisherman's hat and knee-length patent boots completed the costume.

NAVY AND WHITE

The coat dress . . . a marvellous way to look in early spring was done to perfection by Harold Taub. Navy blue, back on the big band wagon, was chosen for the gently fitted wool coat dress with a small collar and lapels in dazzling white.

"Check and double check" . . . A group of suits and coats in every check from almost invisible to the big and bold.

The costume, which keeps a woman happy on all daytime occasions, has retained its important position in the spring parade. There were more matching full-legth coats than in past seasons . . . for the woman who must consider wearing a coat with more than one dress, this is a happy trend.

Canadian designers have taken the swinging skirt to their hearts and low-placed wide pleats appear again and again on coat, suit and dress skirts.

AN OLD FAVORITE

Camel tones, long a favorite in Victoria, are strong and Fitwell of Vancouver showed an extremely smart three-piece wool and cashmere in this tone.

A bridal scene opened the afternoon presentation and the good news here is the return of the full-length gowns for bridal attendants. I've always felt that the bride and her attendants should choose the same length of gown and when presented in white and pink everyone seemed to agree that there is definitely a more stately romantic look to the full-length attendant gowns.

FOR THE YOUNG

A scene, titled "The Scramble" followed a new trend of combining plain, dotted and striped fabrics in one costume . . . a young look rather than a sophisticated one. Belts are around . . . not always all the way around and not always at the normal waistline, but almost always definitely there.

A brilliant sun sequence included a beach shift by Miss Sun Valley with the popular ruffled hemline. A dress by Sue Brett used the cut-out theme by scooping out an opening in the back of the bodice.

The much talked about "cage" dress was done by Deckelbaum of Montreal in black silk chiffon over a crepe shift.

A dramatic bathing suit in black blistered fabric showed the artistry of Rose Marie Reid. Zipped in the front and plunging to the depths at the back, the suit would be the answer for the true sun worshipper.

"Evening Lights," the breath-taking curtain scene, presented formal fashion in all its graceful beauty. The outstanding favorite was a white and yellow painted linen dress and stole by Ruth Dukas of Toronto. Each stripe was outlined in rope beading and, although the fabric itself had no shimmer, the final effect was one of glittering lights.

The ILGWU is to be congratulated on their eighth national collection. The excitement of seeing Canadian manufacturers take a firm hold on fashion is most stimulating to those of us who want to stay in step with style, especially in clothes designed and made in our own country.

For the National Collection of Union Label fashion previewed by the press in Montreal recently, Louis Schrier of Montreal designed an important coat shape for Spring '65 in pale yellow twill with frog fastening. The look is narrow with a straight back and the merest suggestion of front shaping.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Cold Weather Wear For 'Campus Queens'

By Penny Saver

These chilly days have driven a lot of women to their hat boxes and clothes closets and stores to find chapeaux and clothes to protect them from the weather. Penny has found some fashion ideas for the young ladies going to school to make them look smart and be warm regardless of the weather.

Soft, warm and stylish berets are wonderful for wearing to school or out on a date. Waterproof velvet models, rimmed with a self-fabric band about the base are available in all the latest fashion colors, selling at $2.95 and $3.95. Other berets are of waterproof velvet with a pom-pom accent, selling at the same prices.

A young teen-aged miss can "go to the head of her class"—In fashion, anyway—with the jumpers Penny found. One very attractive outfit, selling at $11, is a heavy wool in a green and black blend. The skirt features wide inverted pleats and is highlighted with a "low-slung" belt. It is paired with a toning green jersey sweater with three-quarter-length sleeves and a high neckline.

A chic shift jumper is on sale at $7.97. The bright copper and bronze wool blend is accented by a leopard skin belt. High in the back neckline and fairly low in the front, this would look charming over a soft, white, long-sleeved blouse or a sweater to match the copper or bronze of the jumper.

Here's a peek into some spring millinery fashions for the girls. I've found a wide-brimmed Breton sailor hat with a shallow round crown, selling at $10.95. This particular hat is of soft pink straw, but it is available in other pastels, too.

They provide a perfect accent for the sailor shifts which were so popular last summer and will be this year.

Another idea for the young lady who is on her way to "something special" is a high-crowned, black and white straw chapeau, with brim dipped down in the front and up in the back. An added highlight is a huge black patent buckle. It looks delightful and sell for $8.95.

Remember, Penny's number is 382-3131.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Do You Consume More Calories Than You Spend?

How much food you need depends on several different factors. Your age, your basic metabolism, your build and how much energy you spend all enter into the picture.

Lowman

So far as age is concerned, we require the same well-balanced diet and all of the essentials for fine nutrition and good health all through life. But we do not need as much food as we grow older. Our calorie requirements lessen with the years. Also, as the years pass we would be wise to cut down on the very rich foods and those which have a high fat content.

People who have a large build require more calories than those who have a small frame. Men have greater stature than women. For this reason they should usually have more calories than women, even when they are reducing.

Physical activity, or energy output, plays an important part in the number of calories you need. Many women feel that special exercises and sports are superfluous since they get plenty of exercise just doing their housework. It is certainly true that taking care of a house, cleaning, cooking and ironing add up to a day which deserves quite a few calories. If you have children you will need more and maybe a few vitamins too!

However, I think that many women may miscalculate. For instance, ironing uses about 110 calories per hour; sweeping 130 calories per hour; swimming 490 calories per hour; dancing 270 calories per hour; bicycling 240 calories per hour; walking 195 calories per hour. Special exercises burn the calories at a comparative rate.

Of course this is just to give you a guide. How many calories are used depends on how strenuously you dance, how strenuously you swim, how briskly you walk and how hard you sweep.

Sweeping may seem like hard work, but brisk walking uses more calories. The point I am making is that while housework may be tiring, it may not use up as many calories as you think it does and may not compensate for the sports you dropped. Also special exercises use the muscle groups in ways they are not used when doing your housework.

If you would like to have my short routine of seven exercises, planned especially for you, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for "Essential Daily Routine" to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Go! Go! Go!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: We plan to be married in June, right after my fiance finishes college. He is working to put himself through college, and even has had to help with a younger brother's education, so he hasn't enough money saved to pay for the honeymoon trip we've always hoped for. After we marry and he begins his career, it will be years before we will be able to have a trip like that. I am a practicing registered nurse and have money saved. Would it be all right if I paid for part of the honeymoon trip so we could go where we've always wanted to go? Or should we just go as far as his money can take us?

MONEY IN THE BANK.

DEAR MONEY: If you want to follow conventional practice to a gnat's eyelash, the groom pays for the honeymoon, whether it's to Hawaii or Hoboken. But you've made a special case for yourselves, and admirably, too. So if it takes your "help" to swing the kind of honeymoon trip you've always both dreamed of, I say, help. And happy landings!

DEAR ABBY: I am 12 years old (nearly 13) and I have normal looks for my age except maybe I am quite a bit more developed for a girl my age. It bothers me when people make cracks about it. A lot of boys seem to notice me, but not for the reasons I'd like to be noticed. I don't wear my clothes too tight or anything like that. I hear remarks made about me that make me feel like something "dirty." It confuses me to be told that I should be proud of my build because I guess in a way I am sort of ashamed of it. Do you think it is fair for my father to laugh when he sees me with my blouse tucked in my slacks and say, 'Are you sure you're only 12?"

CONFUSED AND DISGUSTED.

DEAR CONFUSED: You should be proud of your "build"—even prouder of your wholesome attitude. Just keep wearing your clothes tight enough to show you're a girl, and loose enough to show you're a lady. Don't pay any attention to the "cracks" people make. And your father ought to be ashamed of himself.

DEAR ABBY: I just had to write you about my husband's overly critical attitude. If he isn't criticizing someone he knows, he's criticizing the performers on television. Our sons are teen-agers, and they have picked up their father's habit of criticizing everybody. The boys are aggressive, domineering, obnoxious and disrespectful, and have terrible tempers, just like their father. Please, Abby, won't you tell me how to handle the situation, as I don't know how much more of this I can take? Thank you.

BEAT.

DEAR BEAT: From your description of the boys' father I wouldn't advise you to become too critical of HIM. You will have to try twice as hard to influence your sons for the better in order to offset the bad example set by their father.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ELLIE: Most men who have lived alone for 48 years have developed a long list of self-centered habits that would drive any woman to distraction. Don't work too hard to land this one.

Revamped Show Slated for March

Members of 30 dressmaking and tailoring classes of the Greater Victoria adult education program will take part in a revamped fashion show to be held in March.

The annual show is being convened by Mrs. James (Bea) Douglas, former organizer of Pacific National Exhibition fashion shows, who is now conducting local night school courses in charm.

New ideas have been discussed for this year's show but none have definitely been confirmed.

SEARCH STEMS FROM EARLY TEACHINGS

Planner Claims Perfect Solution is Myth

"There is no perfect solution to town planning — it is based on a series of trials and errors," the Greater Victoria Association of Women Electors was told on Tuesday.

Guest speaker, Don South, planning director for the municipal affairs department added, "The idea of the perfect plan is a myth that stems from the teaching that there are two absolutes in thinking — a right and a wrong. We are not encouraged to guess intelligently. This search for the wonderful panacea is often generated by the fear of the unknown."

The speaker stated that in passing zoning bylaws, councils were striving more towards the goal of setting up a set of value judgments.

"But," he queried, "are they value judgments? To what extent should local government become involved?"

In many cases, he added, zoning bylaws tend to sift society into social groups. They try to lump houses of similar value together.

He further questioned the development of high-rise apartments. "Are the people who live in apartments inferior to those who live in single-family dwellings?"

He continued, "This is not the point. Legislation enjoins council not to allow the overcrowding of land. In apartments it is not the compatability of land use but this problem of density."

In striving towards a solution in planning, Mr. South concluded that while we have a right to appeal to a body other than the local government, along with this right comes responsibility.

"Each person must use his property so that it does not affect his neighbor."

The speaker was introduced by incoming president, Mrs. Hazel Hodson and thanked by Miss Elizabeth Forbes.

Those seated at the head table included Mr. and Mrs. South, Miss Muriel Laing, Mrs. C. Y. Brown, Miss Forbes, Mrs. Hodson, Mrs. A. H. Gunning and Mrs. H. C. Small.

In her annual report, retiring president, Mrs. Gunning, presented a brief resume of the year's work, placing special emphasis on the letters that have been drafted to be sent to Premier W. A. C. Bennett and to each of the city's four councils.

The letter to the premier suggested that the most positive solution to the problems raised by the increased fare on the British Columbia Hydro buses would be a joint meeting between provincial government officials and heads of municipal governments. It also stated that any required subsidy should be raised from other sources other than through property taxes.

Letters to the various councils congratulated them on their handling of municipal affairs and pointed out the needs of the respective communities.

It was also announced that the association's recommendations on air pollution have been sent to the minister of municipal affairs and the minister of health and will now be placed before an interdepartmental committee for study and further recommendation.

Treasurer, Mrs. Small, reported the year's receipts amounted to $172.73; disbursements, $167.09 and a bank balance of $5.64.

Officers elected by acclamation for the coming year are Mrs. Hodson, president; Mrs. Brown, first vice-president; Mrs. H. Ray, second; Mrs. G. D. Blake, recording secretary; Miss Laing, corresponding, and Mrs. A. H. Bindon, treasurer.

The dinner was convened by Mrs. C. L. Smith and serviteurs were the St. John Ambulance Cadets.

Newest Book by Victoria Woman Will Tell of Her Life in Libya

By PAT DUFOUR

Those that have done their round-the-world travelling through the medium of books written by Agnes Newton Keith will be delighted to know that another is on the way.

In her Island Road home, Mrs. Keith is busy trying to meet the March deadline set by her publishers for her fifth book. This one will be based on her experiences during the 8½ years she and her husband spent in Libya.

Henry Keith, a forestry expert, went to Libya with his wife in 1955 to work for the United Nations as part of its Forestry and Agricultural Organization.

The term was to be for one year but he pleased the Libyans so much that it was extended again and again. The Keiths returned to Canada last July.

DESERT TREKS

In her book, his wife will tell of their treks through the desert, daily living in the cities of Tripoli and Benghazi and of the Moslem women who became her friends.

"Women still live a very secluded existence in Libya. I was fortunate enough to be admitted into their homes and I think this will help me bring them alive for my readers."

Treks through the desert seem almost as close as a car trip downtown as Mrs. Keith tells of the three to five car caravans in which she used to travel with her husband.

"I acted as cook but this was much more simple than it sounds. Libyans drink strong tea, so our noon-time stop usually offered a menu of tea and bread which we'd buy from the Arabs at an oasis or village. The evening meal was almost as basic, offering a selection of sardines, tuna or cheese, this time served with coffee."

EASY ALTERNATE

Occasionally this would be varied with an alternate meal of spaghetti and tomato sauce.

Mrs. Keith will illustrate her own book and she tells of "the gorgeous colors" of the desert. "I always took my drawing pad along and tried to capture the color in pastels."

She describes the changes taking place in Libya as fascinating. "It was a poor and independent state 13 years ago. Now oil has been found and it will soon be one of the richest oil states in the world.

"But there are still not enough educated people and it becomes rather frustrating for outsiders who go there to help build the country. They have to work to plans that are changed or adjusted every time there is a change in government."

The Keiths have known nothing but travelling throughout their married life. After their marriage, they set out for Borneo. After Borneo, they called the Philippine Islands home. It's no wonder that their son George — now 24 — has inherited a love of travel. He's serving with the United States marines in a detachment that's being continually drafted to the "hot spots" of the world.

He's no stranger to trouble. His mother's most famous book, "Three Came Back," tells of the family's experiences as prisoners of war in Borneo.

Indeed, Mrs. Keith's books paint vivid word pictures of their experiences abroad. She explains, "I like to write about primitive tribes, they're so simple and uncomplicated."

Asked whether she'd consider writing a book on Victoria now that she and her husband have decided to retire here, Mrs. Keith expresses doubt that she'll ever type our city into posterity.

"I don't think I'd ever have the nerve. It's pretty difficult to write about your home town. Who knows what goes on behind the lace curtains?

"Besides, don't forget, everyone can read here!"

Among the many souvenirs of Libya which Mr. and Mrs. Keith brought back with them is this hand-made ceramic candelabra, made in one of the government-sponsored craft schools. Exquisitely made, it shows the natural feeling for art which seems inherent to citizens of the newly-emerging country.

Returns Home

Mr. John A. Pearce has returned to his home in Toronto, Ont., following a month-long holiday here where he visited with his mother, Mrs. Lyle Balfour, 426 Chester Avenue.

Holiday Here

Visitors from eastern Canada continue to find Victoria an ideal spot for winter holidays. Present guests are Hon. and Mrs. J. B. Buchanan who arrived from Ottawa on Tuesday and are presently staying at the Empress Hotel. The couple will return to their home in late February.

Pink and Blue

The Smugglers Cove Road home of Mrs. William Lewis was decorated with white bells and umbrellas in pastel tones of pink and blue when she entertained recently at a shower in honor of bride-elect, Miss Ruth Green. Assisting the hostess was her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Richard Lewis. Gifts of linen were contained in a blue and pink decorated umbrella. Corsages were presented to the guest of honor; her mother, Mrs. J. Maurice Green, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs. F. G. Hitchens. White flowers centred the lace-covered refreshment table at which the mothers of the affianced couple presided. There were 20 guests.

At Reception

Members of the Victoria and Esquimalt-Saanich Young Progressive Conservative Association and the University of Victoria Conservative Club will entertain at a reception on Saturday from 7 to 10 p.m. in Holyrood House. Among the 150 who will attend will be Mrs. Donald Fraser, provincial president of the YPC, and Mr. Fraser of Vancouver; Mr. Brian Smith, western vice-president of the national organization, and Mrs. Smith, and members of the British Columbia executive.

St. John Ambulance

Thursday—Annual meeting at 8 p.m.

Friday—Public class in senior first aid at 7:30 p.m., Mrs. V. Stanyer, instructor.

Salt Spring Notes

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Mouat of Ganges, Salt Spring Island, had as recent guests Mrs. Mouat's aunt, Mrs. Morton H. Reed, Fairfax, Va., and the latter's son, Mr. Donald E. Reed, Maryland. Other guests were Mrs. Mouat's sisters, Mrs. Robert Akerman, Fulford Harbor, and Mrs. Leslie Bryan, South Burnaby. Mrs. Bryan also stayed with her sister, Mrs. Akerman.

After spending a month in Norfolk, Va., with their daughter and son-in-law Lt.-Cmdr. R. E. Stone, RCN, and Mrs. Stone and family, Mr. and Mrs. Graham Shove, have returned to their Ganges home. On their return trip, the couple visited Washington, D.C., New York, and Toronto.

PITON-DOUGLAS VOWS

Bridal Gown of Organza and Taffeta Has Trimming of Sequins and Lace

St. Mark's Anglican Church was the setting when Margaret Lillian Douglas, daughter of Mrs. Lillian Douglas, Vancouver, and the late Mr. Douglas, exchanged marriage vows and rings with Harold Piton, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Piton, 479 Sims Road, Victoria. Canon R. Willis officiated at the ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by E. Locke, wore a full-length gown of white organza. The fitted bodice was accented with insets of taffeta and trimmed with sequins and lace at the scooped neckline. A scalloped-edged veil misted to shoulder-length from a wedding-ring headpiece of sequins. Pink roses and heather formed her bouquet.

Only attendant, Mrs. D. Foster, chose a sheath-style gown of blue organza over taffeta with a toning feather headpiece and carried a bouquet of white and pink carnations.

Best man was Horace Mayea and guests were ushered to their pews by Bert Lamb.

Following the ceremony Mr. Locke proposed a toast to the bride's happiness.

For travelling on a honeymoon trip up-Island, the bride donned a turquoise sheath dress with matching accessories. A corsage of pink carnations complemented the ensemble.

Returning to make their home in Victoria, the couple was honored at a reception held in the home of the groom's parents. A three-tier all-white wedding cake centred the head table.

The only out-of-town guest at the ceremony was the bride's aunt, Mrs. G. Hartney, Vancouver.

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice:

A few weeks ago you talked about making beautiful buttonholes in different colors and having the same colored buttons. Where do you find a pattern like this?

Mrs. D. E.

Dear Mrs. D. E.

I was merely trying to tell you how creative you could be when you learn to make beautiful bound buttonholes. This is most attractive in the summer when you make a white or beige linen dress.

Use a pattern with buttonholes down the front or on the side, or perhaps just on the bodice. Make colored buttonholes instead of using the same material that is in your dress. This is a most attractive variation and will give your dress a real "costume room look."

If you haven't sent for your free copy of my leaflet "Bound Buttonholes," do so today. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and send to Eunice Farmer, in care of this paper.

Dear Eunice:

I had the misfortune to get a cigarette burn on my good velveteen dress. The pile is burned off and is very noticeable. Have you a solution?

Mrs. D. E. S.

Dear Mrs. D. E. S.:

You could make some small satin bows of the same color as your dress and scatter them on the skirt. You could scatter lace or sequined motifs.

Another idea is to make a dull satin rose as an accent. It all depends on the spot where the burn appears, however. I feel you could add some kind of trim as a camouflage.

Clubwomen's News

New Members—Mrs. R. Duke, Mrs. J. Schaddelee, Mrs. G. McDonald, Mrs. K. Hooper and Mrs. V. Tubman were welcomed as new members at the recent meeting of the Victoria Jayceettes held in the Dominion Hotel. Mrs. D. Mathison conducted the induction ceremony. Chairman Mrs. T. Nex introduced Jaycee president, Donald Paulin, who thanked the group for their assistance during the year. Reports were given by Mrs. T. Barlow, hospitality; Mrs. Nex, holiday party for underprivileged children, and Mrs. Mathison, candy for the holiday ship. It was decided to organize the home-baking contest at the 1965 Victoria Exhibition. A sum of $27.80 was realized at a "bring and buy" auction following the meeting.

Install Officers—Mrs. N. Painton, past president, conducted the installation ceremony at the recent meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Trafalgar Branch, No. 42, Royal Canadian Legion, held in the legion hall. New officers are Mrs. A. Brown, president; Mrs. D. Griffiths, first vice-president; Mrs. E. Corbett, second; Mrs. C. Guest, secretary; Mrs. A. Stewart, treasurer; Mrs. L. Stevens, standard bearer; Mrs. M. Dunaway, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. B. Sturrock, sick visiting; Mrs. I. Sinclair, social convenor; Mrs. N. Painton, district zone. Mrs. B. Ellis, Mrs. D. St. Hilaire and Mrs. L. Wells were installed as new members by Mrs. Brown. Following the meeting, tea and a birthday cake, made by Mrs. A. Brown, marking the 14th anniversary of the group, were served.

They Teach Your Children Violence

Between the ages of five and 14 the average child witnesses the violent destruction of 13,000 human beings on TV. How does this affect children? Can "good" children be influenced? Read the startling facts in February issue of Reader's Digest.

A lemon pie without lemons adds a touch of pioneer days to family fare and guarantees a "melt-in-the-mouth" flavor for the most discerning of connoisseurs.

Grandma's Recipes Add Zest

Now that the students are back at school hitting the books again, how about hitting your duties at the hearth with a new slant?

For instance, if you take a look into the history of cooking you will find that we can learn something from the early Canadians in the way of new ideas. We're not suggesting you return to the old wood stove, but you may like to try one of the old Canadian recipes such as Pioneer Pie.

In appearance, this sweet yellow translucent pie with its merigue topping could easily be mistaken for lemon pie. It's probable that attempts to make lemon pie without lemons available led the pioneer women to invent this dessert. By substituting vinegar for lemons they made a pie that has the same sweet-piquant flavor.

This is not too surprising when you realize that today lemon juice and vinegar are used interchangeably in many recipes, for they are both highly acidic and therefore have the same effect when combined with sugar, egg yolks and cornstarch. Who knows, you might impress the students at your home with your historical knowledge of early Canadian dining. And, of course, please their appetites as well!

PIONEER PIE

Pastry for single crust pie, 1¼ cups granulated sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch or ⅓ cup all-purpose flour, 1½ cups hot water, ¼ cup pure white vinegar, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 2 eggs, separated, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, ¾ cup granulated sugar.

Prepare and bake 8 or 9-inch pie shell. Mix sugar with cornstarch in saucepan. Stir in water, vinegar and butter; bring mixture to boil, stirring constanty. Boil, stirring frequently, approximately 10-12 minutes or until mixture is very thick and clear. Remove from heat. Beat egg yolks slightly; stir a small amount of hot mixture into yolks; add egg mixture to saucepan. Reduce heat to low; simmer 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Pour into pie shell. Chill approximately 45 minutes or until set. Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until frothy. Gradually beat in ¼ cup sugar. Continue to beat until stiff and glossy. Spread meringue over filling, sealing it to edge of crust. Bake 10-12 minutes or until meringue is lightly browned. Makes one 8 or 9-inch pie (6-7 servings).

Pink and White Decor in Church For Eloff-Davies Wedding Vows

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints was decorated with pink and white carnations and snapdragons and white chrysanthemums when John Harrington heard the marriage vows uniting Linda Anne Davies and Donald Dorsey Eloff.

Soloist, Mrs. L. Fraser, sang "O Perfect Love" during the ceremony. She was accompanied by organist Col. H. G. Morgan.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Davies, 2053 Carnarvon Street.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length white lace gown, styled with a bouffant skirt. The fitted bodice featured lily point sleeves and a scoop neckline, highlighted with beading. Her chapel-length veil misted from a beaded lily of the valley headpiece. Only jewelry was a culture pearl necklace, gift of the groom, and she carried a crescent bouquet of pink rosebuds, white feathered carnations, fern and ivy.

Bridesmaid Miss Karen Brown, Royston, B.C., wore a pink nylon taffeta gown, styled with a short train, and a white rose headpiece, edged with white tulle. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and white streamers.

The bride's sister, Miss Carol Davies, was bridesmaid in a similar gown of pink. She chose a toning rose headpiece, edged with tulle, and carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses with pink streamers.

Both wore pearl pendants, gifts of the bride.

Harold Eloff, Prince George, was best man for his brother. Brian Wilson, cousin of the bride, and Ron Davies, her brother, ushered guests to their pews.

A three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. H. Davies, and decorated by R. Crockett, centred the bride's table at a reception which followed in Gorge Vale Golf Club. Pink rosebuds and candles completed table decorations.

Warren Cameron proposed the toast to the bride.

For a honeymoon trip up-Island, the bride donned a coral Italian knit suit, topped with a brown coat. A toning original floral hat, brown accessories and coral rosebuds en corsage completed her ensemble.

The couple will make their home at 989 Wollaston Street.

MOVE TO HAMPSTEAD

Eviction Brings Happy Ending

Former Victorians, Judy Richardson and Linda Scales, are now living in London, England. Here is another of their glimpses of the English scene.

By JUDY RICHARDSON

We've been demoted from a flat to a bed-sitter. But we feel as if we've come up in the world.

Richardson

After five months spent in the Bohemian atmosphere of Bayswater and Top Flat with its garbage-guarded entrance, we have now moved to sedate Hampstead and live, not above a junk-cum-antique store, but in a typically red brick English house on a street lined by trees and other typically red brick houses.

Our domain is now "first floor front" and consists of a single large room and a separate kitchen. The bathroom we share with only two other people instead of four. It even has a heater.

The plastered walls are painted a discreet beige so that the luxurious (if faded in spots), red velvet drapes make a splendid backdrop for the table in the evening when they are drawn.

Probably we took the bed-sitter for its kitchen. After our stove and sink on the landing, this cheery little yellow room is heaven with its blue and white cupboards, table for two and water heater over the kitchen sink (in Top Flat we heated water to do the dishes).

We are thanking our lucky stars that the landlord of Top Flat evicted us.

Most people are evicted because of a rowdy party. We were evicted because we frightened the landlord.

Near the end of November, our application for a telephone was finally okayed. The landlord had been thinking of selling, so the Sunday before the Wednesday on which the phone was to be installed, I told him and asked if he had done anything about finding a buyer. In his usual vague way he mumbled something like "Not this month." But when I went down on Wednesday to let the telephone man in, the landlord was there to suggest that he thought he had a buyer and perhaps we didn't want to spend all that money on installation about $60—if we just had to move out. (The deposit was shared between six of us and half of it refundable after a certain period.)

Fuming, we confronted him on rent day with the suggestion that England's new Tenant Eviction Act might make it impossible for him to get us out. He went away, thought about it for half an hour and then came back to serve us with the eviction notice.

In contrast to the rather shady character of our former landlord, Mr. and Mrs. Germanacos, the owners of our new place, are souls of respectability.

The day we agreed to take the place, during tea and biscuits served by Mrs. G. in their modern flat on the top floor, she insisted that if we just kept the room clean she would be happy.

Moving day found her asking if we had everything we needed for supper, then giving us a pint of milk when we decided that was all we lacked. "It's an old Greek custom," she added, "that when we give something we don't expect it to be returned."

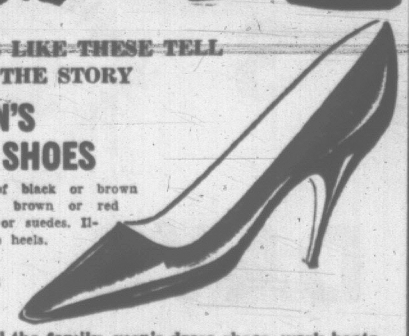

Imagine our dismay when we got around to reading the contract she had handed us. It included an inventory of the things provided and a sheet of "Don'ts". At the top was written "No guests after 11 p.m." The three friends who had helped us move were all tired from hauling trunks up and down stairs, but we made them stay until 11.30 as a test case, wishing we had never left the unrestricted haven on Top Flat.

Next day when we expressed concern over this clause, Mrs. G. assured us that as long as we were quiet, she never enforced this rule. There were smiles all round as we gave her three boxes of our excess soap powder and she gave us half a delicious chocolate cake — all following the old Greek custom, of course.

Compete In Speech Contest At Toastmistress Meeting

Speeches by contestants taking part in the International Toastmistress Speech Contest replaced the regular speaking program at the recent meeting of the Arbutus Toastmistress Club held in the Blue Room.

Those taking part included Mrs. T. F. Howe, Mrs. D. L. Campbell, Mrs. D. J. Kennedy, Mrs. George Love who won first place for her speech on pioneering entitled "Looking to the Future"; Mrs. Harry Winstone who placed second for her speech, "One Less Ostrich" on facing the facts, and Mrs. H. L. Clarkson who was awarded third for the speech "A Place in the Sun" using the subject, a place of one's own.

Presenting the awards was Miss Beryl Ince, chairman of the speech contest committee. Toastmistress for the evening was Mrs. M. F. J. Dearman and timers, Mrs. C. H. Dowling and Mrs. E. R. Ashbridge. Judges included Mrs. R. S. Butt, Mrs. W. A. Ludlow, Mrs. Sybil McCulloch, Miss Hattie Jewell, Mrs. H. L. Brigham, Mrs. Gordon Cook, Mrs. D. J. Doore, Mrs. W. Howes, Mrs. Harold Kerr and Mrs. A. L. Blake.

Tellers were Mrs. J. W. Gillis, Mrs. D. E. Pite and Mrs. Margit Relling. Mrs. Butt presided at the meeting and welcomed special guests, Mrs. R. A. Caught, Mrs. R. Walls and Mrs. Jean Pitt-Cross.

Votes of thanks were extended to the speakers and judges by Mrs. Relling and Mrs. Peter Small. Mrs. J. L. Brenz gave the closing thought.

It was announced that the club will take the negative side in a debate entitled "Resolved that the Speech Contest be Abolished" to be presented at the council meeting to be held in Chemainus on Thursday, Feb. 4.

Amaryllis Not What You Think

By HILDA BEASTALL

Information has been requested on the care of "amaryllis bulbs in pots" after the flowers are finished.

The request referred to bulbs which had been purchased in early November, potted, and flowered at Christmas.

Hilda

Although commonly called amaryllis by gardeners and often in catalogs, these bulbs for indoor culture are hippeastrums—meaning a Knight's Star in reference to the noble flowers. There is the true Amaryllis belladonna, a beautiful, fragrant, fall blooming pink amaryllis, hardy enough to grow outdoors in well-drained garden soil all the year around.

The bulbs of hippeastrums will produce several thick, fleshy flower stems in succession, each bearing huge, trumpet-shaped, flaring blossoms of varying shades of red, orange, salmon and the more rare white.

Leaves are strap-shaped coming from the center of the bulb after the flower spikes are well up, sometimes not until the flowers commence to fade.

NEEDS FEEDS

During this period of growth, the pot of soil must be reasonably damp, and every two weeks may receive a complete fertilizer in liquid form, using one teaspoonful to one gallon of water, and applying one half cupful at each feeding.

Flower heads should be removed as they fade.

Continue watering and feeding until the first sign of yellowing of the leaves. This indicates approaching rest period, and feeding should then cease and watering be gradually decreased until none at all is given.

The bulb will then remain dormant for several weeks, in the pot of dry soil.

By early fall, the bulbs should be removed from the old soil and repotted. Use a pot only an inch larger than the bulb. Keep the soil almost dry until the first flower spike is seen, then treat as before.

'Churchill Park'

BRANDON (CP) — A 15-acre park in Brandon will be named "Winston Churchill Park", the Brandon parks board decided Monday. The undeveloped park, on the north end of the city, overlooks the downtown area and has been proposed for an outdoor theatre.

Two Charged As Spies

BANGKOK (Reuters) — Two employees of the French embassy here, both without diplomatic status, have been arrested on charges of espionage, a police source said Tuesday. A total of eight persons have been held by police since arrests in the case began last week.

CHURCHILL THRIVED ON LONG LIST OF MEDICAL DON'TS

AND HOW HE LOVED HIS BED!

Too Much of Everything . . . Liquor, Tobacco, Food and Work

This is the last of three dispatches providing a personal closeup of the remarkable life of Sir Winston Churchill.

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON (UPI)—A visitor, pacing the lounge at Chartwell, said one day:

"I've heard of siesta, but this is ridiculous!"

Upstairs the daily battle was under way to pry Winston Churchill loose from his bed.

The great statesman picked up the custom of a mid-afternoon snooze while observing the Spanish campaign in Cuba in 1895 and, as with most things he really liked (alcohol, cigars and good food among them) he expanded the habit to Churchillian proportions.

The ritual of waking him in the days before he retired as Prime Minister in 1955 at the age of 80 — and even thereafter — called for a combination of daring and diplomacy on the part of his male staff, and the training of shockproof maids.

His valet generally called him at 8.30 a.m. and presented him with a glass of bottled orange juice (which he preferred to fresh). Then Churchill would heave himself from bed and look out the window to forecast the weather — with well-chosen curses if it happened to be raining.

'WEATHER GODS'

While he was addressing the weather gods his bed was remade pillows were placed in position to prop him up and his breakfast was laid out on a large bedside table.

Churchill lived to be 90 years old by disregarding almost every warning doctors give lesser men—and that includes injunctions from his longtime friend and and physican, Lord Moran.

He drank too much, he smoked too much, he ate too much (plenty of cholesterol), he worked too hard, he was overweight and after an exceedingly active youth and middle age (he played polo till he was 55) he refused to exercise.

On this list of medical "don'ts" he throve mightily, becoming the longest-lived former British prime minister in history.

So his breakfast might be anything from oysters and champagne (with which he started his 88th birthday) to an ordinary, solid repast of bacon and eggs, perhaps with some cold ham on the side. He liked hot and cold foods at meals.

FIRST DRINK

Then, when the dishes were cleared away, he was ready to work, dictating to several secretaries who took turns coming to the bedside. This, of course, is thirsty work so by mid-morning Sir Winston would be ready for his first beverage of the day, generally a whiskey and soda. The drinks were apt to follow each other at intervals from then on.

Sir Winston liked to drink, had no complexes about it and apparently an infinite capacity. Since he had seen most of those who warned him about alcohol precede him to eternity he conceived the idea that brandy might actually be good for him.

The admiring manager of London Club still recalls how in the gloomy days before the war Sir Winston would drop in with another member of Parliament and kill a fifth of brandy while considering the fate of the world. Night after night.

FILM PROJECT

Marty Rackin, a Hollywood executive who came to discuss a film project with Sir Winston, then 86, reported that he was offered a tumbler-size glass of whisky to match his host's.

Sir Winston noticed that Rackin held himself a bit stiffly and inquired why.

"I hurt my back," said the 44-year-old film man, "and I've got to wear a steel corset."

"I broke a bone in my back," boasted Sir Winston, "and I got up off the floor myself."

"I'll bet," said Rackin, a former comedy writer, "that the American half got up first."

The joke delighted Sir Winston whose mother was Jennie Jerome of New York.

In 1932 when Churchill was on a lecture tour in New York, Scotland Yard sent word that there might be a danger of assassination because of the troubles in India. His manager rushed in with the news. Winston listened, then remarked that they were out of champagne.

"Well," said the manager with heavy sarcasm, "which do you want me to do. Arrange for your security — or get champagne?"

"First things first," said Churchill. "Get the champagne."

UP AT NOON

But back to the start of Sir Winston's day. By noon, unless the staff managed to think of some strategem like pretending his lunch guests had arrived early, Churchill would still be in bed.

Eventually he would dismiss the secretaries and have his valet run a hot bath.

And more than one maid got a cheery good morning from the master as he strolled to the bath clad largely in a happy smile.

But Churchill denied he was naked when President Roosevelt showed up at his White House suite unannounced one morning as alleged in a famous wartime anecdote ("The prime minister of Great Britain has nothing to hide from the president of the United States.") Sir Winston claimed he was wrapped in a bath towel.

It was just as hard to get Sir Winston up after his long afternoon nap and down to dinner at 8:30 p.m. He was apt to wander off in his silk undershirt and underpants during the process to dictate a memo to his unflapperable secretaries.

VELVET OVERALL

For dinner he usually wore a blue velvet overall with matching slippers embroidered with his initials. He was wearing one of these outfits (a copy of his wartime siren suit) at his 90th birthday party at Hyde Park Gate last Nov. 30 when, said one of those present, the old man looked at each of the dozen guests in turn as though he knew this as the last time they they would all be about him on such an occasion.

During the war — he was First Lord of the Admiralty in 1939, prime minister 1940-45—he had to give up some of his sleep routine because of the demands of duty. But one of his aides, Gen. Sir Ian Jacobs, marvelled later at his ability to nap anywhere at any time. After observing Sir Winston for most of those critical years, Sir Ian understood the stubbornness in defence of his ideas that had kept Churchill from leadership of the government for so long.

"He longed for fame," Sir Ian said, "but only of a historic kind. He was not interested in being popular."

Sir Winston's life was not without its personal and political tragedies. He was a notable failure as chancellor of the exchequer when he took Britain off the gold standard in 1925. He was blamed for the bloody Dardanelles campaign in the First World War. He was out of office for 10 years starting in 1929. Although he brooded about it, it was probably the best thing that could have happened to the free world for he could give his full attention to Hitler's Germany. As early as May, 1932, he warned that permitting Germany military parity with France would lead to war.

HAPPINESS SADDENED

His marriage to Clementine Hozier in 1908 was one of the most successful of the century but there was much sadness, too. One daughter, Marigold, died as a child. Another daughter, Diana, committed suicide, in 1963. Beautiful Sarah Churchill, who played opposite Fred Astaire in one of his films, divorced her first husband, the second committed suicide, the third died of a heart attack.

His son and heir, Randolph, who will be his father's official biographer, was twice divorced. Only one of Sir Winston's children, Mary, wife of politician Christopher Soames, had a happy marriage.

In recent years his staff sometimes kept papers away from Sir Winston if they contained stories or pictures of any of his children that might distress him.

Churchill was attractive to women in his youth and middle life and most of the eligible heiresses of British society threw themselves at him before he married Clementine. It was his personality rather than his looks or lisp (the letter "S" often threw him) that drew the attention. His red hair thinned rapidly but he brushed it vigorously even when there were only a few strands left.

"Brushing is the only way to keep your hair," he said, when it was already mostly gone.

KING SERVES SOUP

He also had faith in turtle soup and liked to have a bowl of it before bedtime. Once at the Danish royal palace his valet forgot to arrange for it and Winston's complaints, so it was reported, came to the ears of King Frederik who brought the soup to his guest himself.

"I don't mind you forgetting my soup," Churchill later told his valet, "if you can get a king to serve it to me."

One of his recipes for remaining youthful was hobbies. He used to keep live butterflies and he became an authority on gold fish. He played golf and polo in younger days. He was an expert bricklayer (he held a union card) and a talented painter. Late in life he became a racehorse owner. The story goes that he thought a kindly admirer had given him a horse. He was surprised to get a bill for it later on but he finally assembled a winning stable.

Churchill went through quantities of large Havana cigars when he was young but in his last years he chewed as often as he smoked them. He developed a gummed brown paper wrapping to keep the end of the cigar from becoming too wet. He called it a "bellybando."

In 1898 when young Churchill went off to the Sudan he promised the president of the Society for Psychical Research that if he died or was killed he would try to "communicate" from the beyond.

At least one member of the society believes the promise is still in effect.

ENGLISH MASTER

Churchill was a master of the English language, the only man ever to get the Nobel Prize for literature (in 1953) for the spoken word—his wartime speeches — as well as his writings. He coined many memorable phrases but not "Iron Curtain" with which he is generally credited. This was first used by a travel writer who went to Russia in 1920 and at least twice more by others before Churchill burned it into the language in his great Fulton, Missouri, speech in 1946.

He detested muddy syntax. To one author of a bit of officialese he wrote:

"This appears to contain every cliche known to the English language except: 'Please adjust your dress before leaving'."

Once, surveying the vast landscape of his past, he said he would not want to live even his life over again. But, he added:

"The journey has been enjoyable and well worth taking."

Although he never used the title he was — as are all male descendants of the Duke of Marlborough — entitled to call himself Prince of Mindelheim, after a city saved by the Duke.

So, to quote his favorite author, Shakespeare, once again:

"Good night, sweet prince, and flights of angels sing thee to thy rest."

LETTER OF THANKS from Winston Churchill is now a treasured exhibit at St. Michael's Private School. It was a reply to a book of greetings the students sent to Churchill on his 90th birthday, Nov. 20, 1964. Examining the letter are, left to right, James Dempsey, Richard Couvelier and Michael Todd. $5,000 Offered For Nickel

MANKATO, Minn. (AP)—Coin collector Bernhardt Kottke has a copper nickel he claims is worth nearly $5,000, and he hopes it will pack up a few more thousand in value with time.

Actually, Kottke picked it up for $1 as a joke to add to his counterfeit collection.

Kottke said Monday night he has been offered "close to $5,000" for the misstamped nickel —a product of the U.S. mint at Denver.

The 35-year-old collector said he bought it from an employee at the First National Bank at St. Peter, Minn.

The 1964 copper nickel is slightly smaller than a regular nickel and larger than a penny, although it weighs the same as a penny.

In Washington, a treasury spokesman said it is possible for such coins to get in circulation and it has happened before.

With the mints processing five different denominations of coins involving three types of metals, "often times one type of metal gets mixed with another," the spokesman said. "There's nothing unusual about it."

New Flag Stolen

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Army, Navy and Air Force veterans ran the new Canadian flag up the pole—and it disappeared. Association official Ron Robinson said his group received abusive phone calls within minutes of hoisting the maple leaf flag.

FOR FLOODS, SLIDES

Disaster Teams Urged by Calder

The provincial government should set up regional emergency boards ready to go into action whenever recurring floods and slides hit mountain valleys, Frank Calder (NDP — Atlin) proposed in the legislature Tuesday.

He said that certain areas are subjected to these disasters repeatedly during years of heavy snowfall and people in the north and interior are apprehensive because of an exceptionally heavy amount of snow this winter.

"I would like to suggest . . . creating regional emergency boards in the recognized disaster areas and that the boards include local doctors, private airline services, search and rescue squads, civil defence and trained local personnel," he said.

SPECIAL FUND

"In addition, I would urge this government, in co-operation with the federal government, to set aside a special emergency fund to aid the flood or slide victims and their families."

Mr. Calder said that although he represented a northern unorganized area, he was concerned about the growing burden being piled onto municipal taxpayers.

Mr. Calder pointed out there never has been a royal commission on municipal financing during the Social Credit years in office despite growing unrest.

MAJOR REVIEW

He said if the government is not willing to establish a royal commission it should at least launch a full scale review of municipal financing through the legislature's standing committee on municipal affairs.

Such a review could investigate school financing, homeowner grant policies, provincial-municipal financial relationships and municipal-unorganized territory financial relationships.

"I would further suggest that the government provide a policy for a provincial-municipal financial review every 10 years until . . . an acceptable formula is reached," he said.

BREAKTHROUGH

Mr. Calder, the first of Indian descent to win a seat in the legislature, welcomed the throne speech's announcement that a community development program experiment will be tried in the Indian village of Port Simpson.

Here it could provide a breakthrough leading to a self-governing and independent community and if successful the results would be far-reaching.

"No doubt the Indians of this province will focus their attention on this project and I am hopeful too that the people of Port Simpson will participate wholeheartedly."

'SWAN VALLEY'

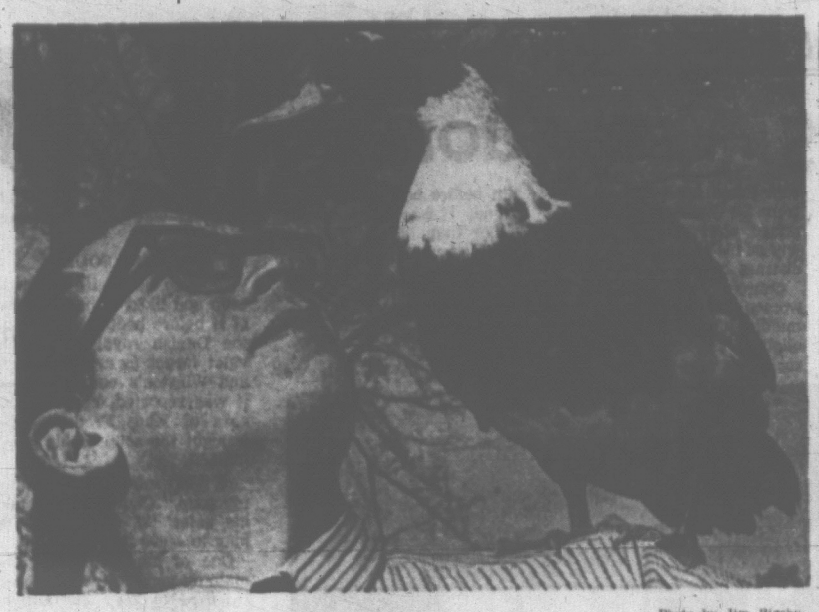

B.C. Film Top Outdoor Documentary

A B.C. department of recreation and conservation film, "Valley of the Swans," was declared the best outdoor documentary produced in North America last year, it was announced Tuesday.

"Tight Lines" and "Big Game Camera Holiday," also produced by the provincial department, were given honorable mention by the Michigan Outdoor Writers' Association.

Valley of the Swans was filmed during the source of 18 months at the Duck Lake nature conservatory near Creston. Most of the photographic work was done by Bernard Atkins, assistant chief of the department's photography branch.

The film, which was seen in Beacon Hill Park during last summer's film festival, was entered in competition with films from all parts of the United States and Canada for judging by the Michigan association.

Ducky pair are Bryan Davies and Donald

Here a Quack, There a Yak Everywhere a Uvic Trick

By CANDIDE TEMPLE
Times University Reporter

Uvic's web-footed mystery has been solved. It turned out to be a flight of fancy.

Bryan Davies, a fourth year arts student, volunteered his pet duck for a part in the University Players Club production of Henrik Ibsen's "Wild Duck."

But the club's request for a Labrador duck was a well-planned hoax.

They knew all along that the Labrador duck is an extinct species. They simply wanted people to attend "Wild Duck."

Bryan's duck is a four-month-old cross between a domestic variety and a mallard.

Bryan, who lives at 719 Selkirk, got the duck from a duck farm when it was two days old.

'DONALD'

With great originality he dubbed it "Donald."

Donald remains outside in his run during the day, but comes into the house at night.

He also likes people, which is what prompted Bryan to volunteer him for a dramatic debut.

The Players Club had offered a $5 reward for a duck which could quack in the right places in the play. The request appeared in the Uvic newspaper The Martlet, then in local papers.

A Labrador duck was specified "for its docile nature."

Players Club president Jane Turner, 3110 Midland, a fourth year arts student, admitted the whole affair was just "prevarication."

NEVER SEEN

"The wild duck in the play is never actually seen on stage," she said.

She added that Bryan Davies would not receive the $5 down because Donald is not a Labrador. Instead, he will be given two free tickets to the play.

First year arts student Steve Bigsby, 2765 Lansdowne, who takes a role in the play and gets credit for the original idea of the duck stunt, offered his reasons:

"In a city that would charge rent on a totem pole, we did not think there would be too much concern if $5 was offered for a duck."

'NOT A QUACK'

"The Labrador duck apparently dociled itself into extinction, along with the great auk and the passenger pigeon," said Steve.

He added that "there was not a quack" from the university zoology department about the fact that the Labrador duck does not exist. Even scientists from the provincial and federal governments did not speak up.

"It's another triumph of liberal arts over science," said Steve.

"Wild Duck," with or without the live prop, will be presented on Feb. 4, 5, 6 and 11, 12, 13 at the Gordon Head Theatre Hut.

Tickets are $1.25 for adults and $1 for students. They are available at Munro's Book Store, 753 Yates, and at the Student Union Building on the Gordon Head Campus.

'IT'S HAME LAD, YOURS AND MINE'

Under the guise of celebrating Robbie Burns Day, 150 faithful hearts Monday night drank toast to Scotland:

The occasion was the annual dinner of the Burns Club of Victoria which this year celebrated the 206th birthday of the son of Scotland.

Although in name the celebration was for Burns, the mood of the evening was reflected in the words of Alexander MacLennan who said in proposing a toast to Scotland:

"We are exiles from our father's land and if we were asked why Scotland is our home the answers would be as varied as the people questioned.

"But the only answer we could give is expressed in the last lines of a poem which read, 'It's hame lad, yours and mine lad'."

The toast to the immortal memory of Robbie Burns was given by Professor James M. Brown.

In it, he said it was the sympathy, sincerity and intellectual power that determined the popularity of Burns' witing.

"Much of the love for Burns is because he turned his genius to the simple things of life and he also held his own among intellectuals," said Prof. Brown.

Theatre Work Under Estimate

Firm prices on extension of McPherson theatre restaurant and the playhouse loft total $130,000—$5,000 under estimate mate—Centennial Square committee was told Monday.

Actual construction costs amount to $113,655.34 by tender bids, with an estimated $5,851.31 closely cropped for landscaping changes, and $9,500 for architect's fees.

Overall sum includes $993.35 for contingencies and previously approved items such as additional carpets.

"I am very pleased that this is coming within the estimate," Mayor R. B. Wilson commented.

Dance Hall Rejected At Saanich Hearing

Six of seven bylaws presented to a public hearing Monday night were approved in principle by Saanich council.

About 50 persons showed up for the meeting which lasted 2½ hours and provided little opposition.

Council's recommendations on the bylaws will go before the next meeting this Monday for ratification.

Only bylaw to be turned down was the proposed dance hall and recreation centre on the west side of Patricia Bay Highway between Dieppe Road and Quadra Street.

DEVALUATION

Nine residents of the area objected to the hall because it would devaluate property, cause noise and create a problem if liquor was allowed.

Approval was voiced for:

- Extensions to Douglas Golfland to provide additional golfing and archery facilities.
- Extensions to Tillicum, Hampton, Tolmie and Cloverdale schools and a new school on Harrop Road.
- Application of existing regulations for low density apartments for an area bounded by Harriet Road, Obed Avenue, Albina Street and the Gorge waters.
- Construction of a House of Study for the Sisters of St. Ann at Queenswood Drive and Arbutus Road.

Few Vacancies At Five Kindergartens

Greater Victoria school board has a few mid-term vacancies for pre-school children qualified for kindergarten classes.

Primary and kindergarten supervisor Miss Ulah Jacobson said a half-term's experience for the pre-school child is valuable time spent before entering grade one.

The child must have become five years old by Dec. 31 in order to qualify for kindergarten, offered at key elementary schools throughout the district.

Vacancies are at Willows, Monterey, North Ward, Margaret Jenkins and Craigflower schools. Parents should contact the principals of these schools for registration.

Regular registration for kindergarten pupils starting classes in the fall goes through to the end of April.

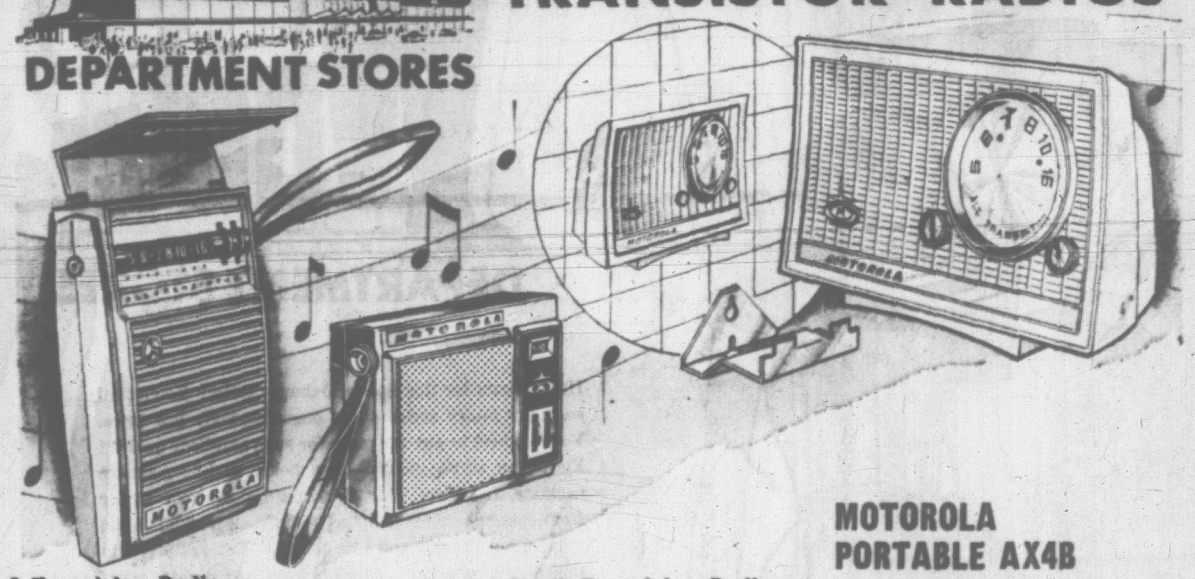

There are about 1,600 children attending kindergarten at 15 schools.

THREE STAGES OUTLINED By PETER C. NEWMAN

Era of Divine Right Rule Terminated for Liberals

OTTAWA — The renovation of the Pearson Cabinet being negotiated in Ottawa this week may move the Liberal government into the third and most interesting phase of its stormy two-year stewardship.

In the initial stage the Liberals hoped they could relapse into the smooth noiseless IBM-machine kind of government they had achieved in the early fifties, but this post-election euphoria terminated suddenly with Walter Gordon's first budget.

When it became obvious that their claim to government by divine right had for some incomprehensible reason been exhausted the Liberals settled into the comfortable niche of trying to beguile the voters with the same advantages of having an undeniably clever, non-political statesman like Mike Pearson running their affairs.

The impressive performance of ministers like Mitchell Sharp, Paul Hellyer and Maurice Sauve established a residual atmosphere of competence, but the emphasis was off efficiency and by implication at least, the Liberals seemed to be saying: "Isn't it invigorating to be governed by a group of average guys who make the occasional mistake, like everybody else?"

WARM GLOW

But with the revelation of the strange behavior of Maurice Lamontagne, Rene Tremblay and others, this comfortable phase, when honest bumbling was no sin and daddy Pearson cast a warm glow over all, came to an abrupt end.

The highly hazardous new situation which has now come about is testing the prime minister's aptitude for self-preservation an instinct that Pearson has seldom had to use during his uninterrupted climb upward in the public service of his country.

The events of the past few weeks may force Pearson into a chilling awareness that he (and not just his government) is on trial. Struck by the difference between what things are and what they ought to be, he may finally gather enough determination to take a desperate flight into politics. This would involve a cabinet shakeup rather than just a shuffle — and it would have to be carried out with uncharacteristic brutality.

In the process, Pearson would have to alter drastically the easy-going relationship he's maintained with most of his ministers. He has been satisfied, in the past, to judge others by the criterion of his own motives and has delegated authority without any follow-up discipline.

CLEAN HOUSE

Whether Pearson will have the guts to clean house nobody yet knows. What's at stake is a great deal more than even his personal honor. Canadians have elevated the office of Prime Minister to something much higher than that of a political functionary. The governor - general, as the Queen's representative, is Canada's official chief of state. But the emotional homage which in other lands is lavished on a monarch, a president or a pope, is directed at the Prime Minister, since he wields both the pomp and the power that really count.

The man who holds the office thus becomes, in a very real sense, the keeper of the national conscience. Theodore Roosevelt sensed this when he referred to his own office as a "bully-pulpit."

As the moral guardian of his country, the prime minister has a supreme obligation: he must defend his office from the slightest, even implied blot on the moral quality of his leadership. If men of stainless honor can not be found to staff the cabinet, mob rule could be the ultimate alternative.

HEAVY BURDEN

That Pearson knows just how heavy a burden a prime minister must carry was evident in a definition which he recently gave to a Liberal rally. "To be prime minister of Canada," he said, "you need to have the hide of a rhinoceros, the morals of a St. Francis, the patience of Job, the wisdom of Solomon, the strength of Hercules, the leadership of Napoleon, and the subtlety of Machiavelli.

The late Profesor MacGregor Dawson in a less witty but more pertinent reference to the political imperatives of the man who is prime minister of Canada, once wrote: "It is one of the sure signs of an able prime minister that he will have the courage and the toughness to get rid of men who have ceased to be assets."

This is the measure of the challenge currently facing Mike Pearson.

NEW TOP AIDE to John Diefenbaker in Quebec is Theogene Ricard, St. Hyacinthe-Bagot MP, with the revolt of Leon Balcer, a Conservative party source said today.

Twins Die In Fire

KAMLOOPS (CP) — The 10-year-old twins of a North Kamloops couple died Tuesday in a fire that heavily damaged their home. Police said Vick Carol and Donald John, children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bennett, apparently were asphyxiated. Their mother was at a store about a block away when the fire spread rapidly through the house and the father was at work.

SALUTE CAME LATE

The hand salute used by most modern armies did not come into general use until the 19th century.

'UBC Pay Key In Race For Staff'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. John B. Macdonald, president of the University of British Columbia, said Monday his university's pay scale is not high enough to win a race for top staff.

Dr. Macdonald told a meeting of the B.C. Pharmaceutical Association that the academic world is in "a real period of inflation."

"We thought our UBC salary increases were substantial this year, but we find that in most categories we have slipped behind, compared with other Canadian universities," he said.

Dr. Macdonald said the long-range solution to the problem lies in the increase and strengthening of Canada's university graduate schools.

In answer to a question, he said he did not find the same financing difficulties in Russian higher education during his recent visit.

"The president of the University of Moscow said he had no problems with regard to finances," he said.

FROM GOVERNMENTS

Centennial Grants To Hit $500,000

More than $500,000 is expected from senior governments for Greater Victoria centennial observances.

This was indicated Tuesday at the first full meeting of the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee since Central Saanich joined.

Executive secretary C. C. Wyatt told the committee estimated total funds now available come to $486,900—based on current population figures. This includes $57,300 for celebrations. The rest is for a permanent project.

However, by the time the final payments to municipalities are made in 1966, grants are expected to be increased by virtue of population increase. This should push the fund over $500,000.

Mr. Wyatt said the first federal payment of nearly $14,000 is about due. He suggested investing $10,000 of it for greatest interest return during the interim time it will be idle.

The committee agreed that advice on this subject should come from a finance committee, to be appointed by chairman Coun. Walter Dodsworth of Oak Bay.

NO OPPOSITION

He was unopposed when nominations for the post were called. Vice-chairman Michael Griffin, former city alderman, also was chosen unanimously.

The committee seated Central Saanich members J. W. Cockrill and A. G. Vickers.

Members agreed to mount a campaign for centennial project suggestions, based on a hint from provincial centennial planning chairman Laurie Wallace that May 31 may be named as deadline for ideas.

Out of a number of suggestions already made to the committee, a sports stadium is favored by the Cosmopolitan Club. It also was endorsed by Oak Bay council.

Another letter, from Victoria branch of the Community Planning Association, endorsed the idea presented by P. D. P. Holmes for a Victoria-Sidney centennial parkway.

Bequest for School

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of British Columbia medical school has received a bequest of more than $600,000 for medical research, the largest gift ever received by a university for such purposes. University officials said the bequest, which will provide an income of about $30,000 a year, came from lumberman George G. Heighway, a native of Australia, who died here in November at the age of 79.

"FOREST"
CEDAR

A new cedar specialty
for Beauty
Long Life
Economy

• • •

What is
"FOREST"
Siding?

A new and attractive type of siding that comes from specially selected cedar logs sawn to bring out all the distinctive character of knots, burls and grain.

How to finish
"FOREST"

"Forest has a distinctive horizontal shadow line that will enhance the beauty of your home.

If you wish to preserve the natural rustic effect of "Forest" apply a coat of oil filler first, then varnish or shellac. "Forest" siding also takes paint beautifully if you wish a colored finish.

YOU can easily
apply "FOREST"
cedar siding

Many home owners have applied this modern, beautiful "Forest" siding themselves without the slightest difficulty.

MONEY BURIED IN YOUR HOUSE?
Use It to Consolidate Your Debts Through CORONATION MORTGAGE CORPORATION
Take the value of your house—subtract the balance owing on your mortgage and the resulting figure is called "home equity," or the investment you have made so far in your home. You can borrow against this equity to settle your debts or make a major purchase. Take up to 15 years to repay at exceptionally low interest rates — no hidden charges, no bonus fees. Consolidate your debts now in one low monthly payment—there's no more economical way to borrow money!

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

A great deal of interest has been shown in the role of the Negro in television. Next fall, comedian Bill Cosby will co-star with Robert Culp in a new television series. He will thus become the first Negro to share a show of his own. In Chicago, the only Negro news commentator in television began his program Jan. 11.

Stephen

What are the thoughts of the individual who finds himself in such a unique position? The question was answered in a recent report on the editorial pages of The Christian Science Monitor.

C. Sumner (Chuck) Stone Jr. appears five times a week on Channel 26, Chicago's first UHF station. His commentary is part of a 15-minute news and analysis program.

He often spices his comments with words like "brother," "nitty-gritty," "Mr. Charlie."

His audience "reads him," though. They know he is no "Uncle Tom." Many "identify" with him.

Right now, at least, Mr. Stone consciously addresses a Negro audience. He looks for "the Negro angle" in the news. One good reason: more Negroes, proportionately own UHF receivers than any other group in the Chicago area.

He thus regards his program an apt vehicle for his personal campaign "to make the Negro visible."

"As Ralph Ellison said in his book, the Negro is invisible in America," he contends. "If you come to America for the first time and read the papers and look at TV as a casual visitor, you wouldn't know that America has a serious racial problem. The best way to describe the American social picture is tokenism."

Mr. Stone wants to help change this picture. He hopes particularly to reach Negro youth.

"When these young Negro kids can turn on the TV and see a Negro giving his opinion, it makes them proud," he says. "I'm them."

Chuck Stone also wants to reach the downtrodden Negro of all ages.

The Channel 26 commentator is especially disenchanted with civil rights groups and the civil rights movement in general.

Civil rights groups have a role, he concedes. But sometimes they "encourage false expectations."

"You have a Negro riot, and the white man says, 'How can this be? I just gave $1,000 to the Urban League'."

The word "integration" also bothers him. "People believe that if something is integrated that solves the problem. I submit that it's possible to have a first class, all-Negro institution in an integrated society."

He has a lot more to say but he won't get to say it on his program. "Certain things you can write, but you can't say it on TV," he says.

"My torch is a dim lamp."

Oh, yes. "Brother?" That means fellow Negroes. "Nitty-gritty?" That's the essence of something, the irreducible minimum. And "Mr. Charlie," that's the white man.

LINER MAY BE CALLED CHURCHILL

LIVERPOOL (Reuters) — Britain's new $64,400,000 Cunard liner, temporarily known as the Q4, may be named after Sir Winston Churchill, a company spokesman said Tuesday. The new 58,000-ton liner will take the place of the 81,000-ton Queen Mary in about three years.

SAD GENERATION? NOT REALLY

A Teen-Ager Looks at the Kooks

(Writer of this article is a 15-year-old student at S. J. Willis Junior Secondary School. Recently the students of her class had a guidance lecture on teen-age behavior. That evening Wanda was baby-sitting and began to think about it. The upshot was that she put it on paper in the form of an essay. It is published as she wrote, subject, she says, to a few minor spelling corrections.)

By WANDA BRADLEY

Teen-agers are pretty hard to understand, aren't they?

Their dances seem ridiculous, their hairdos outrageous, their clothes "kookie" and music so loud it's almost unbearable.

They seem irresponsible, rude and sometimes ignorant. They don't seem to understand that what mother says is best. Homework first, fun later. Why do they insist it to be the other way around?

Why do they suddenly want to become almost completely independent of their families? And what about these fads and being part of the gang? Why is that so important?

They should be using their time for something sensible like helping mother with the dishes, doing homework, or visiting the library. Maybe even a nice quiet dance to your new Lawrence Welk record. That's the life, eh?

REASON, NEED

I'm writing this article to help you understand that behind all this foolishness there is a reason and a need.

Any teen-ager deprived of this is not being allowed to live a normal life. Education is a very important part of life, but equally important is being allowed to grow up!

Teen-agers are told, don't smoke, don't drink. When an adult wishes to get away from it all he is allowed, within reason, these two ways of doing it. Some feel that by drinking a little too much they can forget.

A child when he wishes to express himself may throw a tantrum or amuse himself with building blocks or other toys.

Teen-agers are too young to drink and too old for toys.

TOO YOUNG, TOO OLD

What are they to do? Stick their noses in a book and forget? Sure. But does that allow them to express their feelings and work it out of their systems?

No. Well then, what must they do? This is where the jungle dances come in.

Silly, is it? Not really. It's just one of the ways that teen-agers have found to express themselves. Have you ever studied the dancing carefully or do you get lost in the confusion?

ALL SMILES

A teen who is happy or excited is usually going like a vibrating machine and is all smiles and giggles. An angry or upset teen may throw himself around with a very serious look on his face and dance on endlessly.

Yes, it all seems pointless but after he has satisfied his feelings and they are no longer locked up inside him, he feels free of his problems and in a better humor. Hairdos, fads, and going along with the gang, are another problem.

"But Mother, I have to wear my hair like this. Everyone does. No, Mom, my skirt isn't too short. All the girls wear them this way and if I don't they'll all think I'm a cube."

DIFFERENCE

These excuses sound familiar don't they? If they don't, your family isn't normal.

There is a difference between fads and fashions. Fashion is here to stay. Fads are spur of the moment decisions to do something nutty. Pigtails, sneakers, loud sweatshirts, purple lipstick and knee-sox; all these are fads.

Don't forbid your teen-agers to join in the fun. They can only do it once in their lifetime. It doesn't hurt anyone does it? You may not like it but they do, or doesn't that count.

JEALOUS

The truth is you're jealous because you can't do all these silly things. If you did, they'd probably ship you off to some lonely institution. Fads are something teen-agers should be allowed to have, without too much interference from the adult world.

Teen-agers don't expect you to let them do everything nutty, but what are pigtails and sweatshirts for pete sake!

At last education. Ah!

"If only they would realize how important it is in life."

MOST CARE

The truth is they do. More than you think. Oh, there are a few of course, who really couldn't care less, but the majority of them have future plans.

The daughter who likes to have her friends in to help her bake a purple and green marble cake topped with a red icing may be another Betty Crocker. Good old Bill who sits at the back of the class drawing goofy pictures of the teacher may have possibilities as an architect.

Then there's Mary-Jane. She has the most wonderful sense of humor; she's a terrific dancer and she has the loudest voice this side of town. She may be a wonderful hostess at social affairs or possibly a talented entertainer.

So you see, teen-agers aren't wasting their time on a lot of foolishness.

DILEMMA

Each of their seemingly pointless actions has its use in developing each of their personalities and their futures They are in the dilemma of being too old to cry and too young to state an honest opinion without being rude or constantly contradicting someone.

Irresponsible? No. The responsibilities weigh heavily on their shoulders and in order to cope with them teen-agers must be allowed to express themselves. Don't nag them, try to understand them. Don't talk to them, talk with them.

NO FIGHTS

I'm a teenager. Yep! I'm one of those mixed up kids we've been discussing.

I love to dance till I'm beat, laugh all the time, wear crazy clothes and weird lipstick.

Do I fight with my parents? Not on your life. They understand me. They know what I'm going through and they help me. They don't give me the "we always know what's best for you" line.

They discuss things with me and then let me think about it. They're helping me live a normal life and I'm enjoying every minute of it. They are definitely understanding parents. Are you?

DON'T BE UPSET

Do you understand your teen-ager? Are you helping or hindering his future? When you say "No," are you depriving him of something he needs? Perhaps a valuable experience?

Think about this please, and remember it. I wrote this article to help teenagers who are not fortunate enough to have the valuable experience of sharing their teen years with wonderful and understanding parents like mine.

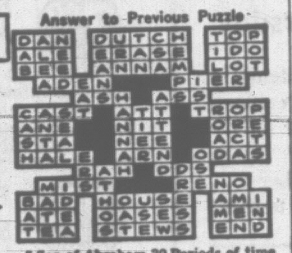

A final note: Sad, isn't it? You're passing this world on to a generation of kooks! Well, don't let it upset you too much. You could be spanking a future prime minister!

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question an Atlas or Globe.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Ronald Maddeaux, age 12, of Tucson, Ariz., for his question:

Is it true that sponges grow underwater?

The squeezable sponges, riddled with pores and tiny tunnels, have been mankind's faithful washers and scrubbers since ancient times. The Age of Science has brought us many imitations made of foamy plastics, and these almost - as - good sponges are man-made on dry land. But all the world's natural sponges do their slow and patient growing underwater.

The 3,000 or so different sponges are classified in the phylum Porifera, meaning the pore-bearers. Most of them live their lazy lives in warm, shallow seas, though a few of the smaller varieties grow in the fresh waters of lakes and rivers. The largest of the pore-bearers may be three feet wide and the smallest no bigger than pinheads. They come in a wide assortment of shapes and colors, and growing in their natural surroundings they could be mistaken for underwater gardens of small shrubs and humped bushes, lacy flowers and blossoms.

For a short period in infancy a sponge may be a free-swimming larva near the warm surface of the sea. But most of its life is spent firmly anchored to a rock or on the solid floor of the ocean. It may be fixed to a floating log or to the wood piling of a pier. But every sponge must live and do its growing underwater. Its simple body is built for life in the water and soon perishes in the dry air.

Water Circulates In Sponge

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Globe to Janet Guffenbert, age 13, of Lancaster, Pa., for her question:

Why is lb. the abbreviated form of pound?

An abbreviation is a brief or shortened form of a word. As a rule it is a contraction of the word in which only a few of its letters are used. The abbreviated form of Wednesday is Wed., and Pa. is the proper abbreviation of Pennsylvania. Always remember to follow an abbreviation with a period, whether or not it occurs at the end of the sentence.

Since an abbreviation usually takes the first and perhaps one or more other letters from the original word, you would expect the shortened form of pound to be pd.—but this is not so. Lb. is the abbreviated form for the pound weight and lbs. is short for pounds. The word pound is descended from the name of an old Anglo-Saxon weight, and libra is the Latin name for a weight. For some strange reason we use the abbreviation of the Latin word for pound.

Plan Orient Visit

British Columbia will function on half a government between May 23 and June 6.

During that time Premier Bennett will lead a delegation of five other cabinet ministers deep into the heart of the Orient.

Travelling with the premier, with the main target better trade relations with Japan, will be Resources Minister Ray Williston, Mines Minister Donald Brothers, Recreation Minister Kenneth Kiernan, Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Trade and Industry Minister Ralph Loffmark.

Mr. Loffmark told the legislature Tuesday night that the mission would seek greater international trade "the lifeblood of the B.C. economy."

CADETS TOLD NOT TO TALK ON CHEATING

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (UPI)—A stringently enforced shield of secrecy surrounded the investigation of examination cheating at the U.S. Air Force Academy and several more cadet resignations were expected today.

Academy cadets and those who have resigned were reported under threat of severe penalty if they discuss the scandal.

Officials at the academy announced six more resignations Tuesday, bringing the number of cadets who have resigned in the past nine days to 35.

Two Languages Get CS Backing

OTTAWA (CP) — The Civil Service Federation of Canada today recommended that French and English be taught as compulsory subjects in elementary and secondary schools in all parts of Canada.

The recommendation was one of four contained in a brief submitted to the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism by the federation representing 75,000 federal government employees.

The brief also recommended that:

—Civil servants and employees in industry be required to speak English and French if either language is spoken by up to at least 50 per cent of the public served.

—The federal government and employers in industry foster language training classes in French and English during working hours, and be prepared to pay allowances to employees required to use both languages in the normal course of their duties.

—The federal government, private industry and community organizations promote and foster the growth of bilingualism and biculturalism in Canada.

It was the result of a survey carried out last summer when a two-part questionnaire was circulated among members. The first part of the questionnaire dealt with general information, and the second contained eleven questions on bilingualism.

The federation said 22,510 members, about 30 per cent of the membership, responded to the survey, and 22,168 of the replies were complete enough to be processed by a computer and used as the basis for recommendatits.

More Grants Requested For Route

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi thinks the federal government should chip in another $7,000,000 towards the cost of the Stewart-Cassiar road in northern B.C.

The Ottawa government has already contributed $7,000,000 towards the cost of present construction matching the provincial government's contribution under the roads-to-resources plan.

"But," said Mr. Gaglardi following Tuesday night's late sitting of the house," the road will cost close to $30,000,000 to complete. The federal government should put up half of that."

At present provincial government work crews are brush clearing on the road site.

During the night session Trade Minister R. R. Loffmark said the road should come under the national roads program and not be left in the roads-to-resources category.

"It is quite a vital road that will link northern B.C. with the west coast, the Yukon and northern Alberta," he said. "It rates greater attention from Ottawa."

New Iran Premier

TEHRAN (AP)—Finance Minister Amir Abass Hoveida took office today as premier of Iran following the death of Hassan Ali Mansour from an assassin's bullets. Hoveida pledged to advance the shah's reform program.

Council Backs 8-Point Attack

By AB KENT

City council health and welfare committees Tuesday endorsed all but one of nine Community Welfare Council recommendations to help heal the saddle sore of juvenile delinquency.

The committee, including Mayor R. B. Wilson, held a special meeting to discuss the welfare council's detailed report released late last year, recognizing that Victoria ranks among the urban centres with the highest delinquency problem in B.C.

Before any further steps are taken by city council, a delegation will discuss the situation with Attorney-General Robert Bonner, or senior members of his department.

The whole delinquency problem will be referred to intermunicipal committee because of the joint responsibility of the municipalities to provide such welfare facilities as court rooms and offices.

Committee chairman Ald. Lily Wilson said at the outset:

"They say 90 per cent of children are delinquent. I don't think so.

Still Good

"I think the children today are as good as they ever were . . . As Bruce Hutchinson said, 'their actions are made extraordinary by extraordinary headlines.'"

She said the children are not all to blame: "Parents must bear most of the responsibility—not all of it, but most of it."

There is a "small, hard nucleus of delinquency. If it is allowed to grow it will spread to other children," Ald. Wilson said, adding:

"I think they are the least understood of any generation so far."

Ald. Austin Curtis said he was surprised by the report's criticism of family and children's court facilities at Coldharbor Road, former juvenile detention home, which was recently converted to get the court out of highly inadequate quarters in the basement of Cook Street welfare centre.

"We spent a lot of money on Coldharbor Road and no sooner do we spend it than we are told it is woefully inadequate," he said.

Ald. Wilson, backed by the mayor, pointed out that Coldharbor was intended as stop-gap only.

"The other was so grim, something had to be done," Mayor Wilson said.

Court Cases

Part of the reason for crowding there, explained welfare council executive director J. M. Anguish, is a 44.8 per cent increase in 1964 in court cases.

As of this month, between 700 and 800 active court orders are on file, with about 20 new ones added monthly, he said.

City manager Dennis Young said a recent survey indicated $115,000 would be needed to build a new court with ancilliary services, and today the cost would probably be $150,000.

Dealing with each proposal, the committee endorsed.

1. Adequate quarters, probation staff, full-time judge and prosecutor and a public campaign to impress the importance of family and childrens' court and need for adequate staff and facilities.

2. Raising juveniles 15 years old and over into adult court on motor-vehicle offenses, while retaining the juvenile court age limit of 18 years for all other offenses.

Adult Court

Ald. Wilson disagreed vehemently with this recommendation: "No child should ever be in an adult court," she said.

She agreed a separate traffic court might be necessary to remove the burden from the family and children's court.

Mayor Wilson pointed out that a less enduring mark is made against an offender in adult court, while juvenile records are carried on to Ottawa.

"If he is old enough to drive a car, he is old enough to be responsible," said Ald. Clyde Savage, supporting the recommendation.

3. Physical and mental examinations for convicted juveniles before committal.

4. Combined welfare council-University of Victoria workshops and lectures on delinquency, control and correction for those involved in the work and interested laymen.

5. Change and expansion of custodial services to provide for both sexes a variety of smaller residential and custodial institutions on regional basis.

(This was endorsed in principle, with reservations as to size.)

New Records

6. Improved record system to make meaningful statistics available to police forces and court personnel.

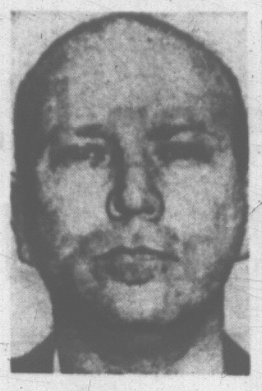

7. Local disposition boards to help courts reach the best solution for each case; membership from provincial departments of attorney-general, health, social welfare and education and community representatives.

8. A standing committee on youth to alert the community to the problem of delinquency, act toward implementing the report, study the continuing problem and keep watching brief over all aspects of the situation.

The only recommendation tabled dealt with the proposed appointment of social workers or psychologists to school administration staff to help adjustment of problem children in the elementary grades.

Rare Stamp Loaned

LONDON (Reuters) — The world's most valuable stamp, once sold by a schoolboy for six shillings (90 cents) and now insured for £200,000 ($600,000), was flown to London from the United States Tuesday night. The 1856 British Guiana one cent magenta was discovered in 1873 by schoolboy Vernon Vaughan while going through some old family correspondence in British Guiana. It is owned by an American collector who has loaned it for display at an exhibition here next month.

GUILTY PLEA or no contest will be entered by James Edward Jordan, 38 (above), one of 18 white men indicted for conspiracy in slaying of three civil rights workers, according to U.S. District Judge Harold Cox.

Sentenced to Hang

EDMONTON (CP) — Lloyd Dennis Lyding, 25, of Edmonton, was found guilty Tuesday of capital murder in the shooting of his estranged wife Margaret, 21, Oct. 19, and sentenced to be hanged April 28.

CONVERSION TASK

Destroyer Escort Added at Esquimalt

HMCS Yukon, latest addition and newest ship in the Esquimalt-based second Canadian Escort Squadron, arrived here Tuesday.

The destroyer - escort was brought here by an east coast crew which will return to Halifax aboard HMCS Ottawa next week.

The Ottawa is the latest escort to complete conversion to variable-depth sonar and helicopter hangar and flight deck.

She has recently undergone a series of workups prior to her trip east via the Panama Canal.

The Ottawa was commissioned at Burrard Dry Dock Co. Ltd., North Vancouver May 25, 1963. She left for Halifax following sea trials.

Yukon commanding officer Cmdr. R. W. J. Cooks and his crew of 212 officers and men were welcomed by a musical salute on the jetty performed by HMCS Naden band.

Rear-Admiral M. G. Stirling, flag officer, Pacific Coast, took the salute as the ship slipped through the entrance to Esquimalt harbor.

New 'Y' Club Tries To Even the Score

There are five women to each man in a club that meets every Monday at 920 Blanshard Street.

It wasn't planned, but that is what happened when the Parents Without Partners Club was formed in Victoria two months ago.

Next week they are trying to even up the score by recruiting more male members who are interested and eligible.

"There is probably more interest by women because they are the ones who are usually raising the families," says Lorna Cammaert, adult program director of the YM-YWCA which sponsors the club.

30s AND 40s

The present membership is 24, but the club feels it will increase as more people become aware of its usefulness.

"In a society which has come to recognize divorce and separation as common events, it is ironic that little heed is given to the serious problems which erupt from such tragic happenings," says one club member.

"Women far outnumber men in the role of caring for children and living alone, but it should not be forgotten that there are many fathers trying to fill the role of an absent mother," he said.

24 MEMBERS

The members are mostly in their late 30s and early 40s, but their programs would be of interest to partnerless parents of any age, says Miss Cammaert.

The program includes dances, theatre parties, group discussions and films. The major part of the program consists of friendliness and understanding.

"Friendship and companionship is not an item which can be purchased or obtained from a social welfare agency," said the club member. "It can only come from understanding and through meeting people in congenial places."

81st Year, No. 199. ★ VICTORIA, B.C., WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 27, 1965 —50 PAGES PRICE: 10 CENTS WEEKEND 14 CENTS

In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

The fourth round of the throne speech debate finds me with a slight ringing in my ears, result of listening to seven Tues d a y contributions, each the length of a revival sermon but not all as lively.

Our damn-the-torpedos premier seems to be rushing the ship of state along at top speed; unless he relents, we expect another late night on Thursday.

Meanwhile, Socred Waldo Skillings of Victoria led off today, picking up where his party mate, Jacob F. Huhn for Peace River North, sat down at 11 p.m. on the third day of this whirligig debate.

On Tuesday, the government's medicare plan was hit and hit again from the opposition benches. Also, the Senate which last year turned thumbs down on the Bennett Bank of British Columbia came under cold Socred and NDP scrutiny.

Simplest, and certainly most drastic proposal for dealing with the Grand Old Men of Ottawa, came from durable Frank Calder, NDP member for Atlin and hereditary chief of the Skeena River Nishkas.

Mr. Calder's recipe: whip the rug out from under 'em.

"This is one body of our democratic system we can well do without," he said. "If we can legislate for the operation and administration of our provincial affairs without the sanction of a Senate, so can the federal administration."

In a spirit of agreement not too common between factions in the House, Cyril Shelford, SC, Omineca, gave partial support to Mr. Calder's off-with-their-heads proposal.

His view, he told MLAs when he rose to speak for a riding to be covered only by a 1,500-mile swing, is that the Senate should be elected or abolished.

★ ★ ★

Most of the day, however, was given to less hellfire proposals. In fact, Speaker William Harvey Murray's gavel lay idle save for an evening rap or two. So far in a session marred only by minor exchanges, we are chiefly reminded of the Legislature's referee when he paces in black gown and tricorn hat into his oaken cave at the head of the House.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner did let the switchblade peep from the velvet glove once, in an afternoon exchange with NDP David Barrett, Dewdney, over the B.C. probation service.

Otherwise, his contribution to debate flowed smoothly along, pleasant as always to the listener, but just a trifle short on sparkle.

★ ★ ★

Trade and Commerce Minister Ralph Loffmark, his 1964 portfolio still scarce-scarred, launched the evening sitting with a pitch for a hotted-up trade with Japan, then moved on somewhat at random from forest products to agriculture to power.

"Each salmon running up the Fraser River is worth $200 in unused power," declared Mr. Loffmark. "On the proceeds of that power, if we ignored the salmon, we could retire all the commercial fishermen in B.C. . . . not that we intend to do that!"

(When he is older in his ministry, Mr. Loffmark will know better than to scare the gizzard out of our commercial fishing industry — worth $90 million a year—with such sinister illustrations. The fishermen are worried enough about power encroachment already.)

In fairness, though, Mr. Loffmark's speech made the best listening of the day, and his comparisons never fail to be graphic.

LEADERSHIP MEETING FAVORED BY TORIES?

TORONTO (UPI) — National Conservative president Dalton Camp today discounted a report that his poll of the Tory national executive committee was running two-to-one in favor of a special meeting to consider calling a leadership convention.

The report of the two-to-one percentage of replies so far was, he said, "entirely without foundation and somewhat without relevance."

'Lay Off Rivard Case' Favreau Told Rouleau

—AP Wirephoto

PAYING HOMAGE to Sir Winston Churchill's memory at Westminster Hall in London today were thousands of mourners who filed past the catafalque in two lines. Funeral is Saturday.

CIVIL RIGHTS TRIO ARRESTED

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—Three white civil rights workers were arrested today after they refused to get away from a line of Negroes seeking to register as voters.

Sheriff's deputies took the three in custody after a U.S. marshal ordered them away from the prospective voters.

Brother of MP Gives Evidence

MONTREAL (CP) — Raymond Rouleau testified today that his brother, Liberal MP Guy Rouleau, told him that Justice Minister Favreau had given instructions to lay off the Rivard case because it was "too hot."

He also told the Dorion inquiry that he is afraid of narcotics conspiracy suspect Lucien Rivard and "his gang."

The Dorion inquiry is investigating allegations of attempted bribery and influence-peddling by federal ministerial aides aimed at getting Rivard released from Bordeaux Jail on bail. (See also Page 3.)

Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne, acting for the U.S. government in Rivard's extradition hearings here, has testified that Denis offered him $20,000 to drop opposition to bail for Rivard.

Raymond Rouleau, 33-year-old insurance adjuster, said he was told by his brother: "Don't touch that (the Rivard case). It's too dangerous."

He said he agreed to Mrs. Rivard's request that he approach his MP-brother, then parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, to look into the possibilities of obtaining bail for Rivard.

He said it was his personal opinion that government authorities in Ottawa could bring pressure to bear on the judge in the extradition hearings. The judge is Mr. Justice Francois Caron.

Knew Three Accused Murderers

Mr. Rouleau, in the witness box for 2½ hours, said he knew Robert Collin and Maurice Poirier and had met Robert Gignac once.

These three are accused of capital murder in the Sept. 17 gangland slaying here of night-club doorman Rocky Brunette.

Mr. Rouleau said that about two weeks after he had asked his brother to look into the Rivard affair, Guy had advised him that Mr. Favreau had given instructions to drop the matter.

Ross Drouin, Conservative party counsel, read from an RCMP report of an interview with Raymond Rouleau which said Mr. Rouleau had told the police that Guy had informed him that he had been advised by Mr. Favreau to forget about the Rivard case because it was "too hot."

Mr. Rouleau said this RCMP account was correct.

Mr. Rouleau, president of the Mille-Iles school board, said he had told his brother he was a friend of Rivard's and that Rivard would help him in municipal elections.

He corroborated the testimony of Rivard that he and Rivard had flown to Ottawa June 17—Rivard had paid both fares — to see Guy Rouleau about the transfer of convic Bob Tremblay from a British Columbia to a Montreal penitentiary.

He said Guy met Rivard in the lounge of the Chateau Laurier hotel in Ottawa but the Rivard had not seen or talked to any minister that day.

He also said his brother was reluctant from the beginning to get involved in the Rivard affair.

'I Didn't Want to Know About It'

He said he (Raymond) had absented himself from the talk because "I didn't want to know anything about it."

RCMP counsel Norman Mathews asked whether Rivard had seen or talked to any cabinet minister while he was in Ottawa June 17 with Raymond Rouleau.

"Definitely not," Mr. Rouleau said, adding that he had been with Rivard all the time during this visit.

Evidence was entered Tuesday to the effect that Rivard had seen a "minister" in Ottawa June 17.

He said Mrs. Marie Rivard Rivard's 32-year-old wife, and Eddy Lechasseur, 33, fraud suspect and close friend of Rivard visited him to ask his assistance

RACE TRACK

Dupuis Case Data Sought In Quebec

QUEBEC (CP) — A question was placed on the legislative assembly's order paper today asking that the revenue and attorney-general's departments submit records of plans for a race track at St. Luc, Que.

Union Nationale member Paul Allard also asked that any letters written since 1960 by Yvon Dupuis "to the provincial finance minister, the revenue minister, the roads minister or any other provincial minister" regarding the establishment of the track be tabled in the assembly.

Mr. Dupuis resigned as federal minister-without-portfolio Friday.

Roch Deslauriers, a St. Johns, Que., chiropractor, Tuesday described as correct press reports that he turned over $10,000 in cash to Mr. Dupuis while trying to obtain a franchise from Quebec authorities for a race-track at St. Luc.

A revenue department spokesman had no comment Tuesday night about published reports that an RCMP investigation into "the mysterious case of Yvon Dupuis was ordered as a direct result of information supplied to the federal department of justice by the Quebec department of revenue."

Premier Lesage told the assembly Tuesday that he has no doubt about the integrity of revenue department workers. He declined comment on the Dupuis situation because it was still under RCMP investigation.

Wilson Leads Two-Mile Line To Honor Churchill Memory

LONDON (CP) — A line of shivering, solemn mourners stretching back some two miles —led by Britain's Prime Minister Wilson — filed slowly in double file past the coffin of Sir Winston Churchill today.

The body of Britain's 90-year-old man-of-the-century lay in state amid the cold, hushed grandeur of ancient Westminster Hall, the first commoner to lie in state there in this century.

Wilson, his wife and Members of Parliament were the first of many thousands who during the next three days will pass through the hall in tribute to one of England's greatest sons.

Churchill's body lay in a closed coffin on a 10-foot high black-draped catafalque a few steps from the House of Commons which was his historic stage. The coffin will lie there until the state funeral in St. Paul's Cathedral Saturday.

Against the backdrop of great gothic windows, the catafalque held the eye like a magnet.

Towering over the coffin was a golden cross, sparkling in the light of six candles in as many giant candlesticks, one at each corner of the catafalque, one at the head, the sixth at the foot.

Their heads bowed, four motionless officers of Churchill's Royal Navy and Royal Marines stood at the four corners of the catafalque.

Four London police constables —two men and two women— also stood silently near the catafalque, between it and the people as they shuffled past.

Overlooking the scene, high against the west wall, was one naval officer.

Every 20 minutes the guard of honor changed. Army officers and officers of the RAF replaced the officers from the navy and marines.

A gigantic Union Jack covered the coffin. Atop it was a blue and gold cushion. Upon the cushion rested Sir Winston's insignia as a Knight of the Garter —the collar, the star and the garter itself.

Before the catafalque, the prime minister and Mrs. Wilson stopped, turned and bowed.

Then they turned and walked slowly through the hall and out into New Palace Yard.

It was a cold grey morning in keeping with the occasion. A northeast wind whipped in from the nearby River Thames and the distant bleak North Sea, threatening snow.

The prime minister and his wife were followed by Herbert Bowden, leader of the House of Commons, and Mrs. Bowden. Behind them came peers and members of the House of Commons.

Among the first to pay tribute was Field Marshal Earl Alexander of Tunis, one of the wartime prime minister's greatest commanders and former Governor-General of Canada.

After the members of Parliament came members of the royal household, the diplomatic corps, high commissioners and senior government officials.

Behind them a huge crowd edged forward—people from all over Britain, the Commonwealth and foreign lands.

The hall will be opened to the public on a 23-hour-a-day basis.

When the great oaken doors swung open to the public at 9 a.m., the line stretched for three-quarters of a mile and police said more than 5,000 were waiting. It grew rapidly and thousands were in the queue before noon.

Although it was a school day, many children of school age were in the crowd.

The public shuffled through the hall in two lines on either side of the catafalque.

Many halted before the bier, turned, bowed, turned again and moved on.

The silence was remarkable. A few women wept silently.

SUN SHINES THROUGH

Those paying tribute to Sir Winston were from all walks of life—old women from London's east end in head scarves and cloth coats . . . young men in leather jackets . . . veiled women in fur coats . . . old men limping along on walking sticks . . . schoolboys in shorts, their bare knees red from the cold . . . little girls in socks and heavy sweaters . . . a workman in overalls . . .

THEY WEPT, PRAYED

'Least We Could Do,' Says Woman at Bier

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—The famous and the ordinary people of Britain paid their last tributes to Sir Winston Churchill as he lay in state today.

Old men and young girls, veterans with decorations and peers in frock coats, generals and simple commoners — all were strangely moved. Some prayed, others wept.

Most just shuffled past in silence, awed by the dignity, simplicity and power of the scene. Sir Winston's last return to Westminster was grand and sad at the same time.

"That was the least we could do" said an elderly woman as she left the huge 800-year-old Westminster Hall.

WATCH CHANGES

Every 20 minutes a fifth officer raps out a command that shatters sound above the muffled movements of feet — and with slow precision the watch changes.

Members of both houses of Parliament, the royal household and the diplomatic corps were the first to pay homage when the hall's oaken door swung open at 9 a.m.

While limousines of the dignitaries wheeled into New Palace Yard in a never-ending procession, a queue of more than 3,000 ordinary people wound back inside the Parliament Buildings, snaked through a Thames-side park, over Lambeth Bridge and down Lambeth Embankment on the south side of the river. By 11 a.m. when the public was first allowed to go in, the queue was more than a mile long.

First in the queue was 17-year-old Nick Hutchings of the London suburb of Barnes. He wore the badge of a nuclear disarmer and had been waiting with a sleeping bag since just before midnight.

"I think Churchill was the greatest man the world has ever known," he said.

DRINK HOT TEA

The people who waited, all warmly wrapped, drank scalding tea from thermos flasks and read the morning newspapers.

Hundreds of police, many with walkie-talkies strapped on their shoulders, directed crowds to the end of the queue and chalked up notices on blackboards.

Workers erected tents that will serve refreshments for those waiting during the next three days.

U.S. Money Aided Grits, Says John D

SASKATOON (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker threatened Tuesday night to unveil charges that American money helped Liberal political campaigns in 1962 and 1963.

Mr. Diefenbaker said at a Progressive Conservative reception on his way to Ottawa: "An American organizer in Canada under an assumed name had told the Liberals how to attack me.

"I kept silent because I did not want to bring about disunity. The Liberal press started these scurrilous attacks against me. I've never told the story of the 1963 election but that is going to be told soon."

He would not elaborate further but referred to "ministers who left his cabinet because their ambition was greater than their loyalty."

GATT to Discuss Auto Tariff Deal

GENEVA (Reuters) — A Canada-United States plan to banish automobile tariffs at the manufacturers' level will be discussed by members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade at their March 2 session, a spokesman said today.

But the spokesman of the 60-country GATT emphasized there was no formal protest by any member-country about the proposed duty elimination on vehicles and original assembly parts.

GATT executive secretary Eric Wyndham of Britain suggested the Canada-U.S. deal be included on the agenda and considered in the light of the rights and obligations of GATT members.

CANADA RATES THIRD ON FRIENDSHIP LIST

LONDON (Reuters)—The British public regards the United States as Britain's best friend, The Daily Telegraph reports.

Australia and Canada rank second and third.

The findings were determined by a Gallup poll of representative cross section of Britons, who were asked: "Which country do you regard as Britain's best friend?"

Replies in percentages were: The United States, 56; Australia, 13; Canada, 8.

Other European countries accounted for seven per cent and other British Commonwealth nations for two per cent. Another one per cent voted for African or Asian countries, and 13 per cent voted "don't know."

Paris Strike Cuts Power, Transport

PARIS (Reuters)—Thousands of Parisians struggled to work on foot, in army trucks or by hitch - hiking today as the first stages of a two - day state employees' strike cut rail and bus transport to a trickle.

At midnight Tuesday night, the country's 350,000 railworkers went on strike along with 200,000 post office workers, 300,000 teachers and nearly 1,000,000 more including garbage collectors, civil servants, bus crews and subway workers.

Air services were to be restricted for 24 hours from 7 a.m., but mainly within France. International flights were not expected to be affected.

The section of the strike expected to have the greatest effect on the public will be the walkout of 220,000 gas and electricity workers at 9 p.m.

This will cause a cut in power about the same time as the railworkers return to work around midnight tonight.

The effect on France's rail system will be the same as a prolongation of the rail strike, since much of it is electrified.

SUPPLY HOSPITALS

Strikers have promised to leave 15,000 men on duty to assure electricity for hospitals, schools and other vital services.

The stoppage was the second large-scale protest by state employees in seven weeks against the government's wage restraint policy.

In the last big strike Dec. 11, railway workers, teachers, electricity, gas, postal and mine workers stopped work almoet simultaneously for 24 hours.

But this time the unions have decided to stagger their protest in an attempt to paralyse state - run industries for two days.

Union leaders are demanding an immediate four - per - cent pay increase for their members.

BATTLE OF BRITAIN PLANES TOO ANCIENT

R.A.F. to Salute 'At Zero Feet'

LONDON (AP) — "The few" whom Sir Winston Churchill immortalized in one of his wartime speeches will salute his passing at ground level.

The RAF reluctantly decided Tuesday that the men and machines who shot the vaunted German Luftwaffe from the skies over Britain 24 years ago are too old to salute from the air.

Since Churchill died last Sunday, the RAF has been checking up on two remaining Spitfires and one Hurricane. It was hoped that they might be able to fly over the capital and dip in salute as the old warrior's body was borne up the River Thames on its last journey.

Flt. Lt. "Nobby" Armstrong —a small boy during the 1940 Battle of Britain—test-flew one of the old Spitfire fighters Tuesday.

TEST SUCCESSFUL

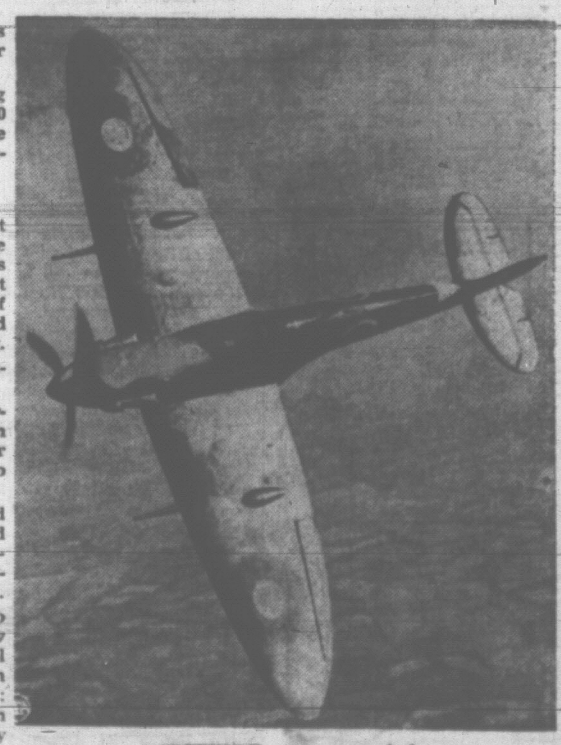

The test went off fine. But eventually the RAF decided the risk was too great. Authorities recalled that in a 1959 flypast commemorating the Battle of Britain, a Spitfire in the lead position made a forced landing.

A defence ministry spokesman explained:

"To fly a single-engine aircraft of this age over London at a low level and in winter weather would involve a risk to the public."

Saturday, the whine of the old piston planes will be replaced by the scream of 16 modern jet-powered Lightning fighters flying over to salute Sir Winston.

And on the ground—"at zero feet"—13 RAF pilots who flew in the Battle of Britain will march in the funeral procession of the man who said of them: "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

SPITFIRE . . . grounded.

PERRAULT:

Why Eye Yukon With Poverty On Home Front?

By JIM HUME

Ray Perrault was reluctant, but he finally admitted that he supported Premier Bennett in at least one direction—the move to annex the Yukon.

It was the only kind comment he had for the government as he continued speaking in throne speech debate Tuesday.

And even at that he tinged his approval with sharp thrusts at government boasts that B.C. is a land of milk and honey.

"It isn't new to propose annexation of the Yukon," he said. "It was proposed by Pattullo years ago. With 25 per cent of the population of British Columbia living on the edge of poverty, the premier waves a $300,000,000 carrot in front of the people of the Yukon. Wouldn't it be better to spend some of that money here solving provincial problems?"

The outburst brought a cry of "are you against it?" from government backbenchers.

"No," snapped Mr. Perrault. "I'm not against it, I'm for it. I think it will come in time. But there are other things to be done first."

Switching his attack to the needs of municipalities, the Liberal leader said B.C. is constantly dispatching "hordes of experts and advisers to Ottawa every time a conference was called in order to plead B.C.'s case for a better deal."

'Shabby and Shocking Treatment'

He added: "While the premier screams to high heaven for a better deal from the federal government, his treatment of the municipalities is shabby and shocking."

Throughout the afternoon Mr. Perrault ran into trouble from government hecklers.

He tried to make the point that B.C. should have more factories manufacturing finished products rather than be content with exporting raw materials.

"Why do we export semi-raw products?" he asked.

"Why are there only one or two furniture factories in the province? Why don't we export the finished product?"

The quip came fast from a Social Credit member: "With no down payment?"

Mr. Perrault stormed on.

"This government radiates cosy confidence in the throne speech, but I notice that it makes no mention of the fact that right now in B.C. we have 30 to 35,000 unemployed," he said.

Switching briefly to the emphasis on education and the neglect of the unemployed, Mr. Perrault said that soon B.C. would have "the best educated line-up for unemployment benefits in the world."

Mr. Perrault condemned the government for increasing B.C. Hydro bus fares.

"Not only are B.C.'s power rates the highest in the country . . . the lower mainland and Greater Victoria has Canada's highest by far transit fares," he said.

Only the Profit-Makers Wanted

Mr. Perrault claimed that before bus fares were increased due consideration should have been given to the profits being made by other branches of the Hydro company.

"There are indications that you will get rid of the transit system because it is unprofitable," he cried. "Will you get rid of the gas system, too? No, you just like to take over the profitable things."

He said the government had in unwarranted fashion suggested that Ottawa was dragging its heels on a national medical plan.

"It is unfortunate that, despite the importance of the subject of medical care, a sly inference was made that in some fashion the federal government is delaying deliberately implementation of a national plan," he said.

Mr. Perrault finished his speech, as he began, with a flurry of criticism.

He wanted more action on hospital care for the chronically ill; odor control for pulp mills; acknowledgement that Ottawa paid 40 per cent towards the cost of the provincial ferry fleet and expansion of hospital insurance coverage.

DIDN'T FOOL SENATORS

'Corny Deception' Grit Tells Premier

Liberal leader Ray Perrault said Tuesday the granting of a bank charter to Premier Bennett "would pose serious difficulties for the central bank."

He said he was not surprised that the premier had run into difficulties with the Senate Banking Committee when he made his charter bid in Ottawa.

Quoting from the Hansard record Mr. Perrault said the premier was asked if Einar Gunderson was a member of the Social Credit party.

"The premier's reply, and I quote," he said, "was: 'he may be a member of Social Credit but I have never seen his card.'

'THEY KNEW'

"This is the kind of corny deception he sinks to," Mr. Gunderson was a Sociall Credit man. They knew he'd run for office on the Social Credit ticket and been defeated.

"How much confidence can the Senate have? They know, as we know, that Mr. Gunderson is the grey eminence of this government's financial policies so why don't we lay our cards on the table?

"A bank of British Columbia is desirable, but not under the control of a government, whatever its politics."

The premier did not reply.

Thatcher Bares $65,000,000 Potash Mine

REGINA (CP)—Premier Ross Thatcher Monday announced one of the largest potash developments in Saskatchewan's history.

Mr. Thatcher, at a press conference, said that the mine, located about 20 miles southwest of Saskatoon, will involve an investment of $65,000,000.

The mine will employ about 1,000 men during construction, which will start as soon as weather conditions permit. It will employ about 500 men during operation of the mine and the refinery.

The premier said the mine, to be drilled by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company of Canada Limited, will be one of the world's largest potash mines.

Sterilization 'Only Answer' To Race Problem

LONDON (Reuters)—A campaign for sterilization of colored immigrant wives in Britain has been launched by an Indian immigrant leader, the mass-circulation Sunday newspaper The People says.

Dr. Dhani Prem, 60-year-old leader of 10,000 Indians in Birmingham, Britain's second largest city, said sterilization was the only way to prevent some British towns from being swamped by a soaring colored population.

Trying to get immigrant wives to use birth control methods, including the pill, is not a success," he was quoted as saying.

To Represent Arabs

New Look Facing Precinct

A special meeting of city and provincial representatives today agreed to take a "new look" at the legislative precinct in James Bay prior to tackling a cure for the civil servant parking problem.

The suggestion came from deputy minister of municipal affairs J. E. Brown, who said it might mean "sloughing off" some parts of the precinct area. He suggested adding elsewhere to accommodation requirements and retain as much of the harbor frontage as possible.

TECHNICAL REVIEW

He said a preliminary review should first be done by technical staff, including planners and engineers representing both the city and provincial government.

The committee agreed and went on to endorse the suggestion of chairman J. R. Genge that further study should be by another joint committee.

This, he said, should be a revival of a group which did earlier study about two years ago, consisting of persons representing Capital Region Planning Board, Victoria advisory planning commission, city planning committee and the provincial parking committee.

Its recommendation would go to city council and the provincial government.

Mayor R. B. Wilson said a revised precinct plan should have the endorsation of the provincial cabinet, as the existing plan has.

City engineer James Garnett, in calling for a comprehensive plan, referred to parking in James Bay as an "untidy mess."

He said the practice of obtaining parking lot property "a bit here and a bit there is the antithesis of planning and creates citizen antipathy."

Deputy provincial works minister Arnold Webb agreed. He said the province does have a plan for parking, but for the future. Meanwhile, it is cheaper to acquire properties and hold them rather than build a multi-storey parking facility now.

LAND BOUGHT

More land is being purchased now, he said.

Mayor Wilson said all parties want to see a solution and are sympathetic to the problem, but initiative must come from the provincial government.

Mr. Garnett pointed out that the government service is the "biggest traffic generator in the city." It is a "horrible problem" that can't bear waiting.

Mr. Webb said the immediate problem must be solved by July, when the main civil service parking area will be lost.

Work on a new provincial museum will put 450 additional cars on the streets, besides the estimated 360 there now.

'Pirates' Spark Oyster Battle On Salt Spring

The battle of the oysters is on.

Firing the first shell this week was Salt Spring Island resident Richard Dayment.

His shot was aimed at oyster pirates who plunder the beaches of Burgoyne Bay near his Fulford Harbor home.

He wants provincial legislation introduced to clamp down on the hungry shell-fish hunters.

He claims the beaches are being stripped of their crop by the ton.

Two weeks ago a commercial boat with small barges in tow pulled into the bay and carted off the oysters in their thousands says Mr. Dayment.

"And last April I watched a family of five loading their private boat from Seattle with a ton or more oysters taken in 100-pound sacks.

"To me this is strictly plunder," he said.

But while Mr. Dayment is trying to curb oyster-pickers' activities, conservation officials are not quite so concerned about their fishy activities.

REPRODUCTION

It's all a matter of reproduction according to one official.

The Japanese oysters in question only reproduce when the water is warm enough — about once every 10 years, he said.

The last time this happened was in 1958.

Since they take four to five years to mature and only another five or six to die, now is the best time to collect.

"If they are left too much longer they will just die anyway," he said.

He suggested one way to restrict commercial operators would be to make them have a licence before they are allowed to pick up oysters off Crown foreshore.

Half-Masts Every Way But Half-Hearted They Never Can Say

By JIM HUME

Who mourns Sir Winston Churchill best?

He who flies the flag at exactly half-mast? He who flies it one width of the flag below the top of the pole? Or he who flies it somewhere between?

A quick survey of city flags, lowered to honor the passing of the great man, does not answer the question.

At the Legislative Buildings the flag is a little below the width of the flag, but much higher than half-mast.

At city hall the width of the flag rule is observed strictly.

At Eaton's of Canada, the Empress and the Union Club the flag flutters at exactly half-mast.

Government House appears to contribute to the confusion by flying the Union Jack, the B.C. flag and the Red Ensign at half-mast while, atop the tallest flag pole another Union Jack flies at full-mast.

The keen observer, however, will spot the difference. The flag at full-mast is not a flag at all, but the Lieutenant-Governor's Royal Standard. Protocol demands that it fly as it does.

Victorians should not worry too much whether flags are half way down the pole or somewhere between there and the top for even the experts are undecided on the right thing to do at a time of national mourning.

Irene Craig, in her book "Flags and Formalities" says the proper sign of mourning is to lower the flag being flown one full width.

The Oxford Dictionary disagrees. It states that half-mast is a point at or near the middle of the mast.

Other dictionaries define half-mast as anywhere between the top of the pole and the middle.

And the Canadian Militia goes with the ruling "at or near" the middle of the pole.

Mrs. Craig, emphatic that the proper way to fly a flag at half-mast is to lower it one full width, says that the space above "is reserved for the grim reaper."

To lower the flag too much, she says, is to lose its significance in space or "the reaper's portion (by) its devastating dimension becomes overpowering."

Whichever school of thought is correct, one thing is obvious. Victoria is paying sincere tribute to the man of the century.

IT PROVES SOMETHING

Box Office Ignites For No-Charge Film

Victoria's Fox Theatre has proved you can sometimes get more money for a show by closing the box office and not charging admission.

This happened Monday and Tuesday when more than 1,100 Victorians attended four "no charge" performances of the Canadian feature film, The Luck of Ginger Coffey, produced in Montreal.

Because of poor attendance last week, the Fox appealed to the public to support an all-Canadian film by giving what they thought it was worth as they left the theatre.

The response was encouraging. More than 500 attended the first night and 600 the second.

"Most adults gave a dollar and the average contribution from students was between 50 and 75 cents," said Garry Nixon, assistant manager of the Fox Theatre.

BETTER RETURN

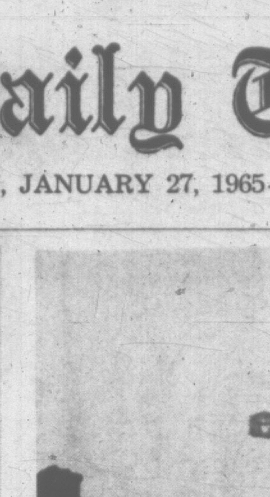

"We actually received a better return on the four performances than at 12 showings last week when admission was charged."

Mr. Nixon said comments on the film were so favorable it would have been held over but for the fact the prints had to be shipped to Calgary today.

"We have at least proved that Victorians will support a Canadian film if it is well promoted."

Two other Canadian films were shown—a cartoon comedy entitled The Great Toy Robbery and The Joy of Winter, a skiing romance. Both were made by the National Film Board of Canada.

Uvic Plans Linguistics Department

The University of Victoria has established a linguistics department, the only one in Canada at an English-speaking university, it was annuonced today.

Beginning in September this year the department will offer programs leading towards a BA degree.

Several of the courses are also open to students who are not following a program in linguistics but who are interested in a particular aspect of linguistics such as phonetics or a study of the English language.

The department will be headed by Dr. M. H. Scargill.

A sampling of the course and its aspects will be given at a conference on modern linguistics which will be held on the Gordon Head campus Saturday.

"Linguistics is basically the study of language," says Dr. Scargill, "but since the study of language in general soon moves to the study of language in particular, linguists are usually interested in a variety of topics including comparative studies of languages, semantics and the psychology of language."

"Linguistics offers the systematic study of man's most important possession: language," says Dr. Scargill.

Metal Trades Name Slate Of Officers

Andrew Manson, business agent for Victoria Shipyard Riggers Local 643, was elected president of the Victoria and District Metal Trades Council for 1965 at a meeting Tuesday night.

He succeeded Jim McConachy, business agent for Local 191, International Brotherhood of Boilermakers.

The council, chartered by the AFL-CIO, represents 12 unions with a combined membership of 4,500.

Other officers elected were: Arthur Vanzetta, vice-president; secretary-treasurer John MacNeil; sergeant-at-arms, Chester Preston; and Wilf Cooney, Al Ross and Ovila Lalonde, trustees.

Mr. MacNeil said the new president will continue the council's program of trying to secure navy contracts for yards here and pressing for a merchant marine.

Bennett Eludes Women's Lobby

CONDOLENCE BOOK GETS 1,800 NAMES

More than 1,800 Victorians had signed their names by noon today in the book of condolences to Lady Churchill.

An official of the British High Commissioner's office keeping watch in rotunda of the Legislative Buildings, said a whole book had been filled Tuesday and this morning and a second started.

He said the second volume would remain open past the official 1 p.m. deadline today because of long line-ups "but the book will have to be on the 4 p.m. ferry back to Vancouver."

It appeared the 1,350 signatures recorded Tuesday would be doubled before the book was taken away.

Housewives Seek Sales Tax Easing

A delegation of 10 women from Greater Vancouver and Victoria today buttonholed NDP and Liberal leaders to urge elimination of provincial sales tax on all students' clothing and certain household items like soap.

But they were not able to catch Premier Bennett.

"We have tried several times to get an appointment with Mr. Bennett but so far we have not heard from him," said spokesman Mrs. Elaine Podovinnikoff of North Vancouver.

Instead, the group was to speak to Social Credit whip Bert Price.

The group interviewed Liberal Leader Ray Perrault and was scheduled to make its pitch to NDP Leader Robert Strachan at full caucus meeting of the party MLAs.

Calling itself the Women Against High Prices Committee the group seeks elimination of the 5 per cent tax on clothing for all students—university as well as high school—holding identification cards.

It also wants the tax removed from items needed for personal hygiene such as soap, tooth paste, detergents and toilet tissue.

Mrs. Podovinnikoff claimed the elimination would not seriously impair the tax revenue because last year $4 million of sales tax "was collected but not used for the avowed purpose" of supporting hospitals.

TOPICS of the DAY

Richard Albany and Harry Kumai, both of Craigflower Road, were elected to the Songhees band council Tuesday.

Thirty-three out of 66 eligible voters voted for five candidates in band elections supervised by Lawrence W. Larsen, assistant superintendent Cowichan Indian Agency, Duncan.

Earlier this month, John Albany was re-elected chief by acclamation.

The council consists of three members. Band membership now stands at 117.

Four men and a limited company were fined in city court today for failing to file income tax returns for 1963.

Fines of $25 were imposed on Robert Cubbon, HMCS Stettler, Julius Fechtner, 1338 Merritt, and Reginald Louis, 1025 Terrace.

A fine of $50 was imposed on Ray Cranston, 2994 Douglas. He was charged with two counts of failing to file a return.

The company that was fined $25 was Jufr Drywall, 1338 Merritt.

Esquimalt Reeve A. C. Wurtele won't attend a public hearing tonight to consider boundaries in the amalgamation of View Royal with the municipality.

"The amalgamation with Esquimalt was requested by the people of View Royal," he said. "I feel they must settle the issue among themselves."

The meeting will be held in View Royal Community Hall, starting at 7:30 p.m.

It will be chaired by J. E Brown, deputy minister of municipal affairs, chairman of a boundary commission appointed to determine the area of amalgamation.

The Victoria and District Parent-Teacher Council will meet at 8 p.m. Thrsday in North Ward School.

Workmates of a man killed in a road accident last Saturday are going to give one day's pay to a fund for his family.

The workers are employees of McKay - Cormack Ltd. where Edward Robertson worked for the past year.

Robertson, a well-known amateur boxer, is survived by a wife and six children. He had no insurance.

The Bank of Montreal at Royal Oak is accepting donations for the Robertson Family Fund. Information on the fund may be obtained from Mrs. Donna Willner at 479-2157.

Two city firemen will receive awards for bravery Thursday night at the annual meeting of the St. John Ambulance Association.

They are Lieut. William Dibb and fireman driver Harold Graves, who pulled 66-year-old Thomas Kerswell from his bed last Sept. 2 while his home at 646 Niagara burned around him.

It is the first time the awards have been made in Victoria for many years.

Presentation will be made by Ald. Austin Curtis, chairman of the city fire wardens, representing Mayor R. B. Wilson.

British Columbia harvested a bumper crop of more than 1.5 billion cubic feet of wood last year, B.C. Forest Service announced today.

Production totalled 1,514,595,176 cubic feet, an increase of 2.8 per cent over the previous record set in 1963.

The Macaulay School PTA will hold its next meeting Monday at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium. A movie and demonstration on mouth-to-mouth resuscitation will be given by the navy's fire department.

A bylaw prohibiting the moving of houses into Central Saanich received final reading at a council meeting Tuesday. The only exceptions are greenhouses.

Council ordered a bylaw drafted after several old delapidated dwellings were moved into the municipality last year.

A minimum fine of $250 will be imposed on anyone who breaks the bylaw.

Jean Perras, HMCS MacKenzie, was fined $300 and lost his licence Tuesday when he pleaded guilty in Saanich court to impaired driving.

He was arrested Monday night after being followed by police who saw his car weaving on Quadra Street. Evidence was that Perras almost lost control on one occasion and that his vehicle rolled back against the police car when he was stopped.

ON CANADIAN SATELLITES

Space Man to Speak at Uvic

FRANK DAVIES

The first Canadian satellites will be described here Thursday Feb. 4 by a Canadian space expert.

Frank T. Davies, chief superintendent, Defence Research Telecommunications Establishment, Ottawa, will lecture at University of Victoria at 1 p.m. His visit is sponsored by the Canadian Association of Physicists.

The event is designed to be of interest to undergraduates and graduate students as well as to the faculty.

TWO YEARS

The first Canadian satellite, Alouette, was built by DRTE and launched in California in Sept. 1962. It has operated successfully for more than two years in a circular, near-polar orbit.

Alouette II is nearing completion and weighs the same as Alouette I—320 pounds, but there are many changes in the electronic systems. Launching is planned for next summer.

Mr. Davies was a physicist with the first Byrd Arctic expedition in the period 1928 to 1930 and led the second Polar Year Arctic Exploration by Canada in 1932-33.

He was director of the Carnegie Geophysical Observatory in the Peruvian Andes between 1936 and 1939 when he joined naval operational intelligence. He has been with the defence research board since 1946.

THEY'LL SING 'N' SWING AT SHAWNIGAN

Church, Mass and All That Jazz

Tiny All Saints' Anglican Church at Shawnigan Lake will echo to the strains of "jazz mass" on Sunday.

Singing the hotted up mass will be 20 teen-agers from the district's two local schools.

Also getting in on the beat will be the vicar, Rev. Eric Scott.

He will sing the cantor solo.

Accompanying him will be his wife Frances on the organ.

The jazz mass was written by East London (England) vicar Geoffrey Beaumont in an effort to attract more youngsters to church.

Main theme of the tune of the mass is the Dam Busters March.

This will be the second time it has rung round the aisles of All Saints'.

Last time it was tried, in November, between 70 and 80 people crammed into the church — double the normal congregation.

Some came from as far as Victoria.

"Said Mr. Scott: "It was very popular so we thought we'd give it another try.

"It certainly is a great pull to the younger generation."

The service - extraordinaire will start at 11:15 a.m.

Mayor Recruits 'U' Fund Team

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — Mayor Jack Dobson said Tuesday night he has started looking for citizens to sponsor a local drive for the $28,000,000 tri-university appeal.

He spoke at a joint meeting of Cowichan district municipalities, called to hear Dr. Malcolm Taylor, president of Victoria University, Mayor R. B. Wilson, of Victoria, and William Armstrong, appeal campaign chairman on Vancouver Island.

Municipalities represented were Duncan, Lake Cowichan, Ladysmith and North Cowichan.

Mayor Dobson said: "I have already approached several people to see if they would be willing to collect on behalf of the fund. The response has been good.

"I feel sure that the Cowichan district, which has always supported these appeals in the past, will do so again in generous measure."

$1 PER HEAD

Mayor Wilson said if municipalities gave $1 per head for a five-year period Vancouver Island could make a substantial contribution to the fund.

Reeve Donald Morton said on this basis North Cowichan would give $2,000 a year and Ladysmith about $600.

Dr. Taylor said 20 per cent (500) of UVIC students were from up-Island.

He broke the Cowichan University "population" down as Duncan 49, Ladysmith 16, Lake Cowichan 19, and Crofton 5.

Mr. Armstrong said the $28,000,000 plus the $40,000,000 from the federal government would be the three universities' capital program fund for the next five years. UVIC's share would be $1,900,000.

$2 MILLION TARGET

Target for the Island is $2 million. Greater Victoria has already raised over $400,000, said Mr. Armstrong.

Mayor Wilson said industry is doing a tremendous job supporting the drive.

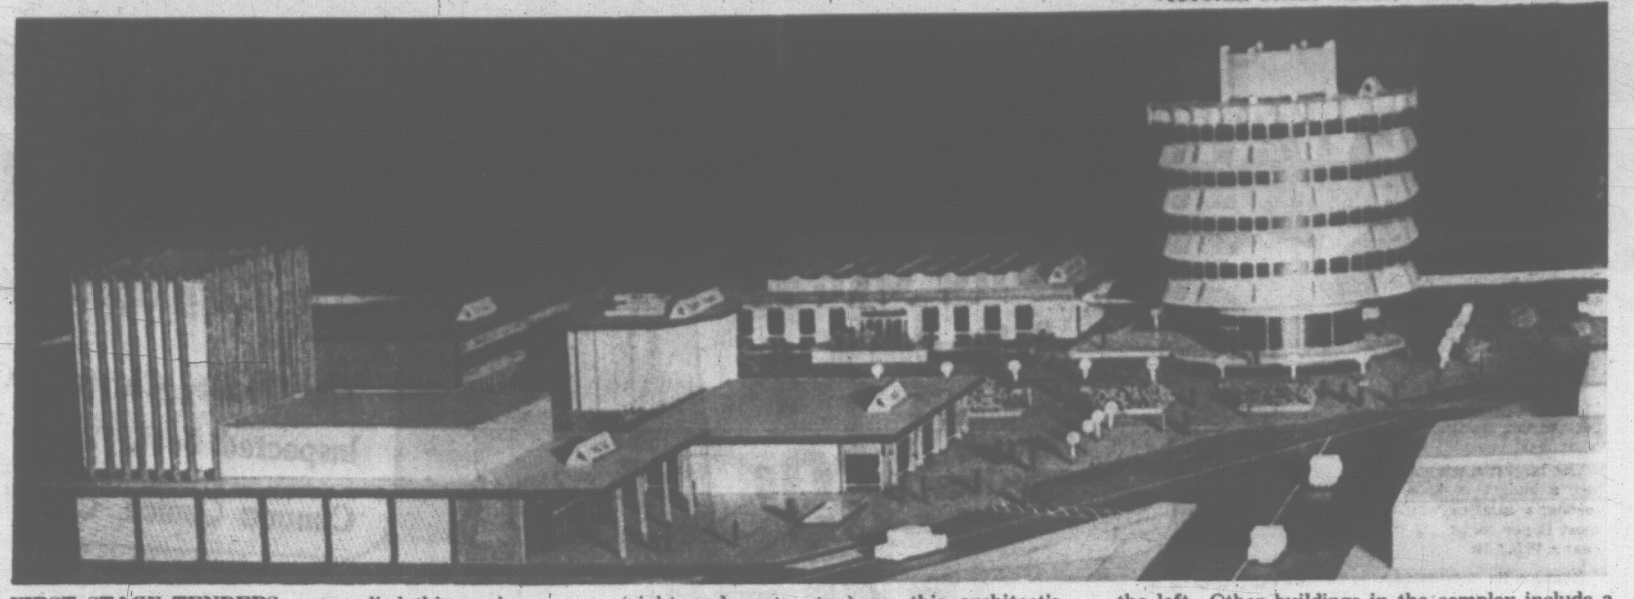

McMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Ltd. had donated $2 million and Crown Zellerbach $750,000.

Dr. Taylor said it was estimated that by 1975 three-quarters of the industrial labor force would be working on products not yet discovered.

Some 75 per cent of prescriptions issued today were of drugs not known 10 years ago.

More new mathematics have been created since 1900 than in all previous history.

These figures were hard to believe but meant that universities, technological schools and all post-high school institutes must be developed if we are to provide a chance for young people.

FIRST STAGE TENDERS were called this week for the new provincial courthouse and government offices in Duncan. The tenders, which will be opened Feb. 19, are for excavation work and frame construction of the two buildings. They can be seen (right and centre top) on this architect's model of the proposed Duncan civic centre. Government offices will be housed in the round building, court and court offices in the flat building to the left. Other buildings in the complex include a two-storey city hall, with a free-standing council chamber in front of the square, a civic centre and a library.

Revenue Loss, Goodwill Gain In Morton Plan

DUNCAN — Reeve Donald Morton of North Cowichan Tuesday proposed a single trades licence for the area from north of Ladysmith to south of Duncan.

He suggested the municipal clerks of North Cowichan, Duncan, Ladysmith and Lake Cowichan examine the proposal.

"It would mean a loss of revenue but would gain the goodwill of many people," Reeve Morton said.

"It would bring people into the area because of the simplicity of doing business."

Reeve Morton was addressing a joint meeting of the four councils.

EXPANSION STARTS ON VETERANS' HALL

Work started Tuesday on a $45,000 renovation and expansion project for the Sidney hall of Branch 302, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association.

The project includes construction of a parking lot on the north side of the hall, installation of a new heating unit, alterations to the office and renovations to the recreational area.

William J. Larnick, secretary-manager, said the project would be completed in late spring.

New officers elected at an annual meeting: Jack Swedberg, president; George DeKalver, first vice-president; George Coward, Lyle MisKiman, Ray Hague, Joe Thomas and Frank Perkins, executive committee.

Plaques were awarded to Herman Slade and Ernest Day for outstanding service to the association.

Big Effort Due This Year To Cut Sanscha Hall Debt

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Sidney and North Saanich Community Hall Association is making a major effort this year to reduce the debt on its community hall.

The program includes:

A drive next month to increase membership from 300 to 1,000.

A Klondyke Night on Feb. 20 raise funds.

Increased rentals for the hall.

A Dominion Day festival to raise at least $2,000.

Alan Spooner, president of Sanscha, told the annual meeting Monday the debt on the hall has been reduced since 1958 from $22,500 to $7,100.

"In three years we hope to wipe out the debt," he said.

20 GROUPS

The hall, valued at $80,000, caters to more than 20 organizations in Sidney and North Saanich.

Mr. Spooner said rentals will be slightly increased this year because only $81 profit from this source was recorded last year. The present charge for the hall is $25 a night.

RE-ELECTED

The meeting re-elected Mr. Spooner president. Bob Day is first vice-president; Col. R. O. Bull, second vice-president; and Ken Soles, third vice-president.

Directors are: D. K. Archibald, Mrs. W. W. Gardner, N. A. Hale, J. Kingerlee, Mrs. A. R. Spooner, A. W. Freeman, Frank Minns, Mrs. J. Mitchell, E. W. North, Frank Edlington, Andries Boas, Peter Russell, Mrs. D. Thomas, George Laing and J. R. Hannan.

MERGER ILLEGAL —LAWYER

CAMPBELL RIVER — Oak Bay MLA Alan Macfarlane claims the action of municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell in forming a district municipality here was illegal.

Mr. Macfarlane, a lawyer, investigated the procedures adopted by Mr. Campbell at the request of the Citizens' Rights Organization of Campbell River.

In a letter to the group, Mr. Macfarlane says deputy municipal affairs minister J. Everett Brown told him "none of the provisions of the existing Municipal Act were applicable, or were applied" in forming the municipality or holding the December 12 vote.

Following the vote, Campbell River and neighboring Willow Point were declared a district municipality.

AVENUE OPEN

Mr. Macfarlane's letter further stated: "There are, of course, provisions in the existing Municipal Act which should have been used in extending the boundaries of the then-existing village municipality."

However, Mr. Campbell's department intended to legalize the matter by presenting a bill to the legislature.

The latter says: "In other words, legislation will be passed to legalize what was illegal at the time it was done.

". . . I want to make it clear . . . I have not expressed my own opinion with respect to the method adopted by the government in the formation of the new municipality.

"Suffice it to say that I do not think that expediency is any excuse for acting outside the law."

ISLAND DIGEST

Campsite Sought For Cowichan L.

LAKE COWICHAN—Lake Cowichan Chamber of Commerce has asked the provincial cabinet to establish a "Class A" campsite at the lake.

Ed. McBride, chamber director, said the recreation department last spring declined help to the lake Kiwanis Club in its development of a 172-acre park on the south shore of the lake.

The department said it was interested in a larger project.

Mr. McBride said the department is examining the possibility of developing a major campsite of some 600 acres in the Cottonwood Creek delta area northwest of Youbou.

He said there is an ever-increasing demand for weekend camping facilities at the lake.

NEW HIGHWAY

A general meeting of the chamber Tuesday night endorsed a resolution renewing a demand for a new Cowichan Lake highway from the Trans-Canada at Duncan.

Five new directors were elected: Alan Anderson, Tom Rogers, Ernie Clode, Ken Frost and Mack Wise.

The anual installation banquet was set for Thursday, Feb. 25 at Mesachie Lake hall when the guest speaker will be Don Saunders, assistant to the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. president, Vancouver. Mr. Saunders is a former manager of the BCFP mill at Youbou.

Protection Asked For Search Groups

ALBERNI (CP)—Mayor Fred Bishop says search and rescue groups who look for lost hunters and do other hazardous types of jobs should be covered by insurance in case of injury.

He told council it was "unthinkable" that such groups are not covered while rendering voluntary service.

LADYSMITH

Expert Hired To Design Park Area

LADYSMITH — Council has hired Vancouver planning consultant John Maitland-Carter to design an 80-acre parkland on the south side of the city.

"We may sell some of the land for residential development, but Ladysmith will certainly get a park," Mayor Kathleen Grouhel said at a council meeting Monday night.

Mr. Maitland-Carter will meet with council and members of the recreation commission and provisional members of the new advisory planning commission Feb. 15.

$278,000 BUDGET

Council accepted a provisional 1965 budget of $278,000, compared to the 1964 village commission budget of $222,000.

The budget was stretched an additional $8,000 to meet unexpected social welfare costs, not included in an earlier provisional budget.

Council also agreed to invite tenders for the city ambulance service formerly run by J. E. Grouhel, husband of the new mayor.

Directors Needed By SPCA

DUNCAN—Cowichan SPCA is short of officers for the coming year.

Four more directors are required and Miss Mary Waldon has made a public appeal for volunteers from anyone interested in animal welfare.

Miss Waldon was re-elected president of the branch. Other officers are: Mrs. Josef Lang, first vice-president; Douglas Barker, second vice-president; Mrs. Alex Reid, recording secretary; Mrs. Kathleen Mynkantas, corresponding secretary; Mrs Cyril Craig, treasurer; and Miss H. F. Rea, William Waldon, W. Spencer, Mrs. Betty McKinnon and Mrs. John Sanders, directors.

Despite a financial report that the branch was "just making ends meet," Miss Waldon said it was hoped to make further improvements to the animal shelter this year.

In 1964 the branch truck covered 8,000 miles; 547 cats and 304 dogs were destroyed; 178 new homes found for dogs; and the inspector answered nearly 4,000 telephone inquiries.

Bid to Control Fumes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. government proposed Tuesday that a system to control release of exhaust fumes be required on new motor vehicles it purchases as a means of reducing air pollution.

New Demands for Services Seen by Oak Bay Engineer

Increases in population and leisure time during the next 20 years will bring problems in planning for traffic, apartments and recreational land in Oak Bay.

These are the areas pondered by the municipality's engineer and planner Geoffrey White in his annual report to council.

Oak Bay will have to become concerned with urban specialization.

The engineer said the municipality will see a demand for a great deal of improvement to services in which it is deficient because of its residential nature.

BIG IMPACT

Improved retirement schemes across Canada are expected to have a great impact on the Greater Victoria area.

The demand for smaller houses and apartments will keep on rising, Mr. White forecasts.

The municipality during the past eight years has seen an increase of 20 per cent in its population to 17,400.

The Capital Region Plan has estimated a population of 20,000 for the municipality by 1976, but the growth is already increasing by 45 per cent of the estimate.

And only 35 per cent of the increase time, which was set in 1956, has elapsed.

30,000 PEOPLE

"If we provide sufficient areas for apartments to meet the demands of those wishing to live in Oak Bay, then within 20 years it is likely our population will be nearer to 30,000 than 20,000," Mr. White said.

But there are only 400 single-family dwelling lots remaining in the municipality.

These facts have produced the three planning problems.

Increases in living standards and inevitable growth of parts of Oak Bay means an increase in cars.

Recent figures reveal the number of families with three cars today equals the number with two cars 15 years ago.

Traffic will increase 6 per cent per year.

The result would be a doubling of traffic in 12 years and a quadrupling in 30 years.

The engineer recommended preparation of a master traffic plan.

It should be revised every seven years.

A long-term capital budget for its financing should follow.

Mr. White recommends the municipality attract more apartments and enlarge the depths of several existing apartment areas.

"New apartments are likely to be the only major development of our assets," he stated.

STRICT RULES

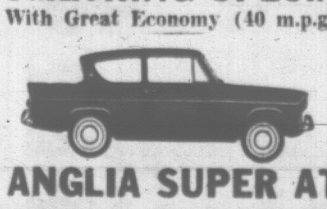

He pointed out regulations governing development of apartment sites in the municipality are more stringent in Oak Bay.

And developers are finding eight storeys the minimum for economic rents at the present time.

Mr. White suggests reviews of depths of apartment zones along Oak Bay Ave. and Haultain St. are suggested.

A public hearing is also suggested to explain to ratepayers the use of the land north of Willows Park, now zoned for apartments.

Bill Fails To Qualify At 'Frisco

SAN FRANCISCO — Bill Wakeham, a fledging professional from Victoria, will attend the $50,000 Lucky Open tournament . . . as a spectator only.

The 24-year-old former B.C. champion failed to qualify for the San Francisco tournament which gets under way Thursday.

Wakeham fired a three-over-par 75 in the qualifying round Monday. Scores of 74, or better, were needed to qualify.

The Victorian, hoping to make the Lucky his first big pro tournament start, was four over par after the first five holes but played one-under-par golf the rest of the day.

He dropped a 25-foot birdie putt on the 17th and just missed another birdie try on the 18th.

Wakeham blamed his poor start on "nervousness."

"I never felt anything like it before," he said. "I guess I tried too hard to make good. Once I calmed down, I think I played rather well."

Wakeham will spend a few days in California before heading for the Caribbean. The Caribbean tour opens Feb. 11 in Panama. Other stops include Bogota (Feb. 18-21), Caracas (Feb. 25-28), Maracaibo (March 4-7), and Puerto Rico (March 11-14).

SIGNALS OF SUCCESS

There was joy in Leafville Tuesday night at Memorial Arena as Victoria's John Sleaver (8) finally snapped unhappy Western Hockey League streak by scoring first goal in 16 games while Maple Leafs were trimming San Francisco Seals 6-3. Also lifting sticks high in joyful signal of success are Sleaver's linemates Gordie Redahl (16) and Lou Jankowski (14). Sad fellow is 'Frisco goalie Bobby Perreault, who was bombed with 38 shots. Bud Suffers Most In Cardiac Clash

Eddie Mazur Paces Leafs In 6-3 Stumble Past Seals

Victoria 6, San Francisco 3

By DOUG PEDEN

Referee Ron Wicks called a penalty in the first period Tuesday night at Memorial Arena and Gordie Redahl, who had been sitting quietly on the Victoria bench, ended up serving time.

After stopping play behind the Maple Leaf net, Wicks skated over to the scorer and announced a slashing penalty to No. 2 of Victoria.

That number happened to be stitched on the sweater of defenceman Fred Hucul, who was also watching calmly from the bench. Redahl was sent out to inform the referee of Hucul's innocence and was promptly selected to serve the penalty.

By itself, the incident meant little more than a befuddled official. But it was a sign of things to come and it proved that everybody was to have a turn in the spotlight during a "how not to do it" hockey drama.

It was a night in which almost nothing went according to plans and expectations.

For instance, San Francisco Seals scored the supposedly important first goal of the game and ended up getting the first tally in each period. Yet they dropped a 6-3 Western Hockey League decision to the Leafs, who blasted four scoring shots in the opening session and collected two tallies in the second.

The Leafs played one of their poorer games and wound up with one of their most decisive decisions.

Pucks Were Acting Like Tennis Balls

'Frisco goalie Bobby Perreault, 34 this week and magnificent figure last Saturday as the Seals nipped a much sharper Victoria club 3-2, several times found himself caught out of position like a rookie.

This time balding Bobby fielded eight fewer shots and yielded four more goals.

Helping not a bit as both clubs took turns in staging demonstrations of frustration and futility was sticky and bumpy ice that had pucks flopping and hopping so much that players were complaining of being forced to play tennis.

Pucks were rolling and jumping over sticks all night and more passes went to the wrong guys than Perreault has hairs left on his head.

And there were occasions when defensive hockey seemed to be a forgotten art. Good plays usually went unrewarded, zany efforts paid dividends. All but one of the Victoria goals appeared to arrive almost by accident.

Rudy Shaking, But He Could Smile

It was the kind of a game designed to make cardiac cases out of coaches.

San Francisco coach Bud Poile went for a walk along arena corridors between the first and second periods to ease his blood pressure rather than risk an explosion in his usual huddle with players in the dressing room.

Victoria coach Rudy Pilous, who at least could smile when it was all over, needed time to stop shaking.

"It'll drive you crazy, that loose hockey," Pilous said. "It looked like our strategy was rubber hockey sticks and no back checking."

Despite the plague of errors, it was far from a wasted evening for the patrons.

With both clubs having trouble skating and passing, play was about even and the game was not without suspense. The way defences were wobbling, few of the 2,401 fans would have wagered next month's rent that the Leafs were sure to get home in front even after running up their 6-2 lead in the second period.

Leafs Go Best Without Much Rest

And there were these standouts among the Leafs:

● Veteran winger Eddie Mazur, driving hard all the way, collected two goals and an assist. The "Spider" was voted the Victoria star of the game.

● Centre John Sleaver, another hard worker who did a lot of fine checking. Sleaver, who scored 23 times last season, snapped a goal famine that had stretched through 16 games back to Dec. 20 with his ninth tally of the campaign and added his 36th assist.

● Goalie Al Millar, alert and quick while seeing more Seals than friends. Millar finished with 38 saves, including 16 in the final period.

Dick Lamoureux, Milan Marcetta and Danny Belisle, who gratefully accepted a pass from 'Frisco defenceman Gerry Odrowski for a golf shot past Perreault, also scored for the Leafs.

Dallas Smith, Ray Cyr and Charlie Burns, who worked most of the third period and picked up his 26th goal, counted for the cellar-floundering Seals.

Victory lifted the Leafs back on the heels of Vancouver Canucks, one point behind the third-place Vancouver club.

Leafs had played only once since the previous Tuesday and their effort made it appear they play better during the busy parts of their schedule. Thus it is probable that Pilous will arrange plenty of practice toil before his charges make their next start Saturday night at the Arena.

They tangle with the league-leading Buckaroos, who are itching for revenge after losing three times and earning one draw in their last four clashes with the Maple Leafs.

Burns Shares Lead

Charlie Burns of San Francisco Seals scored his 26th goal of the season Tuesday night at Memorial Arena to make it a three-way tie for first place in the Western Hockey League scoring race.

Burns, who scored the final San Francisco goal as the Seals were taking a 6-3 trimming from Victoria Maple Leafs, stepped into a top-spot deadlock with Seattle's Guyle Fielder and Norm Johnson of Los Angeles.

All have an even 60 points.

Burns has compiled his total on 26 goals and 24 assists, Johnson on 22 and 38, Fielder on nine and 51.

Victoria's Milan Marcetta, getting a goal and assist, climbed into a fifth-place tie with Portland's Pat Stapleton with 54 points, four behind Billy McNeill of Vancouver.

Wayne Connelly of the Seals was held pointless Tuesday but held his goal-scoring lead. He has fired 27 tallies, one more than the number scored by Victoria's Larry Keenan and Burns.

SPORTS DIARY

By SHIRLEY POVICH
(The Washington Post)

WASHINGTON — Not in eleven months has Cassius Clay pulled on a boxing glove for combat but he, almost alone, has been keeping the prize-fight business alive.

He is the enemy of silence and has arrived on the scene just in time to breach the quiet and disinterest that had been overtaking the Floyd Patterson-George Chuvalo heavyweight fight scheduled for Feb. 1.

It was an inspired stroke by the closed-circuit television promoters of the Patterson-Chuvalo bout to hire Clay for $10,000 to do the between-rounds commentary for that one. The bout is beginning to come alive, thanks to Clay, who is taking himself seriously as a sort of co-promoter and lending his open mouth to the ballyhoo.

Cassius began by calling both fighters names, mostly uncomplimentary, but serving to call attention to the fact that a fight was coming up. The other day, Clay shepherded a busload of 30 boxing writers and cameramen to Chuvalo's training camp in the Catskills. Chuvalo had been attracting only his trainer to his workouts. But where Cassius goes, there is a following.

Predictably, the unpredictable happened to Cassius in the Catskills. He took a turn at driving his personal bus and landed it and his whole cargo in a ditch. Took his eyes off the road for a near-disastrous moment. Nobody got hurt, but Chuvalo vs. Patterson got headlines it had never merited before.

He'd Like 'To Whup Up the Interest'

Clay earned his $10,000 from the closed-TV promoters before even getting on the air. He was also wonderfully frank about the whole thing about the bus. He doesn't even have a driver's licence, he said. "Lost it on points down in Florida. And, anyway, they won't give me a new one under my preferred name of Muhammed Ali."

The Madison Square Garden people who are promoting the live bout and are not paying Clay a dime for his aid in the ballyhoo are cashing in big on his antics. Ticket sales have spurted and Cassius, now fancying himself as a natural-born promoter, has offered his services to the Garden for nothing. "I'd like to whup up the interest for you," he told Harry Markson, the old pro.

Eyes Front Or You'll Miss the Story

Just as Clay learned that he dare not take his eyes off the road, the boxing journalists have learned they dare not take their eyes off Clay else the story of the day be missed.

Earlier, it was complete scorn that Clay held for both Patterson and Chuvalo, calling them respectively but disrespectfully, "The Rabbit" and "The Washerwoman." This was not an unbright commentary on their fighting styles. It was a reference by Clay to Patterson's running tactics and Chuvalo's short punching to the body.

Of late, though, Cassius has had something nice to say about Chuvalo, and perhaps he should because the Canadian knocked out Doug Jones, the fellow who stayed the limit with Clay and gave him a hard time. "I was impressed with Chuvalo," he said. "He's better than I thought. I might catch trouble from that fellow. I look for him to knock out The Rabbit."

Boxing Dead Without Cassius

It was a break with Clay's pattern of insult ballyhoo, and he may yet be disposed to say something nice also against Patterson. But thus far Cassius has consistently devalued the two-time holder of the heavyweight title. "I call him Rabbit because he's scared," said Clay. "He also reminds me of a nursery rhyme I once learned in school.

"It starts like this: 'Once there were three rabbits—Momma Rabbit, Poppa Rabbit, and Floyd Patterson.' I'm going to take him some lettuce and carrots and I might get a couple of hound dogs, too. The Rabbit might try to hide on me and I'll have to track him down in the snow."

Clay himself may not be an adornment to the gallery of heavyweight champions but he is irrepressible. The fight business has been stagnating ever since a hernia operation took him out of action. It isn't very flourishing yet, and in fact may not be worth saving, but without Cassius it would be stone cold dead.

SMILE of satisfaction is worn by Ernie Koy Jr., star of Texas' win over undefeated Alabama in Orange Bowl, after signing one-year pact with New York Giants of National Football League.

Marichal Sends Distress Signal

NEW YORK (AP)—Herman Franks, new manager of San Francisco Giants, hasn't much to worry about—yet.

But a faint distress signal eminates from Santo Domingo where Juan Marichal, the Giants' ace pitcher, has developed groin trouble and a troublesome boil under his right arm.

What's more, he was ineffective Tuesday while working in the Dominican championships. The big right-hander was tagged for seven runs and eight hits in less than five innings as his team lost 8-6.

Marichal won 21 games for San Francisco last season despite a back ailment that sidelined him for a month in late summer.

HASN'T SIGNED

He has yet to sign his 1965 contract. However, two batterymates, catchers Tom Haller and Del Crandall, came to terms Tuesday. Haller hit .258 with 16 homers last year, while the 35-year-old Crandall batted .231 in 69 games.

The rival Los Angeles Dodgers also received three signed contracts. They were from shortstop Maury Wills, pitcher Joe Moeller and catcher Hector Valle.

Among others who signed were second-baseman Don Buford and pitcher Tom John of Chicago White Sox, pitcher Al Worthington of Minnesota Twins, pitchers Pete Lovrich and Ron Tompkins and second-baseman Tony Larussa of Kansas City Athletics and pitchers Bob Lee and Don Lee of the Angels.

SAME SALARY

Wills stole 53 bases last season. Since joining the Dodgers in the mid-season of 1959, he has stolen 289. It was understood he will receive $50,000 for the season's work, the same salary he earned last year.

Bob and Don Lee, not related, are the 17th and 18th Angels to sign their 1965 contracts.

Bob was outstanding in relief last season. He appeared in 64 games, a record for rookies. His record was 6-5 for the season and his earned-run average was 1.33.

Don was used as a spot starter and long relief man last year. He compiled a 5-4 record in 33 games and had an E.R.A. of 2.73.

Visiting Scots Masters at Draw

TORONTO (CP) — Visiting Scottish curlers demonstrated their mastery of the draw game here Tuesday, winning four out of six matches against Ontario in the 16th round of the Strathcona Cup.

The Scots defeated the Ontario curlers by an aggregate score of 68-59. But Canada still leads the competition by an over-all total of 1,144 to 900 with four rounds remaining in the cross-Canada competition.

PITY POOR PUNCH

Stewart Included In Cripple Parade

By The Canadian Press

Injuries. That's one factor Chicago Black Hawks' management didn't consider last October when they predicted Toronto Maple Leafs would finish 10 to 15 points ahead of the other National Hockey League teams.

Toronto, defending Stanley Cup champions, began the season by winning three and tying three of its first six games to set the pace. But then the roof fell in and injuries have mounted ever since.

Toronto players have missed a total of more than 60 games through injuries. The Leafs are still a respectable six points behind first-place Montreal but, on the other hand, only a point up on fourth-place Detroit.

Other teams have suffered because of injuries—Boston has lost Bobby Leiter and Dean Prentice for the season while Montreal's Gilles Tremblay is out for several months—but Toronto's miseries haven't been centred on just a few players.

Only six regulars have dressed for every game: Red Kelly, Ron Stewart, Carl Brewer, Kent Douglas, Tim Horton and Bob Baun.

MISSED 15 GAMES

Andy Bathgate, recently back after suffering a broken thumb, has missed 15 games through injuries. Tied for second with 11 games are Frank Mahovlich and George Armstrong.

Rookie Ron Ellis has missed eight games, Dave Keon five, Bob Pulford and Allan Stanley three each and Jim Pappin two. Dickie Moore hasn't dressed for 23 games, Billy Harris for three and Eddie Shack two, but some of these are due to manpower manoeuvres.

Stewart, however, now is on the injury list along with Pappin and Armstrong. Coach Punch Imlach plans to have Armstrong back in action by the weekend but the other two are doubtful.

Don McKenney may be recalled from Rochester of the American League if the Leafs are shortstaffed.

The Leafs don't play again until next weekend when they tangle with Boston in a home-and-home series. But they're sure to lose ground to Chicago and Montreal in the race for first place.

The Hawks and Canadiens tangle at Montreal tonight while Boston Bruins visit New York Rangers.

Chuvalo Scrap Gets Theatre TV Exposure

NEW YORK (AP) — The heavyweight fight between former world champion Floyd Patterson and George Chuvalo of Toronto will be carried by theatre television at 64 locations in 44 cities in the U.S. and 10 in Canada, it was announced Tuesday.

In addition, the Feb. 1 bout will be carried on subscription television in Toronto and Hartford, Conn.

In all, about 300,000 seats will be available for theatre-TV.

Promoter Al Principe is offering the fight on closed-circuit wide-screen TV at Memorial Arena.

Canadians Aim At Speed Title

OSLO (AP)—Thirty-nine skaters from 15 nations, including Canada, have applied to take part in the world speed-skating championships here Feb. 13-14, the Norwegian organizing committee announced today.

A spokesman for the committee said the list of entrants will have to be reduced if no skaters withdraw voluntarily before the championships.

Victoria Leads Bantam Playoff

Esquimalt was edged 4-3 by Victoria Tuesday night at the Sports Centre in the opening game of a two-game, total-goals bantam hockey playoff.

Second game of the city championship series is slated Feb. 5 at Esquimalt.

WIRKOWSKI PROBLEMS LITTLE ONES

TORONTO (UPI) — Nobby Wirkowski, former head coach of the Toronto Argonauts, is now calling the shots at a nursery school and in training as an agent for a life insurance company.

Wirkowski was elected president of the Park Royal co-operative nursery two weeks ago and chaired his first meeting Monday night.

The Wirkowskis send their two youngsters, Nobby, 3, and Linda, 5, to the school.

"It feels good to participate in your community," Wirkowski said commenting on his new job.

Wirkowski was fired last November as head coach after the Toronto Argonauts wound up last in the four-team Eastern Football Conference.

Manuel Goes Well; Trips Welter King

HOUSTON (AP)—Third-ranked Manuel Gonzalez fought to a surprise split-decision victory over Emile Griffith, the world's welterweight boxing champion, in a 10-round over-the-weight, non-title match Tuesday night.

Griffith had been favored. The bout drew 6,500 persons paying above $35,000.

Gonzalez, in the fight of his career, not only looked the part of a title contender but proved it with stinging left jabs.

Judges Earl Kell scored the fight 96-95 for Gonzalez. Referee Jimmy Webb saw it 97-94 for Gonzalez and Judge Maxie Ross gave it to Griffith, 97-94.

The Associated Press card had it 97-96 in favor of Griffith.

Braves First to Test Chinooks in Playoffs

Victoria Chinooks test their playoff nerves Friday.

Chinooks host UBC Braves at Central Junior High in the first game of their best-of-three Inter-City Junior Men's Basketball League semi-final.

Second game is in Vancouver on Saturday. If a third game is necessary it will be played here February 3.

While UBC finished fourth in regular league action, the Braves have been steadily improving. Their key players are Ted Klassen, centre and Vic Rahn, a smallish but fast and sure-handed forward.

Chinooks' manager Harold Turner reports all hands fit and ready.

St. Louis College and Esquimalt midget boys play the 7:15 preliminary to the 8:30 feature.

LAWYER LASHES . . . . . . MUMBLING ATHLETES

'Intellectual as Cats'

OTTAWA (CP)—American athletes who "mumble into microphones" at charity dinners at $500 a crack were raked over the coals here by an Ottawa lawyer and sportsman.

Ed Houston, a former president of the now-defunct Eastern Professional Hockey League, said in a recent speech most of the athletes even ask for taxi fares in addition to expenses attending charity dinners.

He was referring particularly to professional athletes who will be here Feb. 2 to attend the annual Associated Canadian Travellers dinner.

The dinner raises funds for the Ottawa Boys Club and other charities. The guest list this year includes Elston Howard of the New York Yankees, Weeb Ewbank, coach of the New York Jets of the American Football League, and fullback Lovell Coleman of Calgary Stampeders of the Western Football Conference.

"Some of the American athletes who come up here as speakers are about as intellectual as tomcats," said Mr. Houston.

SEW SIMPLE WITH Eunice Farmer

Dear Eunice:

A few weeks ago you talked about making beautiful buttonholes in different colors and having the same colored buttons. Where do you find a pattern like this?

Mrs. D. E.

Dear Mrs. D. E.

I was merely trying to tell you how creative you could be when you learn to make beautiful bound buttonholes. This is most attractive in the summer when you make a white or beige linen dress.

Use a pattern with buttonholes down the front or on the side, or perhaps just on the bodice. Make colored buttonholes instead of using the same material that is in your dress. This is a most attractive variation and will give your dress a real "costume room look."

If you haven't sent for your free copy of my leaflet "Bound Buttonholes," do so today. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request and send to Eunice Farmer, in care of this paper.

Dear Eunice:

I had the misfortune to get a cigarette burn on my good velveteen dress. The pile is burned off and is very noticeable. Have you a solution?

Mrs. D. E. S.

Dear Mrs. D. E. S.:

You could make some small satin bows of the same color as your dress and scatter them on the skirt. You could scatter lace or sequined motifs.

Another idea is to make a dull satin rose as an accent. It all depends on the spot where the burn appears, however. I feel you could add some kind of trim as a camouflage.

New Members—Mrs. R. Duke, Mrs. J. Schaddelee, Mrs. G. McDonald, Mrs. K. Hooper and Mrs. V. Tubman were welcomed as new members at the recent meeting of the Victoria Jayceeettes held in the Dominion Hotel. Mrs. D. Mathison conducted the induction ceremony. Chairman Mrs. T. Nex introduced Jaycee president, Donald Paulin, who thanked the group for their assistance during the year. Reports were given by Mrs. T. Barlow, hospitality; Mrs. Nex, holiday party for underprivileged children, and Mrs. Mathison, candy for the holiday ship. It was decided to organize the home-baking contest at the 1965 Victoria Exhibition. A sum of $27.80 was realized at a "bring and buy" auction following the meeting.

Install Officers—Mrs. N. Painton, past president, conducted the installation ceremony at the recent meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Trafalgar Branch, No. 42, Royal Canadian Legion, held in the legion hall. New officers are Mrs. A. Brown, president; Mrs. D. Griffiths, first vice-president; Mrs. E. Corbett, second; Mrs. C. Guest, secretary; Mrs. A. Stewart, treasurer; Mrs. L. Stevens, standard bearer; Mrs. M. Dunaway, sergeant-at-arms; Mrs. B. Sturrock, sick visiting; Mrs. I. Sinclair, social convenor; Mrs. N. Painton, district zone. Mrs. B. Ellis, Mrs. D. St. Hilaire and Mrs. L. Wells were installed as new members by Mrs. Brown. Following the meeting, tea and a birthday cake, made by Mrs. A. Brown, marking the 14th anniversary of the group, were served.

A lemon pie without lemons adds a touch of pioneer days to family fare and guarantees a "melt-in-the-mouth" flavor for the most discerning of connoisseurs.

Grandma's Recipes Add Zest

Now that the students are back at school hitting the books again, how about hitting your duties at the hearth with a new slant?

For instance, if you take a look into the history of cooking you will find that we can learn something from the early Canadians in the way of new ideas. We're not suggesting you return to the old wood stove, but you may like to try one of the old Canadian recipes such as Pioneer Pie.

In appearance, this sweet yellow translucent pie with its merigue topping could easily be mistaken for lemon pie. It's probable that attempts to make lemon pie without lemons available led the pioneer women to invent this dessert. By substituting vinegar for lemons they made a pie that has the same sweet-piquant flavor.

This is not too surprising when you realize that today lemon juice and vinegar are used interchangeably in many recipes, for they are both highly acidic and therefore have the same effect when combined with sugar, egg yolks and cornstarch. Who knows, you might impress the students at your home with your historical knowledge of early Canadian dining. And, of course, please their appetites as well!

PIONEER PIE

Pastry for single crust pie, 1¼ cups granulated sugar, 3 tablespoons cornstarch or ⅓ cup all-purpose flour, 1½ cups hot water, ¼ cup pure white vinegar, 1 tablespoon butter or margarine, 2 eggs, separated, ¼ teaspoon cream of tartar, ½ cup granulated sugar.

Prepare and bake 8 or 9-inch pie shell. Mix sugar with cornstarch in saucepan. Stir in water, vinegar and butter; bring mixture to boil, stirring constanty. Boil, stirring frequently, approximately 10-12 minutes or until mixture is very thick and clear. Remove from heat. Beat egg yolks slightly; stir a small amount of hot mixture into yolks; add egg mixture to saucepan. Reduce heat to low; simmer 3 minutes, stirring constantly. Pour into pie shell. Chill approximately 45 minutes or until set. Heat oven to 350 degrees F. Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until frothy. Gradually beat in ¼ cup sugar. Continue to beat until stiff and glossy. Spread meringue over filling, sealing it to edge of crust. Bake 10-12 minutes or until meringue is lightly browned. Makes one 8 or 9-inch pie (6-7 servings).

MOVE TO HAMPSTEAD

Eviction Brings Happy Ending

Former Victorians, Judy Richardson and Linda Scales, are now living in London, England. Here is another of their glimpses of the English scene.

By JUDY RICHARDSON

We've been demoted from a flat to a bed-sitter. But we feel as if we've come up in the world.

After five months spent in the Bohemian atmosphere of Bayswater and Top Flat with its garbage-guarded entrance, we have now moved to sedate Hampstead and live, not above a junk-cum-antique store, but in a typically red brick English house on a street lined by trees and other typically red brick houses.

Richardson

Our domain is now "first floor front" and consists of a single large room and a separate kitchen. The bathroom we share with only two other people instead of four. It even has a heater.

The plastered walls are painted a discreet beige so that the luxurious (if faded in spots), red velvet drapes make a splendid backdrop for the table in the evening when they are drawn.

Probably we took the bed-sitter for its kitchen. After our stove and sink on the landing, this cheery little yellow room is heaven with its blue and white cupboards, table for two and water heater over the kitchen sink (in Top Flat we heated water to do the dishes).

We are thanking our lucky stars that the landlord of Top Flat evicted us.

Most people are evicted because of a rowdy party. We were evicted because we frightened the landlord.

Near the end of November, our application for a telephone was finally okayed. The landlord had been thinking of selling, so the Sunday before the Wednesday on which the phone was to be installed, I told him and asked if he had done anything about finding a buyer. In his usual vague way he mumbled something like "Not this month." But when I went down on Wednesday to let the telephone man in, the landlord was there to suggest that he thought he had a buyer and perhaps we didn't want to spend all that money on installation about $60—if we just had to move out. (The deposit was shared between six of us and half of it refundable after a certain period.)

Fuming, we confronted him on rent day with the suggestion that England's new Tenant Eviction Act might make it impossible for him to get us out. He went away, thought about it for half an hour and then came back to serve us with the eviction notice.

In contrast to the rather shady character of our former landlord, Mr. and Mrs. Germanacos, the owners of our new place, are souls of respectability.

The day we agreed to take the place, during tea and biscuits served by Mrs. G. in their modern flat on the top floor, she insisted that if we just kept the room clean she would be happy.

Moving day found her asking if we had everything we needed for supper, then giving us a pint of milk when we decided that was all we lacked. "It's an old Greek custom," she added, "that when we give something we don't expect it to be returned."

Imagine our dismay when we got around to reading the contract she had handed us. It included an inventory of the things provided and a sheet of "Don'ts". At the top was written "No guests after 11 p.m." The three friends who had helped us move were all tired from hauling trunks up and down stairs, but we made them stay until 11.30 as a test case, wishing we had never left the unrestricted haven on Top Flat.

Next day when we expressed concern over this clause, Mrs. G. assured us that as long as we were quiet, she never enforced this rule. There were smiles all round as we gave her three boxes of our excess soap powder and she gave us half a delicious chocolate cake — all following the old Greek custom, of course.

Pink and White Decor in Church For Eloff-Davies Wedding Vows

The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints was decorated with pink and white carnations and snapdragons and white chrysanthemums when John Harrington heard the marriage vows uniting Linda Anne Davies and Donald Dorsey Eloff.

Soloist, Mrs. L. Fraser, sang "O Perfect Love" during the ceremony. She was accompanied by organist Col. H. G. Morgan.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Davies, 2053 Carnarvon Street.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor-length white lace gown, styled with a bouffant skirt. The fitted bodice featured lily point sleeves and a scoop neckline, highlighted with beading. Her chapel-length veil misted from a beaded lily of the valley headpiece. Only jewelry was a culture pearl necklace, gift of the groom, and she carried a crescent bouquet of pink rosebuds, white feathered carnations, fern and ivy.

Bridesmaid Miss Karen Brown, Royston, B.C., wore a pink nylon taffeta gown, styled with a short train, and a white rose headpiece, edged with white tulle. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses and white streamers.

The bride's sister, Miss Carol Davies, was bridesmaid in a similar gown of pink. She chose a toning rose headpiece, edged with tulle, and carried a colonial bouquet of pink roses with pink streamers.

Both wore pearl pendants, gifts of the bride.

Harold Eloff, Prince George, was best man for his brother. Brian Wilson, cousin of the bride, and Ron Davies, her brother, ushered guests to their pews.

A three-tier wedding cake, made by the bride's grandmother, Mrs. H. Davies, and decorated by R. Crockett, centred the bride's table at a reception which followed in Gorge Vale Golf Club. Pink rosebuds and candles completed table decorations.

Warren Cameron proposed the toast to the bride.

For a honeymoon trip up-Island, the bride donned a coral Italian knit suit, topped with a brown coat. A toning original floral hat, brown accessories and coral rosebuds en corsage completed her ensemble.

The couple will make their home at 989 Wollaston Street.

THREE STAGES OUTLINED By PETER C. NEWMAN

Era of Divine Right Rule Terminated for Liberals

OTTAWA — The renovation of the Pearson Cabinet being negotiated in Ottawa this week may move the Liberal government into the third and most interesting phase of its stormy two-year stewardship.

In the initial stage the Liberals hoped they could relapse into the smooth noiseless IBM-machine kind of government they had achieved in the early fifties, but this post-election euphoria terminated suddenly with Walter Gordon's first budget.

When it became obvious that their claim to government by divine right had for some incomprehensible reason been exhausted the Liberals settled into the comfortable niche of trying to beguile the voters with the same advantages of having an undeniably clever, non-political statesman like Mike Pearson running their affairs.

The impressive performance of ministers like Mitchell Sharp, Paul Hellyer and Maurice Sauve established a residual atmosphere of competence, but the emphasis was off efficiency and by implication at least, the Liberals seemed to be saying: "Isn't it invigorating to be governed by a group of average guys who make the occasional mistake, like everybody else?"

WARM GLOW

But with the revelation of the strange behavior of Maurice Lamontagne, Rene Tremblay and others, this comfortable phase, when honest bumbling was no sin and daddy Pearson cast a warm glow over all, came to an abrupt end.

The highly hazardous new situation which has now come about is testing the prime minister's aptitude for self-preservation an instinct that Pearson has seldom had to use during his uninterrupted climb upward in the public service of his country.

The events of the past few weeks may force Pearson into a chilling awareness that he (and not just his government) is on trial. Struck by the difference between what things are and what they ought to be, he may finally gather enough determination to take a desperate flight into politics. This would involve a cabinet shakeup rather than just a shuffle — and it would have to be carried out with uncharacteristic brutality.

In the process, Pearson would have to alter drastically the easy-going relationship he's maintained with most of his ministers. He has been satisfied, in the past, to judge others by the criterion of his own motives and has delegated authority without any follow-up discipline.

CLEAN HOUSE

Whether Pearson will have the guts to clean house nobody yet knows. What's at stake is a great deal more than even his personal honor. Canadians have elevated the office of Prime Minister to something much higher than that of a political functionary. The governor - general, as the Queen's representative, is Canada's official chief of state. But the emotional homage which in other lands is lavished on a monarch, a president or a pope, is directed at the Prime Minister, since he wields both the pomp and the power that really count.

The man who holds the office thus becomes, in a very real sense, the keeper of the national conscience. Theodore Roosevelt sensed this when he referred to his own office as a "bully-pulpit."

As the moral guardian of his country, the prime minister has a supreme obligation: he must defend his office from the slightest, even implied blot on the moral quality of his leadership. If men of stainless honor can not be found to staff the cabinet, mob rule could be the ultimate alternative.

HEAVY BURDEN

That Pearson knows just how heavy a burden a prime minister must carry was evident in a definition which he recently gave to a Liberal rally. "To be prime minister of Canada," he said, "you need to have the hide of a rhinoceros, the morals of a St. Francis, the patience of Job, the wisdom of Solomon, the strength of Hercules, the leadership of Napoleon, and the subtlety of Machiavelli.

The late Profesor MacGregor Dawson in a less witty but more pertinent reference to the political imperatives of the man who is prime minister of Canada, once wrote: "It is one of the sure signs of an able prime minister that he will have the courage and the toughness to get rid of men who have ceased to be assets."

This is the measure of the challenge currently facing Mike Pearson.

FROM GOVERNMENTS

Centennial Grants To Hit $500,000

More than $500,000 is expected from senior governments for Greater Victoria centennial observances.

This was indicated Tuesday at the first full meeting of the Greater Victoria Centennial Committee since Central Saanich joined.

Executive secretary C. C. Wyatt told the committee estimated total funds now available come to $486,900—based on current population figures. This includes $57,300 for celebrations. The rest is for a permanent project.

However, by the time the final payments to municipalities are made in 1966, grants are expected to be increased by virtue of population increase. This should push the fund over $500,000.

Mr. Wyatt said the first federal payment of nearly $14,000 is about due. He suggested investing $10,000 of it for greatest interest return during the interim time it will be idle.

The committee agreed that advice on this subject should come from a finance committee, to be appointed by chairman Coun. Walter Dodsworth of Oak Bay.

NO OPPOSITION

He was unopposed when nominations for the post were called. Vice-chairman Michael Griffin, former city alderman, also was chosen unanimously.

The committee seated Central Saanich members J. W. Cockrill and A. G. Vickers.

Members agreed to mount a campaign for centennial project suggestions, based on a hint from provincial centennial planning chairman Laurie Wallace that May 31 may be named as deadline for ideas.

Out of a number of suggestions already made to the committee, a sports stadium is favored by the Cosmopolitan Club. It also was endorsed by Oak Bay council.

Another letter, from Victoria branch of the Community Planning Association, endorsed the idea presented by P. D. P. Holmes for a Victoria-Sidney centennial parkway.

Bequest for School

VANCOUVER (CP)—The University of British Columbia medical school has received a bequest of more than $600,000 for medical research, the largest gift ever received by a university for such purposes. University officials said the bequest, which will provide an income of about $30,000 a year, came from lumberman George G. Heighway, a native of Australia, who died here in November at the age of 79.

NEW TOP AIDE to John Diefenbaker in Quebec is Theogene Ricard, St. Hyacinthe-Bagot MP, with the revolt of Leon Balcer, a Conservative party source said today.

Twins Die In Fire

KAMLOOPS (CP) — The 10-year-old twins of a North Kamloops couple died Tuesday in a fire that heavily damaged their home. Police said Vick Carol and Donald John, children of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Bennett, apparently were asphyxiated. Their mother was at a store about a block away when the fire spread rapidly through the house and the father was at work.

SALUTE CAME LATE

The hand salute used by most modern armies did not come into general use until the 19th century.

'UBC Pay Key In Race For Staff'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Dr. John B. Macdonald, president of the University of British Columbia, said Monday his university's pay scale is not high enough to win a race for top staff.

Dr. Macdonald told a meeting of the B.C. Pharmaceutical Association that the academic world is in "a real period of inflation."

"We thought our UBC salary increases were substantial this year, but we find that in most categories we have slipped behind, compared with other Canadian universities," he said.

Dr. Macdonald said the long-range solution to the problem lies in the increase and strengthening of Canada's university graduate schools.

In answer to a question, he said he did not find the same financing difficulties in Russian higher education during his recent visit.

"The president of the University of Moscow said he had no problems with regard to finances," he said.

Three Mounties, Cafe Man Charged

Three RCMP constables and a cafe operator have been accused of fraud in the handling of meal accounts of prisoners at the Prince Rupert jail.

Assistant Commissioner D. O. Forrest, commanding officer of the RCMP in B.C., announced the charges today.

He said the men were charged by summons in the last two days following a four-month police investigation into the supplying meals to prisoners in the Prince Rupert jail.

7 Arrested In Theft of Rare Coins

MONTREAL (CP)—Police investigation into two major thefts of a total of $96,000 in rare coins have resulted in the arrest of seven men.

Police said today at least four of the men will be charged with the theft of $50,000 in rare coins last Thursday from the east-end Montreal Coin and Stamp Exchange.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Larry Cahan, assigned to the Vancouver Canucks by the parent New York Rangers of the National Hockey League, arrived here Tuesday.

The 32-year-old defenceman, sent to Vancouver to replace rookie defenceman Bob Plager, called up last week by the Rangers, motored cross-country from New York blizzards which delayed his arrival here.

Search Goes On In Bitter Cold

MOOSE JAW (CP)—More than 200 searchers braved 20-below-zero temperatures and 20-mile-an-hour winds today as they continued the search for John Merriam, 30, of Belle Plaine, Sask., who disappeared a week ago west of Moose Jaw.

Mr. Merriam disappeared when he abandoned a car along a highway after it bogged down in axle-deep snowdrifts southwest of Caron.

PAYING HOMAGE to Sir Winston Churchill's memory at Westminster Hall in London today were thousands of mourners who filed past the catafalque in two lines. Funeral is Saturday.

Ottawa Dinner Details Given

MONTREAL (CP)—Raymond Denis, former executive assistant to Immigration Minister Tremblay, testified to the Dorion inquiry today that the bill for a dinner attended by ministerial aides was picked up by one of his two guests.

The 32-year-old lawyer said he took Guy Masson, self-styled organization committeeman for the federal Liberal party, and an unnamed third person to one of the "regular" monthly dinners for ministerial assisants.

Masson has testified that the dinner was on April 8, 1964 at the swank La Touraine Restaurant in Ottawa.

Mr. Denis, beginning his testimony before the inquiry, said that it had happened before that guests were present at these dinner meetings but it was "not usual."

He had had no comments about the presence of Mr. Masson and the "friend." Masson hadn't paid but the "other person accompanying him" had done so.

He said this also had occurred occasionally in the past.

Mr. Denis said the executive assistants were discussing bilingualism that evening and he though Masson could make a contribution.

Mr. Denis said that while he had been in Ottawa — first as executive assistant to former justice minister Chevrier and later to Mr. Tremblay — he made appointments for Masson with different executive assistants and special assistants.

Noting that Masson testified Denis had helped get him government contracts, Denis said he may have helped by telling these persons that Masson was a Liberal.

He had first known Masson in 1959 or 1960 when both were members of a provincial electoral regulations committee.

He had lost sight of Masson until he went to Ottawa in 1963 when Masson looked him up.

He said Masson had got a federal contract from the former Progressive Conservative government and came to Ottawa every two or three weeks.

Masson had always called him up and he had been happy to meet Masson and have a drink with him.

Paris Strike Cuts Power, Transport

PARIS (Reuters)—Thousands of Parisians struggled to work on foot, in army trucks or by hitch-hiking today as the first stages of a two-day state employees' strike cut rail and bus transport to a trickle.

At midnight Tuesday night, the country's 350,000 railworkers went on strike along with 200,000 post office workers, 300,000 teachers and nearly 1,000,000 more including garbage collectors, civil servants, bus crews and subway workers.

Air services were to be restricted for 24 hours from 7 a.m., but mainly within France. International flights were not expected to be affected.

The section of the strike expected to have the greatest effect on the public will be the walkout of 220,000 gas and electricity workers at 9 p.m.

This will cause a cut in power about the same time as the railworkers return to work around midnight tonight.

The effect on France's rail system will be the same as a prolongation of the rail strike, since much of it is electrified.

SUPPLY HOSPITALS

Strikers have promised to leave 15,000 men on duty to assure electricity for hospitals, schools and other vital services.

The stoppage was the second large-scale protest by state employees in seven weeks against the government's wage restraint policy.

In the last big strike Dec. 11, railway workers, teachers, electricity, gas, postal and mine workers stopped work almost simultaneously for 24 hours.

But this time the unions have decided to stagger their protest in an attempt to paralyse state-run industries for two days.

Union leaders are demanding an immediate four-per-cent pay increase for their members.

Wilson Leads Two-Mile Line To Honor Churchill Memory

LONDON (CP) — A line of shivering, solemn mourners stretching back some two miles—led by Britain's Prime Minister Wilson — filed slowly in double file past the coffin of Sir Winston Churchill today.

The body of Britain's 90-year-old man-of-the-century lay in state amid the cold, hushed grandeur of ancient Westminster Hall, the first commoner to lie in state there in this century.

Wilson, his wife and Members of Parliament were the first of many thousands who during the next three days will pass through the hall in tribute to one of England's greatest sons.

Churchill's body lay in a closed coffin on a 10-foot high black-draped catafalque a few steps from the House of Commons which was his historic stage. The coffin will lie there until the state funeral in St. Paul's Cathedral Saturday.

Against the backdrop of great gothic windows, the catafalque held the eye like a magnet.

Towering over the coffin was a golden cross, sparkling in the light of six candles in as many giant candlesticks, one at each corner of the catafalque, one at the head, the sixth at the foot.

Their heads bowed, four motionless officers of Churchill's Royal Navy and Royal Marines stood at the four corners of the catafalque.

Four London police constables—two men and two women—also stood silently near the catafalque, between it and the people as they shuffled past.

Overlooking the scene, high against the west wall, was one naval officer.

Every 20 minutes the guard of honor changed. Army officers and officers of the RAF replaced the officers from the navy and marines.

A gigantic Union Jack covered the coffin. Atop it was a blue and gold cushion. Upon the cushion rested Sir Winston's insignia as a Knight of the Garter—the collar, the star and the garter itself.

Before the catafalque, the prime minister and Mrs. Wilson stopped, turned and bowed.

Then they turned and walked slowly through the hall and out into New Palace Yard.

It was a cold grey morning in keeping with the occasion. A northeast wind whipped in from the nearby River Thames and the distant bleak North Sea, threatening snow.

The prime minister and his wife were followed by Herbert Bowden, leader of the House of Commons, and Mrs. Bowden. Behind them came peers and members of the House of Commons.

Among the first to pay tribute was Field Marshal Earl Alex-

THEY WEPT, PRAYED

'Least We Could Do,' Says Woman at Bier

By DOUG MARSHALL

LONDON (CP)—The famous and the ordinary people of Britain paid their last tributes to Sir Winston Churchill as he lay in state today.

Old men and young girls, veterans with decorations and peers in frock coats, generals and simple commoners — all were strangely moved. Some prayed, others wept.

Most just shuffled past in silence, awed by the dignity, simplicity and power of the scene. Sir Winston's last return to Westminster was grand and sad at the same time.

"That was the least we could do" said an elderly woman as she left the huge 800-year-old Westminster Hall.

Every 20 minutes a fifth officer raps out a command that shatters sound above the muffled movements of feet — and with slow precision the watch changes.

Members of both houses of Parliament, the royal household and the diplomatic corps were the first to pay homage when the hall's oaken door swung open at 9 a.m.

While limousines of the dignitaries wheeled into New Palace Yard in a never-ending procession, a queue of more than 3,000 ordinary people wound back inside the Parliament Buildings, snaked through a Thamesside park, over Lambeth Bridge and down Lambeth Embankment on the south side of the river. By 11 a.m. when the public was first allowed to go in, the queue was more than a mile long.

First in the queue was 17-year-old Nick Hutchings of the London suburb of Barnes. He wore the badge of a nuclear disarmer and had been waiting with a sleeping bag since just before midnight.

"I think Churchill was the greatest man the world has ever known," he said.

DRINK HOT TEA

The people who waited, all warmly wrapped, drank scalding tea from thermos flasks and read the morning newspapers.

Hundreds of police, many with walkie-talkies strapped on their shoulders, directed crowds to the end of the queue and chalked up notices on blackboards.

Workers erected tents that will serve refreshments for those waiting during the next three days.

'Lay Off Case' Favreau Said

MONTREAL (CP) — Raymond Rouleau testified today that his brother, Liberal MP Guy Rouleau, told him that Justice Minister Favreau had given instructions to lay off the Rivard case because it was "too hot."

He also told the Dorion inquiry that he is afraid of narcotics conspiracy suspect Lucien Rivard and "his gang."

The Dorion inquiry is investigating allegations of attempted bribery and influence-peddling by federal ministerial aides aimed at getting Rivard released from Bordeaux Jail on bail. (See also Page 3.)

Montreal lawyer Pierre Lamontagne, acting for the U.S. government in Rivard's extradition hearings here, has testified that he was offered $20,000 to drop opposition to bail for Rivard.

Raymond Rouleau, 39-year-old insurance adjuster, said he was told by his brother: "Don't touch that (the Rivard case). It's too dangerous."

He said he agreed to Mrs. Rivard's request that he approach his MP-brother, then parliamentary secretary to Prime Minister Pearson, to look into the possibilities of obtaining bail for Rivard.

He said it was his personal opinion that government authorities in Ottawa could bring pressure to bear on the judge in the extradition hearings. The judge is Mr. Justice Francois Caron.

Knew Three Accused Murderers

Mr. Rouleau, in the witness box for 2½ hours, said he knew Robert Collin and Maurice Poirier and had met Robert Gignac once.

These three are accused of capital murder in the Sept. 17 gangland slaying here of night-club doorman Rocky Brunette.

Mr. Rouleau said that about two weeks after he had asked his brother to look into the Rivard affair, Guy had advised him that Mr. Favreau had given instructions to drop the matter.

Ross Drouin, Conservative party counsel, read from an RCMP report of an interview with Raymond Rouleau which said Mr. Rouleau had told the police that Guy had informed him that he had been advised by Mr. Favreau to forget about the Rivard case because it was "too hot."

Mr. Rouleau said this RCMP account was correct.

Mr. Rouleau, president of the Mille-Iles school board, said he had told his brother he was a friend of Rivard's and that Rivard would help him in municipal elections.

He corroborated the testimony of Rivard that he and Rivard had flown to Ottawa June 17—Rivard had paid both fares — to see Guy Rouleau about the transfer of convict Bob Tremblay from a British Columbia to a Montreal penitentiary.

He said Guy met Rivard in the lounge of the Chateau Laurier hotel in Ottawa but that Rivard had not seen or talked to any minister that day.

He also said his brother was reluctant from the beginning to get involved in the Rivard affair.

'I Didn't Want to Know About It'

He said he (Raymond) had absented himself from the talk because "I didn't want to know anything about it."

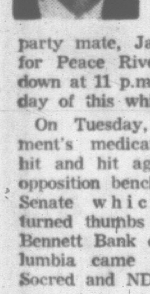

RCMP counsel Norman Mathews asked whether Rivard had seen or talked to any cabinet minister while he was in Ottawa June 17 with Raymond Rouleau.

"Definitely not," Mr. Rouleau said, adding that he had been with Rivard all the time during this visit.

Evidence was entered Tuesday to the effect that Rivard had seen a "minister" in Ottawa June 17.

He said Mrs. Marie Rivard, Rivard's 32-year-old wife, and Eddy Lechasseur, 33, fraud suspect and close friend of Rivard, visited him to ask his assistance.

In Our HOUSE

By Arthur Mayse

The fourth round of the throne speech debate finds me with a slight ringing in my ears, result of listening to seven Tuesday contributions, each the length of a revival sermon but not all as lively.

Our damn-the-torpedos premier seems to be rushing the ship of state along at top speed; unless he relents, we expect another late night on Thursday.

Meanwhile, Socred Waldo Skillings of Victoria led off today, picking up where his party mate, Jacob F. Huhn for Peace River North, sat down at 11 p.m. on the third day of this whirligig debate.

On Tuesday, the government's medicare plan was hit and hit again from the opposition benches. Also, the Senate which last year turned thumbs down on the Bennett Bank of British Columbia came under cold Socred and NDP scrutiny.

Simplest, and certainly most drastic proposal for dealing with the Grand Old Men of Ottawa, came from durable Frank Calder, NDP member for Atlin and hereditary chief of the Skeena River Nishkas.

Mr. Calder's recipe: whip the rug out from under 'em.

"This is one body of our democratic system we can well do without," he said. "If we can legislate for the operation and administration of our provincial affairs without the sanction of a Senate, so can the federal administration."

In a spirit of agreement not too common between factions in the House, Cyril Shelford, SC, Omineca, gave partial support to Mr. Calder's off-with-their-heads proposal.

His view, he told MLAs when he rose to speak for a riding to be covered only by a 1,500-mile swing, is that the

U.S. Money Aided Grits, Says John D

SASKATOON (CP) — Opposition Leader Diefenbaker threatened Tuesday night to unveil charges that American money helped Liberal political campaigns in 1962 and 1963.

Mr. Diefenbaker said at a Progressive Conservative reception on his way to Ottawa: "An American organizer in Canada under an assumed name had told the Liberals how to attack me.

"I kept silent because I did not want to bring about disunity. The Liberal press started these scurrilous attacks against me. I've never told the story of the 1963 election but that is going to be told soon."

He would not elaborate further but referred to "ministers who left his cabinet because their ambition was greater than their loyalty."

CIVIL RIGHTS TRIO ARRESTED

SELMA, Ala. (AP)—Three white civil rights workers were arrested today after they refused to get away from a line of Negroes seeking to register as voters.

Sheriff's deputies took the three in custody after a U.S. marshal ordered them away from the prospective voters.

BATTLE OF BRITAIN PLANES TOO ANCIENT

R.A.F. to Salute 'At Zero Feet'

LONDON (AP) — "The few" whom Sir Winston Churchill immortalized in one of his wartime speeches will salute his passing at ground level.

The RAF reluctantly decided Tuesday that the men and machines who shot the vaunted German Luftwaffe from the skies over Britain 24 years ago are too old to salute from the air.

Since Churchill died last Sunday, the RAF has been checking up on two remaining Spitfires and one Hurricane. It was hoped that they might be able to fly over the capital and dip in salute as the old warrior's body was borne up the River Thames on its last journey.

Flt. Lt. "Nobby" Armstrong—a small boy during the 1940 Battle of Britain—test-flew one of the old Spitfire fighters Tuesday.

The test went off fine. But eventually the RAF decided the risk was too great. Authorities recalled that in a 1959 flypast commemorating the Battle of Britain, a Spitfire in the lead position made a forced landing.

A defence ministry spokesman explained:

"To fly a single-engine aircraft of this age over London at a low level and in winter weather would involve a risk to the public."

Saturday, the whine of the old piston planes will be replaced by the scream of 16 modern jet-powered Lightning fighters flying over to salute Sir Winston.

And on the ground—"at zero feet"—13 RAF pilots who flew in the Battle of Britain will march in the funeral procession of the man who said of them: "Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few."

Jedgin' from past history, Gen. Khanh shouldn't change his postal address yet.

Most of the day, however, was given to less hellfire proposals. In fact, Speaker William Harvey Murray's gavel lay idle save for an evening rap or two. So far in a session marred only by minor exchanges, we are chiefly reminded of the Legislature's referee when he paces in black gown and tricorn hat into his oaken cave at the head of the House.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner did let the switchblade peep from the velvet glove once, in an afternoon exchange with NDP David Barrett, Dewdney, over the B.C. probation service.

Otherwise, his contribution to debate flowed smoothly along, pleasant as always to the listener, but just a trifle short on sparkle.

Trade and Commerce Minister Ralph Loffmark, his 1964 portfolio still scarce-scarred, launched the evening sitting with a pitch for a hotted-up trade with Japan, then moved on somewhat at random from forest products to agriculture to power.

"Each salmon running up the Fraser River is worth $200 in unused power," declared Mr. Loffmark. "On the proceeds of that power, if we ignored the salmon, we could retire all the commercial fishermen in B.C. . . . not that we intend to do that!"

(When he is older in his ministry, Mr. Loffmark will know better than to scare the gizzard out of our commercial fishing industry — worth $90 million a year—with such sinister illustrations. The fishermen are worried enough about power encroachment already.)

In fairness, though, Mr. Loffmark's speech made the best listening of the day, and his comparisons never fail to be graphic.

GATT to Discuss Auto Tariff Deal

GENEVA (Reuters) — A Canada-United States plan to banish automobile tariffs at the manufacturers' level will be discussed by members of the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade at their March 2 session, a spokesman said today.

But the spokesman of the 60-country GATT emphasized there was no formal protest by any member-country about the proposed duty elimination on vehicles and original assembly parts.

GATT executive secretary Eric Wyndham of Britain suggested the Canada-U.S. deal be included on the agenda and considered in the light of the rights and obligations of GATT members.

ander of Tunis, one of the wartime prime minister's greatest commanders and former Governor-General of Canada.

After the members of Parliament came members of the royal household, the diplomatic corps, high commissioners and senior government officials.

Behind them a huge crowd edged forward—people from all over Britain, the Commonwealth and foreign lands.

The hall will be opened to the public on a 23-hour-a-day basis.

When the great oaken doors swung open to the public at 9 a.m., the line stretched for three-quarters of a mile and police said more than 5,000 were waiting. It grew rapidly and thousands were in the queue before noon.

Although it was a school day, many children of school age were in the crowd.

The public shuffled through the hall in two lines on either side of the catafalque.

Many halted before the bier, turned, bowed, turned again and moved on.

The silence was remarkable. A few women wept silently.

CANADA RATES THIRD ON FRIENDSHIP LIST

LONDON (Reuters)—The British public regards the United States as Britain's best friend, The Daily Telegraph reports.

Australia and Canada rank second and third.

The findings were determined by a Gallup poll of representative cross section of Britons, who were asked: "Which country do you regard as Britain's best friend?"

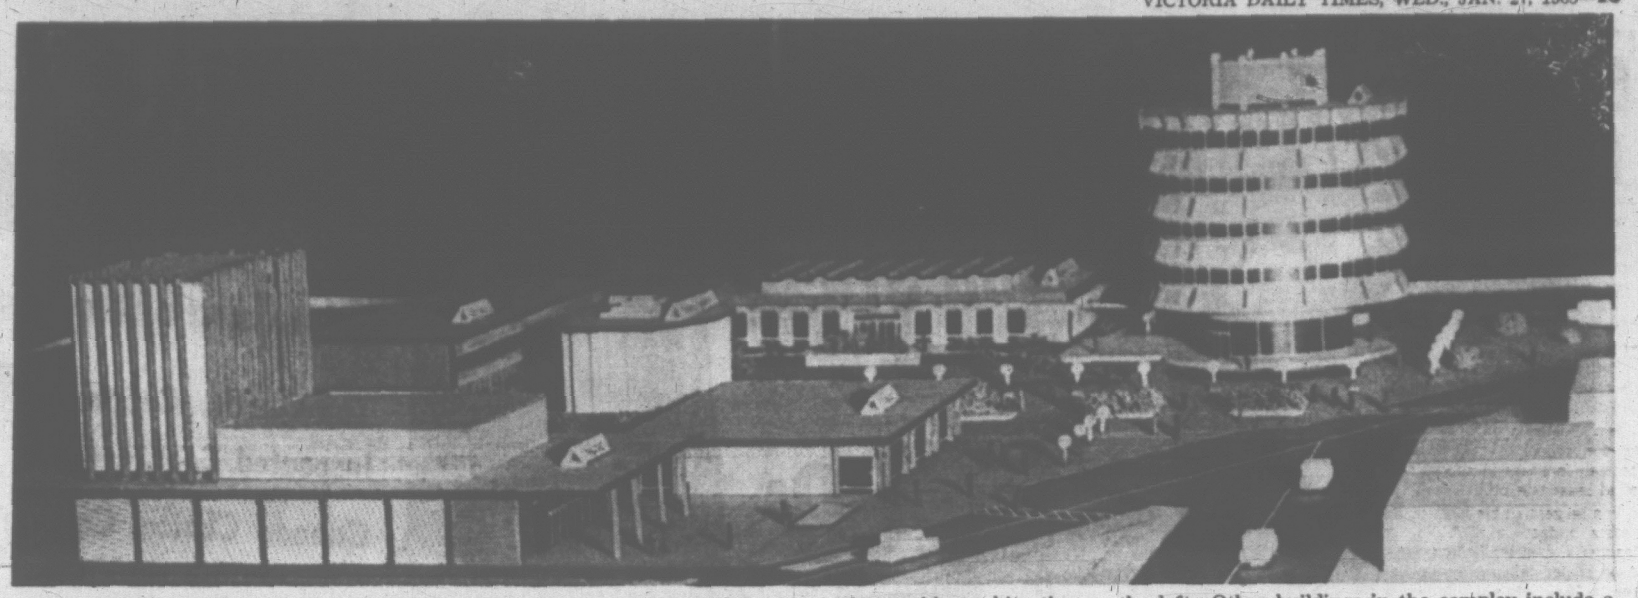

Replies in percentages were: The United States, 56; Australia, 13; Canada, 8.

Other European countries accounted for seven per cent and other British Commonwealth nations for two per cent. Another one per cent voted for African or Asian countries, and 13 per cent voted "don't know."

Protection Asked For Search Groups

ALBERNI (CP)—Mayor Fred Bishop says search and rescue groups who look for lost hunters and do other hazardous types of jobs should be covered by insurance in case of injury.

He told council it was "unthinkable" that such groups are not covered while rendering voluntary service.

FIRST STAGE TENDERS were called this week for the new provincial courthouse and government offices in Duncan. The tenders, which will be opened Feb. 19, are for excavation work and frame construction of the two buildings. They can be seen (right and centre top) on this architect's model of the proposed Duncan civic centre. Government offices will be housed in the round building, court and court offices in the flat building to the left. Other buildings in the complex include a two-storey city hall, with a free-standing council chamber in front of the square, a civic centre and a library.

EXPANSION STARTS ON VETERANS' HALL

Work started Tuesday on a $45,000 renovation and expansion project for the Sidney hall of Branch 302, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Association.

The project includes construction of a parking lot on the north side of the hall, installation of a new heating unit, alterations to the office and renovations to the recreational area.

William J. Larnick, secretary-manager, said the project would be completed in late spring.

New officers elected at an annual meeting: Jack Swedberg, president; George DeKalver, first vice-president; George Coward, Lyle MisKiman, Ray Hague, Joe Thomas and Frank Perkins, executive committee.

Plaques were awarded to Herman Slade and Ernest Day for outstanding service to the association.

ISLAND DIGEST

Campsite Sought For Cowichan L.

LAKE COWICHAN—Lake Cowichan Chamber of Commerce has asked the provincial cabinet to establish a "Class A" campsite at the lake.

Ed. McBride, chamber director, said the recreation department last spring declined help to the lake Kiwanis Club in its development of a 172-acre park on the south shore of the lake.

The department said it was interested in a larger project.

Mr. McBride said the department is examining the possibility of developing a major campsite of some 600 acres in the Cottonwood Creek delta area northwest of Youbou.

He said there is an ever-increasing demand for weekend camping facilities at the lake.

NEW HIGHWAY

A general meeting of the chamber Tuesday night endorsed a resolution renewing a demand for a new Cowichan Lake highway from the Trans-Canada at Duncan.

Five new directors were elected: Alan Anderson, Tom Rogers, Ernie Clode, Ken Frost and Mack Wise.

The anual installation banquet was set for Thursday, Feb. 25 at Mesachie Lake hall when the guest speaker will be Don Saunders, assistant to the B.C. Forest Products Ltd. president, Vancouver. Mr. Saunders is a former manager of the BCFP mill at Youbou.

Big Effort Due This Year To Cut Sanscha Hall Debt

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Sidney and North Saanich Community Hall Association is making a major effort this year to reduce the debt on its community hall.

The program includes:

A drive next month to increase membership from 300 to 1,000.

A Klondyke Night on Feb. 20 raise funds.

Increased rentals for the hall.

A Dominion Day festival to raise at least $2,000.

Alan Spooner, president of Sanscha, told the annual meeting Monday the debt on the hall has been reduced since 1958 from $22,500 to $7,100.

"In three years we hope to wipe out the debt," he said.

20 GROUPS

The hall, valued at $80,000, caters to more than 20 organizations in Sidney and North Saanich.

Mr. Spooner said rentals will be slightly increased this year because only $81 profit from this source was recorded last year. The present charge for the hall is $25 a night.

RE-ELECTED

The meeting re-elected Mr. Spooner president. Bob Day is first vice-president; Col. R. O. Bull, second vice-president; and Ken Soles, third vice-president.

Directors are: D. K. Archibald, Mrs. W. W. Gardner, N. A. Hale, J. Kingerlee, Mrs. A. R. Spooner, A. W. Freeman, Frank Minns, Mrs. J. Mitchell, E. W. North, Frank Edlington, Andries Boas, Peter Russell, Mrs. D. Thomas, George Laing and J. R. Hannan.

New Demands for Services Seen by Oak Bay Engineer

Increases in population and leisure time during the next 20 years will bring problems in planning for traffic, apartments and recreational land in Oak Bay.

These are the areas pondered by the municipality's engineer and planner Geoffrey White in his annual report to council.

Oak Bay will have to become concerned with urban specialization.

The engineer said the municipality will see a demand for a great deal of improvement to services in which it is deficient because of its residential nature.

BIG IMPACT

Improved retirement schemes across Canada are expected to have a great impact on the Greater Victoria area.

The demand for smaller houses and apartments will keep on rising, Mr. White forecasts.

The municipality during the past eight years has seen an increase of 20 per cent in its population to 17,400.

The Capital Region Plan has estimated a population of 20,000 for the municipality by 1976, but the growth is already increasing by 45 per cent of the estimate.

And only 35 per cent of the increase time, which was set in 1956, has elapsed.

30,000 PEOPLE

"If we provide sufficient areas for apartments to meet the demands of those wishing to live in Oak Bay, then within 20 years it is likely our population will be nearer to 30,000 than 20,000," Mr. White said.

But there are only 400 single-family dwelling lots remaining in the municipality.

These facts have produced the three planning problems.

Increases in living standards and inevitable growth of parts of Oak Bay means an increase in cars.

Recent figures reveal the number of families with three cars today equals the number with two cars 15 years ago.

Traffic will increase 6 per cent per year.

The result would be a doubling of traffic in 12 years and a quadrupling in 30 years.

The engineer recommended preparation of a master traffic plan.

It should be revised every seven years.

A long-term capital budget for its financing should follow.

Mr. White recommends the municipality attract more apartments and enlarge the depths of several existing apartment areas.

"New apartments are likely to be the only major development of our assets," he stated.

STRICT RULES

He pointed out regulations governing development of apartment sites in the municipality are more stringent in Oak Bay.

And developers are finding eight storeys the minimum for economic rents at the present time.

Mr. White suggests reviews of depths of apartment zones along Oak Bay Ave. and Haultain St. are suggested.

A public hearing is also suggested to explain to ratepayers the use of the land north of Willows Park, now zoned for apartments.
